BELIEVED CHICAGO SUICIDE IS YOUNG OLSON

PROGRAM FOR SHORT SESSION IS COMPLETED

Lawmakers Prepared To Turn Attention To Some Sort Of Tax Reduction, Farm Relief Legislation, Disposal Of Alien Property And Other Measures.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—On the theory that the country is in no dire need of legislation, congress today perfected an unpretentious program for the short session of the sixty-ninth congress, opening Monday.

The high lights of the program include:

1—An effort to adopt some sort of tax reduction to absorb all or part of the expected $400,000,000 treasury surplus.

2—Consideration of any farm relief legislation upon which the farm bloc desires action, a revival of the McNary Haugen prices stabilization measure—defeated at the last session.

3—Attention to measures which have been pending for years during the consideration of more important legislation, including action for disposal of $270,000,000 of alien property, the $100,000,000 rivers and harbill, the bill increasing the salaries of federal judges and two treaties, one establishing peace with Turkey and the other outlawing the use of poison gas in warfare.

4—Swift action on government appropriation bills to prevent any possibility of a filibuster from insurgents, who might attempt thus to force an extra session of congress after the present congress adjourns March 4

Three "Dry" Bills.

There is one issue upon which the leaders are not yet fully decided—prohibition. There are pending three bills to strengthen the government's enforcement agencies, backed by drys and opposed by wets. The wet representative in the senate, by their opposition to the measures, prevented their consideration last session, and they say that if the measures are revived they will force debate and votes upon their wet bills to amend the Volstead act, legalize beer and wines and change the eighteenth amendment.

CLAUDEL NEW FRENCH ENVOY

Cabinet Confirms Appointment Of Successor To Berenger.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—The cabinet tonight officially confirmed the appointment of M. Paul Claudel as ambassador to the United States. The United States government today notified France that M. Claudel would be persona grata.

M. Claudel is at present French ambassador to Japan. He is known in France as a trained diplomat, having entered the diplomatic service in the school of diplomats and one of his earliest foreign assignments being that of French vice-consul in New York.

M. Claudel has acquired some repute as a poet.

The appointment of M. Claudel is accepted as an indication that the French government will not attempt further debt negotiations, but will make an endeavor to secure ratification of the Mellon-Berenger agreements.

Shaw In Thick Of New Fight; Raps Smoking

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(INS)—George Bernard Shaw is in the thick of the fight tonight and nothing pleases shaw more than a good fight.

Shaw started his latest rumpus by writing a letter to the Morning Post declaring that smokers are a nuisance and the sale of tobacco should be prohibited.

This statement aroused a furore and Rev. Herbert Dunnico, M. P., went so far in his attack upon Shaw as to declare that he favored prosecuting Shaw for "trying to throw us back into the dark ages."

This was brought to Shaw's attention and caused a chuckle. "I have written that smokers are a nuisance and there is nothing more to say," he asserted.

Lord Ashfield, head of the London Underground system and the General Omnibus Co., who recently provided more accommodations for smokers on the London subways, took up the defense of the smokers.

"Smokers are not a nuisance," said Lord Ashfield. "Smoking makes men mellow and contented. Non-smokers are sour and dour."

"Sherlock Holmes would merely smile at Shaw's statement," said Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Rev. Herbert Dunnico admitted that the church formerly frowned upon tobacco, "but it has progressed since then and abandoned heresy."

Killed Man To Get Money To Take Out Girls

MEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 4.—(INS)—"I fired the three shots. I was dead broke and I had to have money to take out my girl friends."

Thus Herbert Gleason, Jamaica Plains youth, arrested in Farmington, Me., today, confessed to the killing of James Monagle, a Medford storekeeper, last Saturday midnight.

Today he stood in the shadow of the electric chair—it was his twentieth birthday.

Arraignment on charge of first degree murder followed in which Gleason waived a hearing and was held without bond until Monday, December 11.

Gleason steadfastly refused to divulge the name of his companion who participated with him in the holdup. Police investigation, however, tonight revealed the name of a youth who now is being sought.

St. Joe Club To Amarillo

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec 4.—(U. P.)—Dale Gear tonight was re-elected president of the Western league for one year by officials of the league in conference here.

He was granted a substantial increase in salary.

The St. Joseph club, of which E. B Tracey is president, was granted permission by the league to transfer the franchise to Amarillo, Tex., Tulsa and Oklahoma City failed in their efforts to withdraw from the circuit to enter the Texas league.

Discover Rich Diamond Mine

RIO JANIERO, Dec 4.—(INS)—Discovery of a rich diamond mine—possibly the richest mine in the world—was reported today from the state of Minas Geraes.

The mine, which is said to have been found on an estate owned by Home Secretary Castella, is estimated to hold 20,000,000 cubic meters of diamond ore.

The estimated value of the mine is $5,000,000,000.

Suit Filed Against Marjorie Rambeau Totalling $100,000

NEW YORK, Dec 4.—(I. N. S.)—Mrs. Mabel Manton, who recently divorced her actor husband, William K. Manton, by an interlocutory decree, has decided to press her suit for $100,000 damages against Marjorie Rambeau, stage and screen star. Miss Rambeau was named as co-respondent.

The papers in the $100,000 suit against the actress were filed today.

MOTHER-IN-LAW DIES OF SHOCK

Chadron Woman Expires After Being Told Of Death Of Son-In-Law.

CHADRON, Neb., Dec. 4.—(UP)—Within eight hours after his death in an automobile accident, the mother-in-law of D. J. Perry, 48, Chadron garageowner, died today from shock.

Perry is thought to have fallen from his car while driving it into his garage early today. A neighbor found Perry's body in the street in front of his home. The car had run intothe front yard and crashed into a tree.

Mrs. Mary F. Brooks, 69, Perry's mother-in-law, died today, a few hours after having been told of Perry's death. Physicians attributed her death to shock.

Perry had operated a garage here since his retirement as a railroad man two years ago. He is survived by his widow, three brothers, two sisters and his parents, Mr. and Mrs W. M. Perry of Long Hill, Ia.

QUEEN GLAD TO BE HOME

Marie Returns To Bucharest And Is Relieved To Find Conditions Not As Critical As Some Reports Indicated.

GOES TO SUBURBAN PALACE FOR REST

Finds Rigors Of American Journey Have Exacted Considerable Toll From Her Strength—Welcomed By King.

NICHOLAS BARRED.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(INS)—(Sunday).—Prince Nicholas of Rumania, just returned to Europe after touring the United States with Queen Marie and Princes Ileana, has been forbidden to enter Bucharest, according to a dispatch published here today in the Sunday Express have been issued by ex-Premier Bratiano that the prince must remain in a town some miles from the capital, the Express correspondent stated.

Recent dispatches dealing with reported efforts to force King Ferdinand from the throne have stated that Bratiano, while holding no official position, is the power now practically in control of the political situation in Rumania.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Queens are of but moral fibre after all. So Queen Marie demonstrated that tonight on her return to Bucharest. She maintained her regal enthusiasm as she drove through narrow streets amidst loud acclaim and a cold, sleety rain, but when her entourage passed through the gates of the suburban palace at Cotrocent there was no denying that she relaxed with an air that seemed to indicate she was saying to herself: "There, I'm glad all that's over."

The queen has retired to her suburban palace for a long rest, it is said, as she has found that the rigors of her American journey have

Mother And Four Children Die In A Fire

STRADER, W. Va., Dec. 1.—(U. P.)—A mother and four children were burned to death when their home was destroyed today, two weeks after the father lost his life in a coal mine accident.

The dead were Mrs. Velmah Tenney Koon, 28, and her children, Hartzel, Thurman, Lawrence and Lethamay, whose ages ranged from 12 to 1 year.

The family lived in a house of the Green Coal Co. There is no fire department here, and efforts of neighbors to extinguish the blaze were unsuccessful. It is thought it started from an overturned oil lamp.

In addition to the Koon home, a vacant house adjoining was destroyed, total loss being placed at $2,500.

Hold Woman In Shooting Of Her Rival

SHREVEPORT, La, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Mrs Thomas Smith, 45, of Eldorado, Ark., was held here tonight on charges of shooting with intent to kill while her husband, prominent Eldorado oil magnate, and his woman companion, Mrs. L. R. Simmons, 30, lay in a critical condition in a local sanitarium.

Six bullets were pumped into the bodies of the pair as they dismounted from an automobile at Vivian, La., near here, this afternoon. Both are said to be in a critical condition.

Mrs. Smith refused to make a statement other than to the effect her husband and Mrs. Simmons had been intimate for two years.

Mrs. Smith and her daughter, Mrs. Maidie Simpson, followed the husband and father here to a rooming house where Smith and Mrs Simmons were said to have registered.

EXPECT REVOLT AT COVENTION FARM BUREAU

CHICAGO, Dec 4—(I N S)—The vanguard of the imposing section of American agriculture represented by the Farm Bureau Federation was arriving tonight for the eighth annual convention which opens Monday.

Out of the three day meeting, which will have as its high light the address Wednesday of former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, was generally expected to issue a virtual demand of the administration that some comprehensive farm relief be granted.

A direct slap would be tendered the administration, according to indications given by delegates gathering here tonight.

Look for Revolt.

"While the federation is non-political," is was said "the issues for which it stands are such they

LLOYD-GEORGE IS FEARFUL ACTUAL WAR WITH CHINA

Denounces 'Interests' Seeking 'Impulsive and Provocative Action.'

Open Secret That British Cabinet Divided As To Policy to Pursue.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—The spotlight of political controversy was thrown upon the Chinese situation tonight.

David Lloyd-George brought the Chinese situation to the foreground with a frank warning to the British public that it may soon find itself involved in actual warfare in China.

In a speech at Bradford Lloyd-George said openly what other opponents of the government have been whispering for several days. He declared that pressure is being brought to bear upon the British government for "impulsive and provocative action" in China, which might easily lead to the necessity for large scale naval operations there, with consequent additional burdens upon the shoulders of the taxpayers

Denounces "Interests."

Lloyd-George denounced the "interests" which are at work to bring about a demonstration in China. "Foreigners are suffering from their own greed in China and the present system is one that promotes rebellion and fosters brigandage," the liberal leader declared He denied that communists are behind the present chaos in China.

It has been an open secret for several days that the cabinet is not a unit on the British course of action in China, for there have been demands by those ministers representing the "die hard" faction for a great naval demonstration in China and it is even reported in some circles that steps already have been taken which may commit the British government to wider activity in China than it has ever undertaken before.

In government circles the speech of Lloyd-George was characterized

Rumors Says Former President Of Mexico Held At Tucson.

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 4.—(INS)—Rumors were persistent here today that Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico and alleged leader of the present Yaqui Indian revolt along the west coast, was arrested at an early hour this morning when he arrived here overland with several other Mexicans whose names were not given.

No verification of the arrest report was forthcoming from local federal officials, but department of justice officials here were shrouding their movements in secrecy tonight.

Gen. Francisco Borquez, commander of the sixty-fourth cavalry, of Nogales, was given papers at the mimigration office, Nogales this afternoon permitting himself and a Mexican secret service man to come to Tucscon, according to a long distance call to a local newspaper.

It was rumored that de la Huerta was arrested for violation of neutrality laws.

Mist Spreads Over East Part of State

According to reports received by the Burlington no rain or snow had fallen in the state up to midnight. No precipitation was reported in the western part of the state.

Flood Waters Threaten Levee On West Coast

COLUSA, Calif., Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—Flood waters of the Sacramento river tonight threatened to break at any moment through the emergency levee at Hamilton Bend, six miles northwest of Colusa, and inundate thousands of acres of thickly populated land.

A force of 150 men was at the levee, working frantically to prevent enlargement of a break reported to already have attained a width of twenty feet.

WITNESS GIVES NAVY SECRETS

WILBUR'S GAG ORDER DRAWS COURT FIRE

Justice Admits Order As Defense Testimony; Government Counsel Characterizes Developments As "All Bunk."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—National defense secrets with the names of possible enemy nations deleted were placed before the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial jury today

Rear Admiral J. R. Robison, U. S. N., retired, with a captain's rank, related the famous Japanese war scare reports of 1921, which he said he had told to E. L. Doheny to persuade the oil multi-millionaire to bid on the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, contract.

Secretary of Navy Wilbur's "gag order" to Robison, forbidding him to give any confidential information drew fire from the court Justice Adolph Hoehling, in a prepared decision, admitted the order as defense testimony, asserting the court itself was the judge of the propriety of testimony offered, and directed Robison to give the facts, withholding damaging names if necessary.

Doheny, 71, was sent to bed by his physician, Dr. Gerry Morgan, immediately after the trial recessed at noon over the weekend. An operation has been performed on the oil magnate's infected left arm and his strength must be conserved if he is able to attend the trial, which is expected to last at least two more weeks.

The second week of the trial of Doheny and A. B. Fall, 65-year-old ex-secretary of the interior, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United tSates in the Doheny to Fall $100,000 loan and the Pearl Harbor and Elk Hills oil transactions, closed dramatically.

Robison Only Witness.

Robison was the only witness, spending two hours on the stand, continuing his story of the patriotic and national defense necessities which caused the navy to inaugurate the oil plans.

Bank Bandits Shoot Officers

ROCHESTER, Minn., Dec. 4.—(INS)—Six armed bandits held up and robbed the Omstead County Bank and Trust Co., here of $16,000 in cash and negotiable securities today. Two policemen, answering the burglar alarm, were shot down and seriously wounded by the bandit's guard outside the bank.

The bandits escaped in two cars.

Hit-and-Run Car Driven By Woman Saturday Night

Police were called to investigate an accident at Seventeenth and Van Dorn streets Saturday evening, when an out-of-town car left the scene of the crash after colliding with a small coupe occupied by two persons. Neither was injured.

I. D. Frye, 2740 F street, driver of the coupe, told police the other car attempted to pass him on the intersection and struck his vehicle as he began a left hand turn. Both cars were traveling south. Emily Dietrick, 1636 M street was an occupant of the car, which was shoved fifteen feet to the southeast curb by the force of the impact.

The unknown car was driven by a woman. It was driven east on Van Dorn after the crash, and a few moments later returned to the intersection, but did not stop.

Carmi Thompson Presents Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—Col. Carmi Thompson today presented to President Coolidge a personal report on his recent survey of conditions in the Philippine Islands.

He declined to make public any of his recommendations.

The president and Thompson had luncheon together and discussed the Philippine situation at considerable length.

A NATIONWIDE HUNT FOR BOY MAY BE ENDED

Former Wisconsin Resident Partially Identifies Body At Morgue As That Of Suspected Slayer Of Clara Olson--Find Girl Came To Death By A Blow On The Head.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—The body of a suicide in the morgue here is that of Erdman Olson, for whom a nationwide search has been under way as the slayer of Clara Olson, his sweetheart, Coroner Wolff declared today following a partial identification by a Wisconsin man named George Birk.

Birk informed authorities here he had been a friend of the Albert Olson family for years and was almost sure of his identification, but desired to reserve positive statements pending the arrival of young Olson's father, who is expected in the city momentarily to view the body.

The body has been in morgue here since November 5, when it was taken from a room in the New Tremont hotel. Hotel attaches said on that date a young man registered under the name of John Carr.

Almost immediately upon retiring it has been established, he took poison and was found shortly after by hotel attendants. Prior to his suicide the youth had carefully destroyed all marks of identification on his clothing and other evidence which might lead to the disclosure of his true identity.

Consigned To Potters' Field.

The body was consigned to a plot in the potters' field and was among a lot of fifty similar unfortunates who were buried yesterday.

Curiosity of a detective seargeant who accidentally ran across measurements of Olson and the dead youth simultaneously, prompted an investigation, which later developed in hasty action to retrieve the body from the burial consignment and the summoning of relatives and authorities from Prairie Du Chien.

Early in the day police had scouted the suicide theory and began an investigation of reports that young Olson was in hiding here. A youth resembling the fugitive is said to have been seen in a restaurant here

Reed Considders A New Inquiry

KANSAS CITY, Mo, Dec. 4—(I. N. S.)—Senator James A. Reed, chairman of the senate investigating committee, who leaves here tonight for Washington, said today there was a possibility his committee would investigate a report from New York that "a New York gambling syndicate took bets on baseball pools and stock market reports and placed them at the disposal of republicans who supported the ticket."

The senator refused to comment further.

Additional Term For Prisoner Who Attempted Escape

Robert Neal Holmes, charged with breaking custody, pleaded guilty Saturday before District Judge Wheeler and was sentenced to one to three years in the penitentiary

Holmes, who was serving a three to five year sentence in the state reformatory for auto theft, attempted to escape August 9. The wire ladder he was using to effect his escape broke and he fell to the ground, spraining an ankle, prison officials believe. He was found next day in a field near the prison, with a badly sprained ankle.

SIGHT PHANTOM RUM SCHOONER

Arsene J., With Kidnaped Prohibition Officers Aboard, Seen Off Cuba.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4.—(INS)—The phantom French rum schooner Arsene J, with two kidnaped prohibition officials aboard, has been sighted off the western coast of Cuba in Yucatan channel, according to a radio message tonight from an unnamed ship.

The rum runner, propelled by the wind and tide, probably will reach Bluefield, Nicaragua, Monday or Tuesday. Whether the two captives, Assistant Dry Chief J. B. Matthews and Coast Guardsman Handley, are still alive was not known.

The French schooner, captained by Frank Wood, a negro, has been sought for five days in the Gulf of Mexico by a score of government vessels and seaplanes. She broke arrest early Monday morning while being towed to port for fuel.

Eludes Government Boats.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3.—The French rum runner Arsene J., with two kidnaped officials on board has succesfully eluded government pursuit vessels and now is headed for a Nicaraguan port, according to a message intercepted by the Tropical Radio station here today.

The message said:

"French schooner Arsene J., which broke arrest night of November 29 with Prohibition Director J. B. Matthews and Coast Guardsman A. W. Handley on board, is probably headed for Nicaragua. All ships please report if Arsene J. is sighted, to American legation at Managua."

The message is presumed to have been sent by the American legation at Managua.

JANE GIBSON COMMENTS.

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 4.—(I. N.S.)—"Can you beat that"

That was Mrs. Jane Gobson's comment when the star witness was told today of the verdict in the Hall-Mills trial, that acquitted the defendants she had testified against.

RUNAWAY BOY, 14, ESCAPES POLICE

Slips Away From Detective After Being Picked Up On Street.

Picked up by police as he was on his way back to his home in California, Boone Richardson, 14, slipped away from Detective Peter Meyer late Saturday afternoon and has not been seen since

Boone admitted that he was a runaway from Los Angeles, but he said he was on his return trip now. He had already been to Chicago, he stated. Officer Goodwin noticed the youth, carrying a pack on his back, at Eleventh and L streets, and picked him up.

At the police station Boone told his story. He was placed in a boarding school by his mother, he declared, and among his duties was that of scrubbing floors to pay for part of his tuition and expenses. He grew tired of that and warned his mother that he would run away if he was not taken from the school. She didn't and he did, on October 29.

It took Boone three weeks and one day to get to Chicago from the California city. He travels on the highway, being fortunate enough to pick up many rides. A salesman gave him a lift from Omaha to Lincoln Saturday and was to take him on to McCook later, but police interfered. Boone said his mother had sent a ticket for him to North Platte, and that was his destination.

The youth was stopping at a local hotel but he had left there Saturday night.

Students Rebel Against Ban On Staging Dances

MOUNT VERNON, Ia., Dec. 4.—(UP)—Students of Cornell college were in open rebellion here tonight against the staid rules which have never permitted dancing at this endowed Methodist institution.

Following a mass meeting today the students voted, 248 to 48, to hold a dance in the college gymnasium tonight after futile efforts had been made to have the board of trustees lift the ban on dancing.

Students have been expelled for attending public dances in Cedar Rapids in days gone by—but tonight jazz in its mellowest form floats from the gym as three hundred students and co-eds ruffle the planks for the first time in the history of the college.

PROGRAM FOR SHORT SESSION IS COMPLETED

On the other hand, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews has intimated he will resign unless the strengthening bills are passed.

Thus, caught between the two prohibition fires, leaders have decided to let things slip along as they are for the time being in hope that developments may offer some solution to the tangle.

Ready for Opening.

Many of the ninety-six senators and 435 members of the house were present tonight and ready for Monday's opening, although some will not return until the middle of next week, when both houses get down to business.

Two new democratic senators are to take their seats,—Harry Hawes, Missouri, and David I. Walsh, Massachusetts, elected for unexpired terms. This will increase the democratic strength in the upper house by two votes and make the line-up for the session, republicans, 53; democrats, 42; farmer-labor, 1.

Four appropriation bills already are ready for consideration by the house. The eight others will be out before the Christmas recess and Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee says they will all be before both houses by January 15.

They are expected to be out of the way early in the session and not wait for the closing days of the session before being acted upon.

Both houses have all their work to the holidays already cut out for them. The senate is to dispose of the rivers and harbors bill and the house is to handle the judges' salaries bill and appropriation measures.

Await Reed's Report.

One of the outstanding features of the session is expected to be provided in the report of the Reed committee investigating large expenditures in the Illinois and Pennsylvania primary and is being now asked to investigate conditions in Maine and Massachusetts.

Chairman James A. Reed of the committee, has indicated that he may offer some legislation to curb campaign expenditures, although it is possible no final action will be taken at this session.

The question of seating Senators Smith, republican, Illinois, and Vare, republican, Pennsylvania, who spent large sums in their respective primaries, will not come up until the Seventieth congress, elected last November, is organized.

Unless a special session is called, and that now seems out of the question, the Seventieth congress will not meet until December next year.

Favor Only Revisions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(U. P.)—A demand that the session of congress opening Monday enact only amendments to the present tax revenue act, rather than to deal with any general revision of the revenue structure was submitted tonight in a joint statement issued by Senator Simmons, North Carolina, and Representative Garner, Texas, ranking democratic members of the senate and the house finance committees.

The statement was made in answer to President Coolidge's appeal for handling tax matters in a nonpartisan way, and represented a concession from the position recently taken by some democratic leaders.

"Democratic members of both houses will be found to be willing to ignore partisan feeling in giving to the American taxpayers the reduction in their taxes to which they are entitled," said the statement.

Not Partisan Opposition.

"Democratic opposition to the president's plan of rebates and credits (which plan now faces certain defeat) is not partisan opposition but is founded on principle and in response to the demands of a sound and wise fiscal policy.

"The democrats view is that the present act need be not disturbed by merely amending certain rates and repealing certain provisions imposing the taxes that now ought to be repealed in full.

"The democratic plan involves no highly controversial subject and need not, and probably will not, cause any lengthy discussion or delay.

"It is not the intention of democratic leaders to scrape the very bottom of the treasury, but they are convinced that the administration's political pirates' policy of reduction and rebates year by year ought to be discarded once and for all."

DOBBS TO HEAD INSURANCE MEN

state which is seeking to serve the people. Be it further resolved that we will call upon public authorities to vigorously prosecute tse assailant of the commissioner that justice may be done."

Dumont Refers to Attack.

John R. Dumont, state insurance commissioner who was the victim of an assault by a Columbus man, was present and told of the need of the insurance department of the state. Mr. Dumont made reference to the attack upon him explaining that his assailant demanded a license personally and that by law insurance companies doing business in the state must petition or make application for a license for their agents. No such application was on file for the man who made the attack, he said.

Mr. Dumont stressed the inadequate system of insurance in Nebraska, pointing out that he had an annual budget of $16,000 to work with whereas New York had $600,000. He pointed out that this state deals with just as many companies and has nearly the same amount of detailed company work to do as the New York commission.

The code of laws dealing with insurance need to be brought up to date, but not radically changed, Mr. Dumont believes. He told of the vast possibilities in the insurance field and explained his detailed work.

In the early part of the evening Maurice A. Hyde, chairman of the insurance subdivision of the chamber of commerce, poke of the efforts of that body. He declared that an effort was being made by the subdivision to co-operate and to increase man's respect of the insurance business.

Magnitude of Business.

The insurance men in Nebraska do not realize the magnitude of the business in which they are engaged, Mr. Hyde declared. He pointed out that the banks of the United States possess liabilities to creditors amounting to $91,000,000,000 whereas the life insurance business alone carries beneficiary liabilities totaling $82,000,000,000. He pointed out that since 1920 banks have gained $14,000,000,000 in liabilities and life insurance business $47,000,000,000. Although figures are not available, Mr. Hyde believes that the total of all lines of insurance liabilities would be close to $150,000,000,000.

He pled for unity among agents if adequate legislation was to be given the insurance men. With such a unity, he believes, a larger and more efficient insurance commission may be created in the state. He told of the recent tour by the insurance subdivision and said that it planted a valued seed and emphasized the greatness of the business.

Mr. Hyde declared that the insurance men were rendering as great a service as any institution in the state and that great opportunities lie before the Lincoln agents. Insurance in Nebraska is entitled to just as much resognition as banking, he said. Such recognition will never be obtained unless those in this line of work unite and present in a unified attempt the magnitude of the insurance business.

Helvey Is Speaker.

Frank E. Helvey, secretary of the Insurance Federation of Nebraska, also spoke. He told of the efforts of the state federation in the past and promised steady and continuous growth in the future. This federation, Mr. Helvey stated, encourages constantly every form of unification among insurance men. He told of the efforts and unselfish work the members had given to it.

Mr. Helvey related how he and others of the federation had always been on the watch for negative legislation to the profession and how in most cases unfair action was not taken because the legislator wanted revenge on the company but through misinformation and ignorance.

A taxation on the insurance business and upon the holders of policies in regard to their value is the same as a taxation on thrift, Mr. Helvey said. He pled for a larger state department. He, too, pointed to the attack upon Commissioner Dumont as an attack not prompted by personal malice but on the dignity of the insurance department.

E. S. Faulkner was a guest at the meeting and spoke of the service rendered by life and accident insurance companies. He is in favor of intense specialization in the insurance line and does not believe one man can handle both accident and life policies and make a success at both or either.

EXPECT REVOLT AT CONVENTION FARM BUREAU

could well be made the platform that would receive its support."

The nature of what many believe might turn into the long discussed open revolt at this eighth convention would be an open endorsement of Lowden for the presidency and a determined move was under way tonight toward that end.

"Lowden comes nearer than any other presidential leader in supporting the farmers in their demands for remedial legislation," it was stated.

Talk Lowden Endorsement.

Many of the delegates who advocated an open endorsement of Lowden believed that by so doing the bureau might be able to stampede the administration into passing legislation like the McNary-Haugben stabilization bill at this session to prevent an uncontrollable rush toward his banner.

Confronted as the administration is by an unruly congress after March 4 because of insurgent and democratic gains in the November elections, it was pointed out that there might be a disposition to give the farmer what he wants while the administration is in a position to claim the credit.

Formal action on farm policies will be taken following Lowden's address, it was announced.

Farm relief legislation will haunt the administration until American agriculture has been placed on a secure footing along with other basic industries, it was said.

A NATIONWIDE HUNT FOR BOY MAY BE ENDED

Find Note From Erdman.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 4.—(UP)—A little wad of paper that Clara Olson tucked in her bosom when she slipped out of her father's country home to meet her death, tonight became the most import bit of evidence in the state's effort to solve the mystery of her murder.

A piece of paper, which was too wet when first it was found to permit of reading itscontents, was carefully dried and finally the characters became visible.

It was a note, Prosecutor J. S. Earll announced, written to Clara on the day preceding her disappearance and it was written by her 18-year-old sweetheart, Erdman Olson.

When the paper was discovered, Earll told newspaper reporters he would make public the message which it bore, but after reading it himself he announced it was "too important as evidence to make public at this time."

He was free t admit, however, that it was a note from Erdman.

Theory of State.

It is the theory of the state that Clare received this missive from her sweetheart, ran away from her home to meet him in the dark of early morning September 10 and that her death came before daylight.

At the autopsy this afternoon, it was disclosed that Clara had met her death by a blow on her left side of the head and that she was already dead when her body was thrust into the shallow grave on Battle Ridge, where it was found just two days ago exactly as her father, old Chris Olson, had dreamed.

Important developments toward solution of the crime are expected Monday, at which time it is expected the contents of the letter found today will be made public.

Pathologist Reports.

PAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 4—(UP)—Clara Olson, the shy little home girl, whose body was found two days ago in a hastily dug grave on Battle Ridge "came to her death by a violent blow on the left side of the head," according to the opinion of Dr. Charles P. Bunting, Wisconsin state pathologist, who this afternoon conducted an autopsy.

Three local physicians, who assisted Dr. Bunting in his examination of the girl's body, concurred in his opinion.

Dr. Bunting, when asked to enlarge on his findings, said it appeared that a number of blows had been dealt but if one blow had been delivered with extreme violence it might have caused the compound fractures which he discovered.

Fresh light on Clara's death may be made possible, it was learned this evening, through a wad of paper which was found near her body.

Apparently there had been writing on the paper but it was so wet that it was impossible to read it. Drying processes are being used to ascertain if the writing can be read.

A Strange Story.

The story is a strange one, with the mystery of a dream woven into it—the dream of the girl's father, Chris Olson, that his daughter's body would be found at almost exactly the same spot where it actually was discovered.

Sympathizing neighbors shook their heads in doubt when old Chris Olson first told of his vision, stating that he had plainly seen his daughter's body lying face downward in a shallow grave out on Battle Ridge, one of the hilltops well known in the locality. Some even thought that Chris was losing his mind.

But when he swore out a warrant for the arrest of Clara's sweetheart, Erdman Olson (the two families are not related) posses went into the hills to hunt for the grave—and they found it just as Chris had related it in his dream.

Even his statement that the body was lying face downward turned out to be correct.

Daughter Betrayed.

And so it is that the dream of Chris Olson, a farmer, has sent police of the entire nation looking for the missing sweetheart, 18-year-old Erdman Olson. According to Chris' belief, Erdman betrayed his daughter and then took her life to escape marriage which would have been necessary.

Clara was last seen alive on the night of September 9. The following morning her father found a note from her stating that she was "going away" and cautioning her parents not to worry—that she would "come back soon with a surprise for them."

The case has astonished this remote countryside. Murder in itself is infrequent in this country. But murder with a background of love is entirely unheard of. Love to these hard working, thrifty people means marriage and children, happy contented homes—with murder furthest removed from consideration.

Community Aroused.

And so the cas eof Clara Olson and her untimely death has aroused the community as nothing in all its previous history.

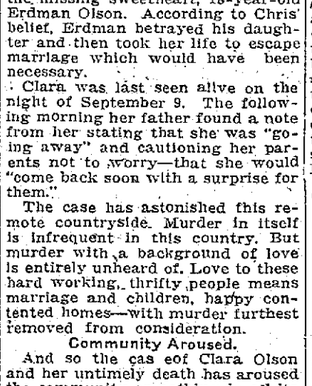

The happiness of a shy little home girl, who has met her first love: the love of a father, who understands the human weakness of his daughter and does not rebuke her when she tells him she is to become a unwed mother; the pang of remorse when the gay young lover tells her there will be no marriage, and finally despair and death on a lonely hillside—these are incuded in Clara Olson's love story.

It was a little more than a year ago that Clara first met Erdman and they fell in love imost immediately. Long rides over the picturesque and rugged hills followed. They used to sit atop some little mountain and revel in the beauty of the monlight and the scene it unfolded around them.

Sometimes they danced. But practically all their evenings were spent in these mountain ridges.

But soon whispers began to be circulated over the countryside—murmurings that all was not well between the two. And then Clara confirmed these rumors by telling the father her story.

U. S. To Be Neutral.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS)—The United States will maintain a policy of strict neutrality in the present civil warfare in China, and American naval forces will be maintained there solely for protection of American lives and property, the state department announced today.

May Take Over Factories.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 4.—(INS)—The Cantonese regime in Hankow threatened tonight to take over operations of all factories, if the factories do not grant the demands of the workers, according to reports here tonight.

An American Tobacco Company refused to accede to the demands of the strikers, the reports said, whereupon the Cantonese officials intervened and notified the British consul that unless he fixed the wages in accordance with the workers' demands a Chinese administration would take over control and operation of the factories.

CRAFT IN DISTRESS.

NOGALES, Ariz., Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—The Mexican steamer Bolivar, carrying passengers and a cargo of cotton, is aground on a sandbar near Topelobampo, Sinaloa, Mexico, according to marine advices here tonight.

The crew and passengers were in grave danger, with heavy seas pounding the vessel and threatening to sink her, the advices said.

Try to Break Jam.

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—While a thirty-five-mile gale and sub-zero temperatures added to hazards, lighters and tugs made progress today in trying to break up the Lake Superior ice jam.

None of the ships frozen off Needles Island between Mud and Hay lakes in St. Mary's channel is in immediate danger, but coast guard station No. 2 expressed concern over two vessels abandoned by their crews, the Thomas Mayham and City of Bangor, driven aground several days ago.

The Mayham is fast off Point Isabelle and the Bangor high and dry on the rocks off Keweenaw, not far away. If tugs cannot float them tonight, it is feared they may break up.

The gale was expected to increase tonight and weathre reports indicated that a blizzard was on its way from Canada.

League to Discuss Traction Proposal Northeast Lincoln

The East Lincoln league will hold a special meeting at 8 p. m. Monday, at the old Elliott school building, for the purpose of considering action pertaining the proposed discontinuance of street car service in northeast Lincoln. There is to be a hearing before the state railway commission on the application of the Traction Co. for substituting bus service and for abandoning several of the street car lines, and the purpose of the meeting Monday evening is to determine the attitude of men and women of sections of the city affected by such change of service. The meeting is called by Frank Harm, chairman.

The gag order and the unwilling, hesitant testimony of Robison on the secret report of Admiral Gleaves of the Pacific fleet in 1921 on war possibilities were both carefully planned defense coups, to impress the jury with the importance of the projects.

Owen Roberts, chief government lawyer, has a counter attack which he probably will use in his summation. He will point out that in December, 1921, when Robison was making these arguments, the United States was drafting and signing the four-power pact treaty to insure the peace of the Pacific.

"It's all bunk," was his unofficial opinion of the day's developments.

Frank J. Hogan, defense counsel, however, announced he had another stroke along the same line in store for Monday. When Roberts finishes his cross-examination of Robison, the fighting little defense lawyer will call Secretary Wilbur to the stand to ask him about the Gleaves report.

Wilbur is expected to refuse to disclose any of the information asked, because of its importance relating to the still existent war plans.

Says Order Admissible.

Justice Hoehling announced at the opening of court, in a prepared opinion, that the Wilbur order was admissible. He cited many precedents but asserted military secrets must not be disclosed to the detriment of the national warfare.

The court, however, would decide on the admissibility, he said, adding that the order itself was not in the category of military secrets. He mentioned a case decided in 1803 when the United States Supreme court, under Chief Justice Marshall, decided the secretary of state could be required to answer certain questions pertaining to his business and to the Aaron Burr precedent, when it was held that a subpoena could be issued against the president for a letter sent to him by a military officer who had been summoned as a witness.

The Wilbur order read as follows:

"It appearing that you are under subpoena, as a witness in the case of the United States versus Fall and Doheny, now on trial in the Supreme court of the District of Columbia, you are advised that confidential information contained in the official records of the government may not be disclosed directly or indirectly by an officer of the navy who may have had access thereto in virtue of his official duty, and that the giving out of such records or any copies, or any information contained therein, or any confidential information acquired by an officer in the course of his official duty is contrary to public policy and cannot be permitted.

exacted a considerable toll from her strength and her subjects along the route of the homecoming procession were frank to discern lines of weariness written on her face.

Ferdinand Hopeful.

At last the queen came home to find to her relief that conditions were not as critical as she had been led to believe. The king, who had been reported as near death, welcomed her personally and assured her that his physicians had advised him that with proper attention to his diet and activities he might be spared further critical illness for some time.

Just what political situation the queen has found it is difficult to say, for there are many conflicting rumors. The impression prevails, however, that if the queen finds political conditions not to her liking she will make no effort to change matters for some time, but will bide her time and proceed cautiously.

Great in Popular Favor.

Whether the queen rates high with the powers that be, or whether she rates low, there is no denying that she has great popular favor, as the demonstration of welcome to her has not been equalled since war days.

Many rumors of the queen's accomplishments in America are afloat tonight, it being reported, that she completed an accord with an international bank and insure a Rumanian loan. These reports are as frequently denied as they are repeated.

A Quiet Greeting.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—Queen Marie of Rumania, arrived home today at the conclusion of her tour through the United States and was greeted by King Ferdinand, but the royal welcome planned by Bucharest did not take place.

The royal lady, who was greeted by thousands of aliens in New York and other cities, descended on the platform which was almost deserted except for porters, available to royalty and commoners alike, and the kings.

Heavy rains had delayed the royal train Friday as it hurried through the heart of the Balkans toward Bucharest, and that delay threw Bucharest's carefully planned welcome awry. A crowd assembled at the station during the forenoon, but dispersed when an official announced that the train was late and would not arrive for three hours.

Then, without further notice, at 12:30 p. m., the royal train appeared at the station, which was almost deserted. Queen Marie stepped down from her private car accompanied by Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas.

Spies Royal Mate.

Her majesty scanned the almost empty platform until she spied the king, toward whom she hastened with a wifely embrace.

Such an undemonstrative welcome was not the intent of Bucharest and its political and diplomatic personages. Plans were completed several days ago for the ceremonies at the station. But the bad weather and the mistake of some under official, who miscalculated the time the train would arrive, nullified these plans.

Marie had arrived in her Balkan home to learn at first hand of the reported plots, intrigues and what not that were said to have transpired during her absence.

Former Premier Bratiano, who in American political parlance is the "boss" of Rumania, has told the correspondents that there is no question of Queen Marie being appointed to the council of regency, which in the event of the king's death would govern the country until crown prince Michael's majority.

INDUSTRIAL NEWS IS NOW REPORTED SOMEWHAT MIXED

Money Markets Easier And Buoyancy Continues In Stock Market.

Falling Off In Activity Of Some Industries, Mostly Seasonal, Noted.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—Trade and industrial news was somewhat mixed this week. The money markets developed an easier tone and buoyancy continued in the stock market with speculative interest and activity extended to a broad list of industrial, motor, oil, utility and specialty stocks. A falling off in activity in some of the important industries, mostly seasonal, was counter balanced by the excellent record of new and increased dividends declared by well known corporations.

Offerings of investment bonds approximated $250,000,000 the largest weekly output for the year to date and in all cases demands from investors were more than sufficient to absorb the offerings.

In unusually heavy trading in the listed bond market prices of foreign and domestic government bonds, local traction issues, convertible rail and industrial bonds moved up buoyantly.

Stock Prices Advance.

Excellant leadership in the advance of stock prices was furnished by U. S. Steel, General Motors, American Can and other well known stocks. After considerable hesitation the oil stocks appeared to have inaugurated their long promised rally, based on the prospect of a considerable increase in net earnings as exhibited in the annaul reports for 1926.

Money markets were unchanged except for the flurry in the call loan market in the early part of the week, due to the calling of loans for the December settlements and the making up of local bank reserves. Call loans were more freely available near the weekend, when the rate declined to 4 1-2 per cent.

Bradstreets' index number of commodity prices as of December 1 was $12 7835, making a fractional gain for November. Dun's review reported thirty-seven declines and twenty-nine advances in commodity prices this week.

The weekly bank clearances declined 4.9 per cent from the same week last year, the total for 91 leading cities being $9,917,765,000.

Wheat Shows Advance.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—Wheat, led by the December future shows an advance of 1 5-8 cents to 4 cents over last week's close better milling demand and firmness in the cash article inspired most of the buying. The lake situation was considered fairly bullish, the Canadian movement being delayed by the ice embargo at the straits which may prevent the expected movement down the lakes.

Advances at Buenos Aires late in the week also influenced buying. A good deal of the advances were re-checked on selling against offers and realizing by recent buyers. Outside trade in wheat appeared light.

Corn Bull Leader.

Corn was a bull leader most of the week and scored an advance of 2¼c to 3⅛c, with the December gaining moderately on the May future. Deliveries so far this month were reported extremely small. The last day or so country offerings have increased, but only slightly, and primary receipts are not more than one-third as much as a year ago.

Oats advanced 1¾c to 3c on covering by shorts. Deliveries were well taken during the week. The cash demand was reported moderate, but receipts are negligible. Canadian news has generally favored holders, and the reports from abroad have been quite bullish.

Provisions scored good gains on buying inspired by a better demand for meats and stronger outside markets.

Hog Prices Higher.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Hog receipts were 28,000 larger than a week ago, but prices are from 15c to 25c higher, owing to a good shipping demand. Receipts for the week total 178,000, against 150,000 last week and 202,000 a year ago. The best hogs sold around $12. The bulk of the good hogs of all weights went $11.75 and $12. A few of the plainer grades sold at $11.40 and $11 70. Pigs, $11 25 and $11.75; packing sows, $10.50 and $11.25.

The cattle supply was 68,000, compared with 69,000 last week and 72,000 a year ago. Trade was active throughout the week, with prices 25c and 50c higher on the good to fat steers. Yearlings made the greater gain. Top for the week was $13.25, with the bulk at $9 and $10.75. Cows and heifers found a good outlet and sold strong to 25c higher. Most of the cows and heifers brought $4.50 and $6.75. There was good demand for calves and shippers at times paid up to $13.

During the week there were 99,000 sheep received, against 77,000 last week and 86,000 a year ago. The supply proved too much for the demand and most lambs were from 15c to 25c lower. Top for the week was $13 85. Culls moved at $8 50 and $9 50; feeders, $11.50 and $12.75. Old sheep were steady.

Cotton Goes Lower.

CHICAGOG, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—Cotton was pressed for sale practically all week and all positions made new lows for the season on Friday and since 1921.

News was unanimously bearish, especially increased estimates of the crop. The weekly weather report was rather favorable. Investment buying showed some improvement the early part of the week.

At the close of today's session deliveries figured 2 to 20 points lower. Closing prices:

December, 11.74c; January, 11.83c; March, 12.05c; May, 12.27c. July, 12.46c. October, 12.57c.

MRS. HALL AND BROTHERS HAPPY OVER TRIAL END

Freed Of All Charges That They Participated In Murders.

Widow Of Slain Pastor Returns Home With Willie Stevens.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 4.—(INS)—Mrs. Frances Hall, her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, and their cousin, Henry Carpender, were all "very happy"—happy because the dark cloud that has hung threateningly over their lives for four years has been lifted.

They were freed today by the state of New Jersey of all charges that they participated in the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, who were shot to death in De Russey's lane on the night of September 14, 1922.

Judge Charles W. Parker, on motion of the state, dismissed the last of the indictments against them. Last night a jury freed Mrs. Hall and her brothers of the charge of killing Mrs. Mills.

Tonight Mrs. Hall was back in her palatial New Brunswick home resting and hoping she can forget the trying experience that has been hers. With her was her brother, Willie, whom she watches over and cares for.

"We are no longer public characters and have no statement to make beyond saying that we are very happy over the outcome of the trial and that we will do our best to forget it," was the only statement Mrs. Hall would make.

Thanks Jurors.

Before she left Somerville she expressed her gratitude to several of the jurors who acquitted her and who were in court today when the state nolle prossed the indictment against her and the co-defendants on the charge of killing Rev. Mr. Hall. They had been tried for the murder of Mrs. Mills.

"God bless you," she said feelingly as she shook their hands. She left the courtroom, after posing for photographers, for the Somerset county jail, where she waited while Willie packed up his belongings.

Harry Stevens, her red-faced, serious-looking brother, remained in Somerville with his wife and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Henry Griffin. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens said they would remain in here for several days before leaving for their home in Lavallette, N. J., or going to their winter apartment in New York City.

Carpender, a Wall Street broker, who looks the part, motored to New Brunswick with Mrs. Carpender, who like Mrs. Henry Stevens, had sat loyally in court beside her husband for the past month.

"I'm glad this comedy of errors is over," was Mrs. Carpender's comment.

Carpender Comments.

Carpender said he was indicted solely on the "lying story" and "false identification" of Mrs. Jane Gibson and that he spent four months in jail without a trial "because of the crooked tactics of Prosecutor Alexander Simpson."

A final act in the Hall-Mills drama was exceedingly simple. The hearing was presided over by Justice Parker and Judge Frank L. Cleary. Special Prosecutor Simpson was conspicuously absent. In his place, acting for the state, was Attorney General Edward Katzenbach, who moved the indictments against all four defendants be nol'e prossed. This was quickly done by Judge Parker.

"The defendants are discharged," said the judge and court was abruptly adjourned.

Katzenbach said the state saw no reason for further prosecution, but explained that today's action would not necessarily prevent further prosecution in the event new evidence was unearthed.

Simpson Disappointd.

Prosecutor Simpson was disappointed at the action of the attorney general. He made public a letter he had sent to Gov. Harry Mooer announcing his withdrawal as special prosecutor in the case. He indicated he will seek a legislative investigation of conditions surrounding the Hall-Mills case when the New Jersey state legislature goes into session on January 13. He urged further prosecution of Mrs. Hall and recent co-defendants —with a new prosecutor handling the case. He blamed his loss of the case to "Somerset county politics."

And thus ended the famous case, as much a riddle as ever, a case that resulted in the most melodramatic murder trial in American criminal history.

MARRY IN KANSAS.

American Lead Not Followed By European Women

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(I.N.S.)—Bobbed hair and short skirts are not making much headway throughout Europe, according to Mrs. Winifred Black Bonfils of San Francisco, the well known writer, who returned from abroad today on the liner Roma.

"The European woman is keeping her long hair and declining to follow the American bobbed habit," said Mrs. Bonfils. "I saw very few women wearing short skirts."

Mrs. Bonfils visited the British Isles, Holland, Switzerland and Italy, avoiding the beaten paths usually taken by tourists. She was in Florence during the latest attempt to assassinate Mussolini and was impressed with the fascisti demonstration celebrating the duce's escape.

"Mussolini is making a new country out of Italy and arousing the old Roman spirit among Italians," asserted Mrs. Bonfils.

"However, the status of women in Italy remains about the same."

Mrs. Bonfils was accompanied on her trip by Mrs. P. J. Phelan, wife of a San Francisco newspaperman.

Mrs. Bonfils said that while there was some interest abroad in the Hall-Mills case, the domestic troubles of "Peaches" Browning were more widely known.

To Sell Property Defunct Railroad

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 4.—The curtain is aout to be rung down on the Kansas City Northwestern railroad, which quit business years ago as bids are to be received from various counties in eastern Kansas through which the old road runs, for the property. Already the track in Nemaha county has been sold to adjacent land owners. According to W. W. Hopper, general attorney for the defunct road, the company deeds the land back cheaper than the owners can go into court and contest the railroad. All the right in Nemaha county has been sold except ten tracks.

In Gage county, south of Virginia, terminus of the road, some of the track has been torn up, and crews are busy along the line pulling up the rails and disposing of the company's property as fast as it is bid in.

TEACHERS ARE TO PLAN LEGISLATION

Delegate Assembly Here Thursday Will Discuss Educational Needs.

Tenure and Minimum Age Laws Will Be Given Especial Attention.

Proposed legislation to be sought at the coming session of the state legislature diet will be the outstanding topic before the annual meeting of the delegate assembly of the Nebraska State Teachers association, which meets in Lincoln, beginning December 9, it was said Saturday by officers of the association. Dean W. E. Sealock of Lincoln is president, and E. M. Hosman, secretary.

Probably the most important question will be the bill that has been prepared for the legislature by the tenure committee, of which Miss Olivia Pound of Lincoln is chairman. The other members of the committee are Miss Alma Hosic, Kearney state teachers college, and G. F. Knipprath, Omaha Technical high scholo.

The purpose of the proposed legislation, it is said, is to increase the efficiency of teachers in the public schools and to add an inducement for teachers to remain in the profession. It will make teaching a profession, it is claimed, "and not a procession." A longer period of service, it is contended, would return a larger income on the state's investment in training its teachers.

E. M. Hosman, secretary of the state association says of the tenure law:

"Teachers can only be valuable to a district as they make themselves valuable.

"Generally speaking the state ranks high in its educational system, but it can go still higher. Nebraska spends 4.84 per cent of its wealth for education as against 2.32 for the nation, and if the effort which the state is making to support its schools is laid on the yard stick of averages, it would show that Nebraska is making 55 per cent greater efforts than does the nation as a whole.

Teachers Loyal to State.

"Nebraska has 15,000 teachers" all of whom have shown an unusual loyalty to an ideal; that ideal which has made the state one of the foremost educational commonwealths in slightly more than a half century."

The one outstanding trouble with teaching in Nebraska is the large turnover each year, according to Mr. Hosman, "and this should be remedied." Of the 15,000 who enter the state's schools each year, he declared, 44 per cent change positions annually, according to a recent survey.

"Nebraska teachers believe a tenure law will remedy this condition," Hosman says. "It will stabilize the teaching force and give teachers a real reason for making the work a profession instead of a convenience.

"In the main," he said, "a tenure law will benefit the public, the teacher and the school administrators. No more money will be required by passage of the bill. On the contrary it will mean economy to the taxpayer, the one who, in the final analysis must pay the bill.

Benefit in Maturity.

"The great benefit of the enactment will be that it makes possible keeping a faculty together long enough to do some real team work, a result that is impossible with a personnel that is inexperienced, immature, unprepared and changing constantly."

The bill, according to the association secretary, merely places the teacher in a school on the same basis as employes in any line of business. The law places the entire administration of its provisions in the hands of the school boards, he added.

"Tenure is just a square deal for everybody," he continued. "It protects the competent instructor, weeds out the incompetents, and increases the educational standards of the state. That is the experience of states where it has been adopted."

Second only to the tenure law in the assembly will be the discussion of the minimum age for teaching. Under a recent decision of the state Supreme court the state superintendent cannot fix in his blanket instructions to teachers and boards of education the age a person must attain before being allowed to teach.

"The decision," according to teachers officials, "necessitates legislative enactment." The assembly will make a comprehensive study of the situation with a view to offering a bill fixing the minimum age, it is understood.

The session will close with election of officers.

GOLD SAILS ON WORLD CRUISE

May Spend Christmas Eve On Shepherd's Field In Palestine.

William Gold of Lincoln has started on a round-the-world cruise of 28,400 nautical miles which will take 132 days.

Mr. Gold left Lincoln November 10 and last Thursday sailed at 12 o'clock from New York city on the Canadian Pacific steamer, the Empress of Scotland. The first port of call on the trip will be Funchal, the capital of the Portuguese island of Madiera on December 9 where a day's stop will be made.

WILLIAM GOLD.

The mainland of Europe will not be reached until next Sunday when the ship anchors in the Admiralty harbor at Gibraltar. After a brief stop at the "key to the Mediterranean" the Empress of Scotland will proceed down the Mediterranean to Algiers, the capital of the French colony of Algeria, characterized as the place where France and the Orient meet. The next leg of the journey is almost directly north across the sea to Monaco. The steamer will anchor in the bay opposite Monte Carlo Casino and passengers may embark to the famous Italy and then a 1,196 mile journey Riviera, the resort of all fashionable Europe.

The next port is Naples in "sunny" Italy and then a 1,196 mile journey brings the party to Palestine. Mr. Gold will spend his Christmas in the Holy Land and if he desires may visit the field of the Shepherds on Christmas eve. The trip from the port Haifi to Jerusalem, is made by special train, as is the next leg from Jesusalem to Cairo, where Mr. Gold will spend New Year's Eve—which is a gala occasion in the Egyptian city.

After passing through the Suez canal and down the Red Sea the next stop is at Bombay, the largest seaport in India where an opportunity is given to make trips into many points of interest in India. The next three stops are at island ports, Colombo, Pudang and Batavia, and then Singapore, capital of the straights settlements, is reached.

Mr. Gold will be where the American flag flies again by February 7 when a two-day stop is made at Manila. From Hongkong, the next port of call, an excursion will be made to Canton, until recently a walled city. The next Chinese stop is at Shanghai and then four and a half days will be spent at Peking before the Empress of Scotland sails to Kobe, Japan, and then on to Yokohama from where excursions will be made to Tokio and Nikko.

The journey across the Pacific begins March 8 but because of short stops at Honolulu and Nilo, San Francisco is not reached until March 25. The round-the-world cruise is then completed by sailing through the Panama canal and back to New York city, landing there on April 12. But Mr. Gold will still have to retrace his tracks across half a continent to reach Lincoln.

Take Illinois Man Mann Act Charge

RICHMOND, Calif., Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—Said to have deserted a wife and three children in Peoria, Ill., Seth A. Mallott, 32, was held here tonight charged with violation of the Mann act in connection with the presence here of Miss Mona Williams, 18, a ward of the Peoria Juvenile court. Miss Williams was held as a material witness in the Martinez girls detention home.

Miss Williams, according to police, deserted Mallott in Kennet, Calif., in the northern part of the state, after an argument over an automobile. Mallott followed her to Richmond today and was arrested.

BOYD CLINGS TO HIS STORY

Iowa Half Caste Insists He Killed Officer In Self Defense.

DES MOINES, Dec. 4.—(U.P.)—The shotgun used by William H. Boyd, half caste negro, when he shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Dewey Marshall of Polk county, was introduced in his trial this afternoon and Boyd was asked to show the jury how he aimed and fired the gun at the deputy.

The effect upon the jury was marked. Seven women members leaned forward in their seats, tensely watching the spectacle with awe registered on their faces. The remaining five jurors, all men, appeared only passively interested.

Cross examination was conducted by county attorney Vernon Seeburger, who hopes to send the half caste to the gallows.

Story of Killing.

Deputy Sheriff Marshall, accompanied by Deputy Grover Brent of Sedalia, Mo., went to the Boyd home in October 30 to arrest the negro on a warrant charging him with stealing hogs in Missouri.

The state contends that Boyd shot the deputy from the door of his home when he learned that officers were coming to arrest him. The defendant, however, insisted he fired when his children cried out that a man with a gun had entered the kitchen of their tumble down shack near Mitchellville.

Feared for Children.

Boyd said he fired because he feared for the safety of his children and before recognized Marshall as an officer of the law. Every attempt of Seeburger to shake his testimony was futile, even when the screen from the door, riddled with holes alleged to have been made by Boyd's gun were held up before the jury.

After slaying Marshall and seriously wounding Deputy Brent by shooting him twice when the latter came to the aid of his fellow officer Boyd said he decided to commit suicide, but consideration of his family induced him to flee instead.

He spent ten days in hiding in Iowa and Moberly, Mo., before he decided to surrender himself to the law. The case, one of the most sensational held in Des Moines for months, will not reach the point of conclusion until next week.

Cross examination of the defendant will continue when court reconvenes Monday.

WOULD USE CARS AS SALES ROOMS

Advocates Of Direct Selling Method to Appear Before Shippers Board.

Wholesalers Contend Their Heavy Investment Endangered by Practice.

Whether railroad box cars should be used as store rooms from which to sell fruits, vegetables and other commodities, will be one of the live subjects before the meeting of the Central Western Shippers advisory board when it convenes here Wednesday at the chamber of commerce, according to H. G. Taylor of the Nebraska state railway commission, general chairman.

The central western board is one of a number of similar organizations created by the American Railway association. They have been organized in almost every section of the country and are representative of the shippers and receivers of freight in the territory, its membership being made up of farmers, manufacturers and distributors.

The work of the board comprises looking to the transportation needs which they analyze quarterly and estimate the car requirements for the region. They also study markets and marketing methods in the promotion of more even distribution of commodities, and have contributed materially to the solution of carrier problems of better loading and higher operating efficiency. It was through the organization of these boards that car shortages have become virtually unknown, it is declared.

Uphold Use as Store Rooms.

Advocates of using the freight car for a store room, Mr. Taylor said, argue that wholesale and retail dealers monopolize the sale of fruits and vegetables, charge unreasonable prices and discourage marketing of the poorer grades which many people would like to buy. The regular dealers answer that they provide a stable market, assume the risk of loss and have heavy capital invested in their business. The other angle of the problem is that of the carrier which takes the position, he says, that the box car is solely a facility of transportation and should not be ocnverted into a store room.

A number of toher topics related to railroad service have been docketed. Not the least important of these, according to Mr. Taylor, are the reports of commodity committees on general agricultural and industrial and commercial conditions in the territory. The region comprises Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, and parts of Idaho and Oregon.

Donald W. Conn of Washington, D. C., manager of the public relations section of the American Railway association and father of the regional boards, will attend the meeting, it is believed, along with at least 150 rail officials.

G. F. Gurley To Speak.

G. F. Gurley, general superintendent for the Burlington at Alliance, will speak on "Modern methods of maintenance and operation as compared to former methods."

In the evening the visitors will be the guests of the chamber of commerce at a dinner at which former Gov. S. R. McKelvie will speak. Other speakers will include representatives of the carrier group and the chairman of the Colorado live stock committee will report on the result of plans made with a view to bringing about a more uniform flow of range cattle to the Denver market this fall. This is the second season the plan has been tried out and cattle men are enthusiastic over the results, Mr. Taylor says. A similar plan for marketing Utah and Idaho sheep has been tried with marked satisfaction to the shippers, he added.

Besides the reports and discussions scheduled the board will also elect officers. The fact that this is the annual meeting should bring many more than the ordinary attendance, according to Secretary Whitten of the chamber of commerce, who predicted Saturday that not less than 400 should be here. One fare for the round trip rates have been made to the members, he said, and this should be one of the largest gatherings the board has ever had.

Other officers of the board besides Mr. Taylor are Will H. Gibson, public utilities commission of Boise, Ida., alternate chairman; C. E. Childe of the Omaha chamber of commerce, general secretary; and W. L. Harvey, Denver, secretary.

John E. Curtiss, departmental secretary of the chamber of commerce, is in charge of the hotel reservations.

The meeting will be called to order by J. W. Shorthill chairman for Nebraska and Governor Adam McMullen will deliver the address of welcome.

FALS TO DEATH.

UNDERWOOD, Ia., Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—Alleged to have been intoxicated, Eps Walker, 57, tumbled down a ladder in the Sawson elevator here today and was literally ground to death in machinery at the foot of the ladder. He is survived by his divorced wife and two adult children, who live in Omaha. County Coroner Henry Cutler, who conducted the investigation of the man's death, declared that he had been drinking.

Golden Rule Sunday

MAKE LINCOLN
"The Ambassador City"

¶Lincoln the Capital City of Nebraska, the home of the State University, the City of beautiful homes, the city of high ideals and standards, and in every way worthy of its name, has an opportunity to acquire for itself a new honor, that of becoming the "Ambassador City."

¶Today is GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY, a day set aside for the observance of the simple meal, a meal similar to the one served our Near East Relief orphans three times daily.

¶America is making history at the world's cross-roads, where Asia, Africa, and Europe meet, not in the mere sequence of events, but in the development of thought and ideals as reflected in human relationships. America's greatest contribution to the molding and developing of thought in the Near East has been the influence on the children themselves.

¶Having graduated 115,124 Golden Rule children, that is giving them six years of schooling and training, which at the age of sixteen makes them self supporting, we still have 35,000 of these children in our orphanages, 69% of which are under teen age, the majority being under twelve years. Let us stand by them a little longer, thereby supporting an act of congress of August 6, 1919, when we assumed the responsibility of caring for these children, who know no Father or Mother other than America.

¶Serving these children to the utmost is our objective, but by so doing let us increase our interest and win the Ambassadorship" for Lincoln, which is secured by the city making the largest gift according to its population, by the number observing the "Golden Rule Dinner," and by the originality shown in both projects.

¶If chosen as the "Ambassador" city Lincoln will be privileged to send one of its young persons to the Holy Land, this young person selected by the Lincoln committee, and whose expenses do not come out of the sum that is raised in Lincoln, but from a sum set aside in the will of the late Mr. Hoagley Dodge, former president of Roberts College Constantinople.

¶In this great land of peace and plenty let us not forget these Golden Rule children, and the great principle which governs the activities of the Near East "WHATSOEVER YE WOULD THAT OTHERS SHOULD DO UNTO YOU DO YE EVEN UNTO THEM."

¶Send all gifts to W. A. Selleck, Treas., Lincoln State Bank.

FORMER USE OF SCHOOL FUND IN STATE COSTLY

Lost Through Failure To Invest In Standard Securities.

Dan Swanson Against Present Plan To Take Up Warrants.

Agitation that is being carried on at the present time to meet the deficit in the general fund of Nebraska by diverting money from the permanent school fund, the soldier relief fund and other trust funds to take care of the state's ordinary running expenses, brings back to mind the painful experience of thirty years ago when large sums of money were lost in the famous Bartley defalcation through loose handling of these funds.

To this day the permanent school fund is short $300,000 and the permanent university fund $40,000 as a direct result of the policy of failing to keep the money belonging to them invested in proper securities as contemplated by the constitution and laws of Nebraska. The amounts lost to these funds in the Bartley shortage of 1897 have never been made good.

What might happen if the state government, having overspent its regular sources of revenue by $4,000,000 and borrowed from every other available fund to the limit allowed by law, should begin drawing on the trust funds reserved for support of the public schools, the university and the normal schools, and for aiding needy world war veterans and their dependents, can only be conjectured.

Putting Off the Evil Day.

Critics of the state's fiscal policy believe that the existing situation cannot be remedied by continuous borrowing on a larger and larger scale. This, they point out, is simply piling up more trouble for the future and making it still harder to pay in the end. They believe it would be unwise and unsafe to place the trust funds in jeopardy by using them for any other purpose than that of investment in the best securities obtainable.

If the state of Nebraska cannot pay its current bills, it is asked, why should the permanent school fund or the world war veterans' relief fund be poured into the yawning chasm of debt? These funds are still intact and public opinion throughout the state undoubtedly favors keeping them so.

There are historical precedents where other states made use of such trust funds under the pretext of "temporary borrowing" and never replaced the money taken from them. Michigan and Indiana are two states where this is said to have been done a number of years ago.

Too much borrowing has the same effect on a governmental organization as on an individual. There may be a bona fide intention, in the first instance, to repay the loans, but those who advance money to a chronic borrower frequently find by sad experience that it fails to come back.

The Situation in 1897.

When the government of Nebraska changed hands in 1897 general fund warrants were at a discount, as they are now. Not only had the general fund itself been exhausted, but school funds had also been impaired. When the legislature of 1897 convened, it took cognizance of the situation by appointing a special joint committee to investigate and report on the condition of state finances.

The chairman of this committee was A. E. Sheldon, now superintendent of the state historical society, then a representative from Dawes county. The investigation was started by a joint resolution which he introduced, reading in part as follows:

"Whereas, the attention of the legislature has by the governor been called to irregularities and violations of law in certain state offices; and—

"Whereas, the state apportionment of school funds is not being promptly paid when it was reported to be on hand, thereby entailing great hardship on the schools of Nebraska, and—

"Whereas, there is a widespread belief in Nebraska, founded on a partial knowledge of facts, that the state funds have been placed in banks and the state warrants allowed to go to protest, when such warrants should have been promptly paid—

"Resolved, by the house of representatives, the senate concurring, that a committee of five be chosen to investigate the records and administration of the state offices."

Lost by Not Investing.

The investigation was made and it developed that money belonging to the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund which should have been invested and bringing interest for Nebraska's schools had instead been deposited in banks, and large amounts of it lost in subsequent failures.

This led to the enactment of legislation requiring investment of the funds in standard securities. Since then, not a dollar has ever been lost to them. The trust funds are now invested, for the most part, in bonds bearing 4 1-4 to 5 per cent interest, and in some cases more. Some $900,000 of Massachusetts state bonds, purchased 25 years ago, yield only 3 and 3 1-2 per cent; but they are rated as an A No 1 investment.

Registered state warrants pay only 4 per cent interest, and then not for any fixed period of time, but only until they are called in. If $4,000,000 of trust funds were used to take up registered general fund warrants, the schools of the state and the beneficiaries of soldier relief would lose anywhere from $25,000 to $40,000 a year which they now receive.

Swanson Not Willing.

Land Commissioner Dan Swanson, one of the best informed men in Nebraska on the subject of investments, is opposed to any plan that contemplates using the trust funds to make up deficiencies of revenue caused by the state government's spending more money than it has coming in through regular channels. He is convinced that this would be going from bad to worse.

"Bonds of recognized worth are a better investment than warrants," Mr. Swanson declared Saturday. "They are more stable and bring a higher interest return. I am not in favor of sacrificing the interests of the school children and the ex-service men, merely to provide more spending money for state officials.

"As to those 3 and 3 1-2 per cent Massachusetts bonds, I consider them as good as gold, but, if anybody wishes to buy them from the state and will pay par and accrued interest, in cash, I am willing to sell them and use the money to purchase good Nebraska bonds that bear higher rates. I am willing to trade the Massachusetts bonds for securities offered by private dealers, who cannot dispose of them otherwise."

EARLY CHRISTMAS SHIPPING URGED

Davis Gives Directions For Preparation Of Holiday Shipments.

"A shipment started right is half way there," remarked R. L. Davis, general agent of the American Railway Express Co., in this city, in discussing the coming holiday traffic. All indications point to heavy business, according to Davis, and he laid stress upon the importance of early shipping, as well as early shopping.

Regarding the preparation of holiday shipments, Mr. Davis made some timely suggestions:

"In preparing any shipments, consideration should be given to the nature of the goods, the distance they are to travel and the amount of handling they must necessarily receive. The nature of the gift and the weight will determine whether it can safely be transported with paper wrapping only.

"Fragile articles, like glass and crockery, need the protection of a box or other outside container in addition to ample and suitable cushioning material. If several are forwarded in the same package each should be separately wrapped and then perhaps tied together. Play inside a package may cause damage to the contents. Good strong paper and twine liberally used will help.

"The importance of complete and accurate addressing is obvious. Instead of writing with lead pencil or using tags the marks should be applied directly on the surface of the package by waterproof crayon, ink or stencil, or by use of special holiday labels obtainable on request at the express office. The name and address of the sender might well be enclosed in the package in addition to being shown on the outside.

"Every address should include the name of the receiver, full street and number, city or town, state and in the case of small towns the name of the county. This will prevent delays in delivery often caused by incomplete address.

"Legible writing in preparing an address on a Christmas shipment and the use in addressing the name of the state will aid in prompt handling during the busy season, when every delay may cause disappointment particularly if it results in delivery after Christmas.

"The full name and address of the sender, preceded by the word 'from' should be marked less conspicuously on the upper left hand corner of the package."

Mrs. Cockburn Presses Claim For Part Big Estate

BOSTON Dec 4—(INS)—Stories of murders and lawlessness, cowboys, Indians and Mexicans formed the colorful picture of the western plains and border lands around Tombstone, Ariz., in the early 80's which was transcribed from the hidden recesses in the memory of various witnesses and presented to Judge William M. Prest today in depositions which accompany the petition of Mrs. Carlotta Cockburn of San Gabriel, Calif., claimant to a niece's share in the $40,000,000 estate of Lotta Crabtree, former stage star.

In filing an answer to the special administrator's motion, Mrs. Cockburn stated that her mother was Anna Leopold; that Anna Leopold was married to John A. Crabtree in San Francisco in 1879 and that she, the daughter, was born in Tombstone, Ariz., March 19, 1881.

Reading of the deposition and the taking of direct evidence will be resumed with the opening of court Monday.

Michael M. Rice of California, in his deposition claims to have been a pioneer in the settlement of Tombstone and says he drove more burros than any man in the west, in describing the early days of Arizona, and deposed that he had been on the road with Lotta in the 70's, in 1880 and part of 1881. He said he knew a man in Tombstone named Crabtree, who told him he was Lotta's brother and that he saw this man with a woman who was known in Tombstone as Crabtree's wife. The deposition described the famous Levi-Murphy affair, said by Rice to be one of the greatest killings in history.

The name of a second woman, called "Anna" or "Annie" was interjected into the case through Gilbert E. Kemp, a Boston lawyer, called as a witness. Kemp testified he first knew Mrs. John A. Crabtree in 1898 as "Annie Harris." He said there was a time around 1904 when he heard her spoken of as Mrs. Crabtree.

3,000 Increase In November Warrants

An increase of over 3,000 in the number of warrants issued by the state auditor's office is shown for November this year, compared with the same month in 1925, and the total amount of money paid on these warrants was $820,000 greater than in November a year ago.

This year, 11,179 warrants were written and distributed in November, for a total of $2,841,825. The record in 1925 was 7,805 warrants aggregating $1,180,895.

General fund disbursements, however, were considerably less. The auditor's office wrote 4,938 warrants against that fund for a total of $631,83 , as against 5,341 warrants in November last year which amounted in all to $770,082.

More than one-fourth of all the money paid out last month was from the gasoline tax fund in payment for highway engineers' salaries and work done on roads. The number of warrants was 3,061 and the amount $542,981.

Clevenger Will Talk to Ad Club

Keith Clevenger, public relations director of the natural gas division of the Empire companies of Bartletsville, Okla., will address the Lincoln Ad club Monday noon at the Lincoln hotel. His subject will be "Vision and Purpose in Advertising."

History Tells of Bohemians In Nebraska

—Photographs from State Historical Society.

The first of a contemplated series of histories of the European language groups in Nebraska was received by the Nebraska State Historical society last week. Miss Rose Rosicky of Omaha, the historian for the Bohemian residents, is shown, together with the covers and two pages from the two volumes. One is written in Bohemian and the other is the translation.

The contributions of Nebraska's dozen or more European language groups who took part in the pioneer settlement and development of the state have never been adequately compiled.

Working side by side when the state was very young with those who came from Illinois and Ohio and Wisconsin into the new west, the burden of those from across the seas was doubly hard. Not only theirs the weight of making new homes, but of making them in an alien land, among people whose language they could not speak, whose customs they did not know.

A double load they endured, strangers in a strange land, unbroken, flat country that it was. Their doubts and worries about the future were heavier with loneliness and longing.

But they endured. They turned the first furrows in a land that had never known a plow since the day of creation, built their little log cabins, planted their fields with the grim, unyielding purpose that had brought them far. Today, their descendants are enjoying the fruits of their labors along with the grandchildren of those from New York and Michigan and Iowa, with only tales and faint memories of the labors of their fathers and grandfathers.

Nebraska is one of the exceptional states in the union in its population, being about one-half composed of descendants of the original settlers in the thirteen colonies and one-half composed of large numbers of Germans, Swedes, Bohemians, Danes, Poles, Irish, Scotch, Dutch, English, and small numbers of French, Spanish, Italian, Greek, and other European nationalities.

First History.

During the past week, the Nebraska State Historical society has received the first of the histories of the state's foreign born. Miss Rose Rosicky of Omaha, whose father was for forty years a literary and political leader of his people in Nebraska, has written the history of the Bohemian people in Nebraska. The work is in two volumes of about 400 typewritten pages, each the one in the Bohemian language, the other its English translation. These volumes are the completion of a task undertaken more than a year ago.

Miss Rosicky was for a number of years secretary to her father, and, after his death in 1910, became associate editor of the Osveta America, American Enlightenment, a combined literary and commercial journal; the Hospodar, an agricultural paper, and the Kvety Americke 111, a high class literary magazine in Bohemian. She has translated "Ramona" and "Prince of the Prairie," the latter by Margaret Hill McCarter, and many articles and stories for the Osveta Americka.

Born in Crete Miss Rosicky learned to speak Bohemian as a child, and her knowledge has been of service to her in her historical work, which is "an epoch in Nebraska historical writing," according to A. E. Sheldon, secretary of the historical society. Miss Rosicky has also translated Forman's "History of the United States" into Bohemian, in addition to many handbooks for farmers and housewives. At the present time she is associate editor of the "Hospodar."

More Bohemians.

In the introduction Miss Rosicky writes that Nebraska contains the largest number of Bohemian farmers of the first generation of any state, or one-fifth of all living in the United States reside in Nebraska. Douglas county has the largest number with 2,000 families. Saline comes second with 1,300. Colfax county third with 1,100 families and Butler county fourth with 1060 families. Lancaster comes near the bottom of the list with only 125 families. Wilbet, Prague, Milligan, Clarkson, Linwood, Abie and Bruno all have very large Bohemian populations, Miss Rosicky writes.

She gives brief biographies of the three men who formed the vanguard of Bohemian imigration into Nebraska. Charles Culek, whose descendants spell the name with a Z, first located in Freeport, Ill., Miss Rosicky has found, and came to Nebraska in 1856, arriving at Arago on the Missouri River, now located in Richardson county, August 27. He later took a homestead four miles southeast of the present site of Humboldt. Libor Alois Schlesinger came to Washington county to the Winnebago Indian reservation county, where he took a homestead, in 1857. He later went to Colorado. At the time Libor Schlesinger settled in Washington county, Joseph Horsky had just settled there.

After giving an account of the history of the Bohemian residents by counties, with a sketch of the most prominent ones, Miss Rosicky tells of the early hardships they endured, of the efforts of the Union Pacific and Burlington railroads to bring them to Nebraska, and the location of each of the principal Bohemian colonies in the state by counties and years.

Chapters are given to the Bohemian religions, the Catholic, the Liberals, and the Protestant, and to the Liberal and Catholic schools, and to the Bohemian social and political organizations. One chapter is devoted to the services of the Bohemian people to the American nation in the world war, and she has outlined the organization of the Czechoslovakian republic.

First Bohemian Paper.

The author has given some space to the Bohemian publications, with the two most prominent of which her father was actively concerned. The "Pokrok Zapadu," the first and for a time the only Bohemian paper in Nebraska, was published for fifty-one years. It was founded by Edward Rosewater and published by him until 1877, when John Rosicky, to whom the history is dedicated, purchased it.

The paper was responsible for interesting many Bohemians in Nebraska, and probably brought thousands of them to this country and to this agricultural region. It also had great political influence among its readers. The "Hospodar," is the agricultural journal, which has an international reputation and circulation, going into hundreds of Czech homes and telling the people of American manners of farming.

Even as the history tells of the hardships their pioneers endured, so does it detail the special contributions of the people to the industries and culture of Nebraska. The names and works of their artists, musicians, and writers are listed, together with their teachers, physicians, lawyers, dentists, bankers, political leaders, and other professional people. The history contains a list of Bohemian citizens who have filled offices of every kind in Nebraska.

Speaking of Miss Rosicky's history, Mr. Sheldon said:

"It is the aim of the Nebraska State Historical society to put in worthy literary form a story of each of the European language groups within the commonwealth while there are yet living original settlers who can contribute to such literature.

"Each of these elements has a special contribution in Nebraska society. The children and grandchildren of the original foreign language groups are rapidly merging into the general English speaking American stock. In another fifty years the universal household language will be the American tongue.

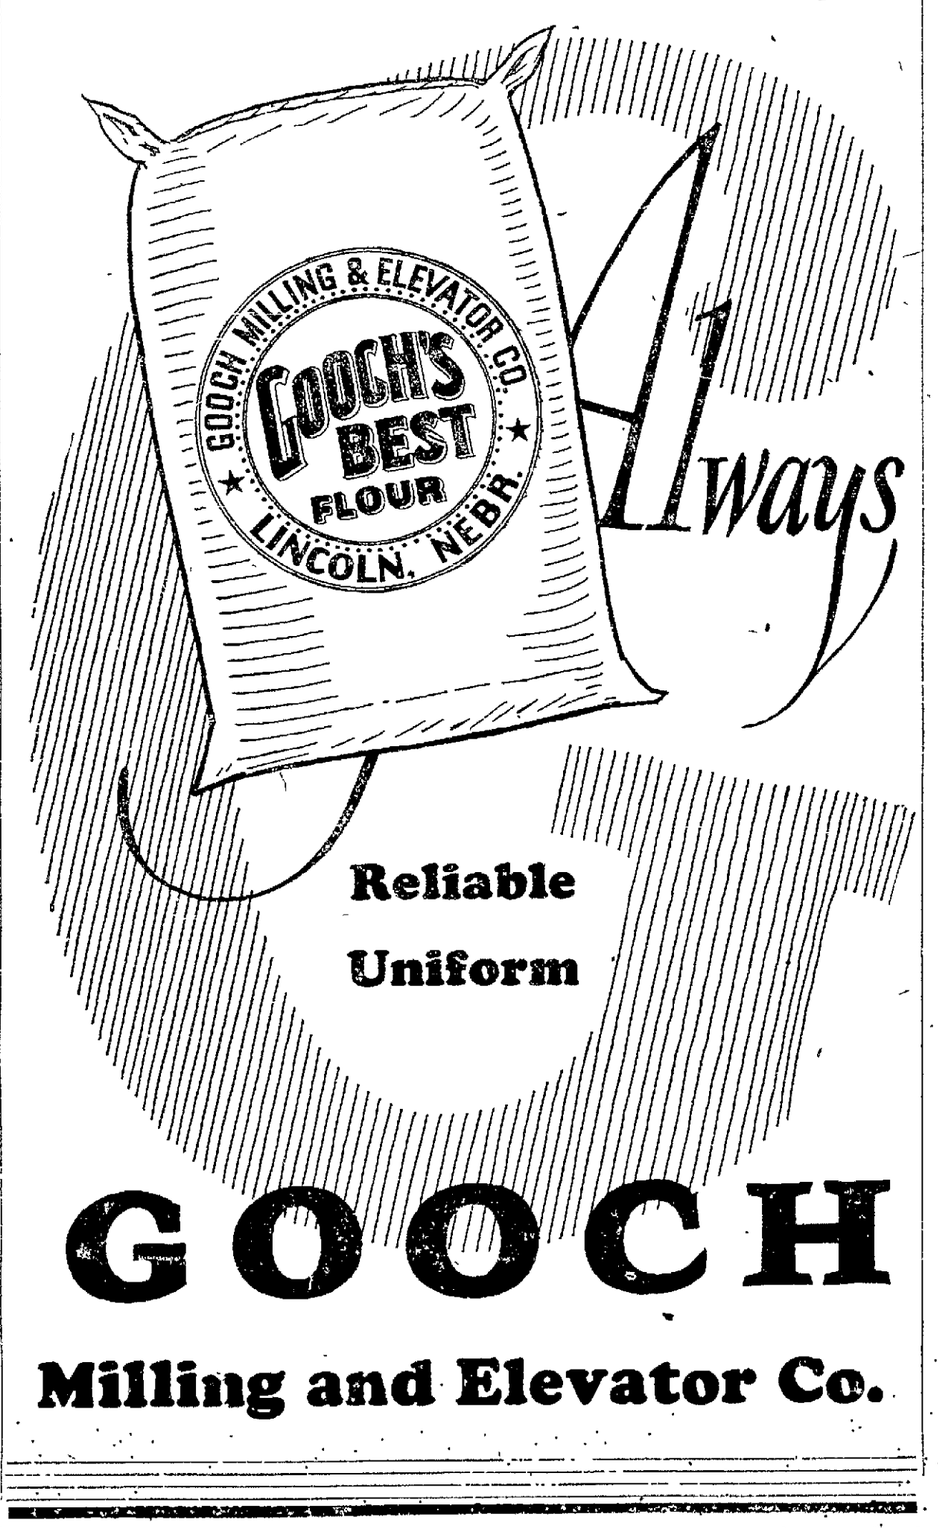

First of Series.

"However, the descendants of these different groups will continue to have a larger interest in the origin of their forefathers. No history of Nebraska will ever be complete which does not discuss the relation of these different European nationalities to the final Nebraska population.

"Miss Rosicky's is the first of such a series and will always be regarded as one of the best.

"This group has steadily won its way to recognition in Nebraska, evolving from the dugout and sod house stage to the owners of fertile and well kept farms and to leadership in many lines of business and the learned professions.

"Miss Rosicky's histories are the first adequate story of any of the European language groups who had part in the pioneer settlement and development in Nebraska. She has set a model for future historians in the field."

"Westward the march of empire takes its way."

That is no less true of manufacturing. Already it has taken its way to the middlewest, but it still has to grow and develop here. Years ago an economic writer stated that a commonwealth, to be prosperous, must possess a fertile soil, busy workshops and quick transportation. All three of these elements have long been met in the west to a certain degree and now are being more and more emphasized.

This state is still "on the make." It is not a finished organization. Rather it is now in the process of construction and elements are even now combining that will determine the consistency of the finished substance.

The fact is that manufacturing must become an integral part of the life of the state, supplementing its other industries and strengthening them. A new class of artisans and skilled workmen is needed to carry on the activities of modern production.

Nebraska must sell itself to the world at large, and to its own people. Its citizens must bear in mind the fact that other mid-western states are alert, anxious for the prestige and advantage that comes from industry. It is only through close competition that real results can be obtained.

With the people of the state firmly united in a policy of mutual co-operation there can be no doubt as to the benefits that will accrue to the community. Buying at home, purchasing home products are simple rules. Yet these economic laws have worked when applied in other places as certainly as do all great principles. If "sold" at home Nebraska hardly needs to worry about its standing abroad.

Former Lincolnite In Africa And India Investigating Missionary Work.

The Rev. Stanley High, formerly of Lincoln, assistant secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, is making a study of mission work in various parts of the world. He has just left Africa after several weeks of investigation and is now in India. Mr. High is a son of Dr. F. A. High superintendent of the Nebraska Anti-Saloon league, and is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan university. Of his trip through Africa Mr. High writes to the board of foreign missions:

"In my places on the mission field people go as far as their money allows them and no farther. In Africa, on that basis, there would hardly be a beginning. So the African missionaries nad their native workers make the money go as far as possible and when its gone they just keep on going without it. Some of the best work I saw in Africa would never have come to pass at all save for the ability of the Christian workers to start something out of nothing and to keep it going on the same basis.

"But the handicaps are certainly great. For example, all the time I was in Africa I did not enter but one really respectable Methodist church building. By respectable, I mean both attractive and adequate. And I did not enter a single church building that had not been outgrown. I wonder if there is any mission field that can equal that record. I did not go to church a single time in Africa when the building was not only filled, but filled to overflowing.

"These handicaps are developing, however, resourceful Christians — which, of course, is no excuse for continuing the handicaps. I wonder, for example, how long our American churches would hold together if they were obliged to worship, year in and year out, under a tree—which is the custom in certain districts in the Congo. And yet, given half a chance by the authorities, these church members will work at night to build churches of their own. Send them away to new districts for forced labor and, invariably, they will organize new congregations and do the preaching themselves until the missionary can come out to help them.

"The most attractive native church I saw in Africa—it was not complete—was being built at Bethlehem, the Christian village near Kambini. The church members had done the whole job. They even burned the brick themselves and paid the mission for the use of the kiln by giving it one-half of the bricks burned. Now, the church members who are at work in Johannesburg have given enough money for the roof and the bell so the work will soon be completed.

"At Kambini we certainly had a royal time. I've never been in a mission station where the very spirit of co-operation and good will seemed so completely to pervade everything. The three families there — Gillets, Keys and Rays — supplement each other most completely and the work of the station moves forward without a hitch. But it moves forward only as a result of strenuous work. The wives of the three missionaries each conduct classes for the wives of the evangelists; one of them helps out at the dispensary; and they do a variety of odd but necessary jobs. The only reason the women work so very hard is because the Central training school at Kambini has a real program, the missionaries have vision and they are all determined to see the thing through—which can't be done with the present staff unless the ladies' help."

Declare Another Company Liable In Accident Case

A supplemental petition of the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance company, in appeal from the decision of the state compensation commissioner, was filed in District court Saturday afternoon in the case of E. G. Kisler against the Travelers Insurance company, the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance company and C. V. Keller.

Kisler was working for Keller in the latter's garage and was injured on two dates, it is claimed. On August 5, 1926, a car fell off of a block, injuring him, it is claimed. On May 9, 1925, a driverless car crushed him against a bench.

The Travelers company was the carrier at the time of the first injury. The Metropolitan company asserts that he was not injured on August 5, 1926, at which time that company was responsible, but that he is suffering from injuries sustained on May 9, 1925, and that the Travelers Insurance company should pay.

FINAL WORK ON 'DREAM PIRATE'

Kosmet Klub Annual Production at Orpheum December 13.

Has All-Male Cast — Plan Tour of Eight Nebraska Towns.

Final arrangements are being made for the presentation of "The Dream Pirate," 1926 show of the Kosmet Klub of the University of Nebraska, in Lincoln December 13 and a week later on a tour of eight Nebraska towns.

The play will be presented this year with an all-male cast of fifty, the fourteenth production by the Kosmet Klub.

The show will be presented at the Orpheum theater, both afternoon and evening, December 13. On December 17 it will begin a tour including Nebraska City, Beatrice, Hastings, Grand Island, Columbus, Norfolk, Fremont and Omaha. In most of these towns it will appear under the auspices of some civic organization.

Herbert Yenne, an instructor in the dramatic department, wrote the play, and Lowell A. Miller, Lemar Burling, Betty Clapper and Harriett Cruise Kemmer assisted with the music.

Vance Greenslit of Hastings will play the leading male role and Cecil Schmitt of Madison the leading feminine role. Pony and society choruses are now being drilled in songs and music. The dancing is under the direction of Ralph Ireland, who recently returned from engagements on Broadway, New York.

Vinton Lawson, end on the 1926 Husker football team, plays the "heavy lead." He has had considerable experience, both in the university and at Omaha Central high school. Edward "Blue" Howell, varsity fullback, also takes a male role.

The show is a complete musical comedy. Judd Crocker and George Gregory, both of Omaha, make up a dancing team and Kenneth Cook, Randolph; Paul Morrow, Fremont, Carl Olson, Lincoln; and Wallace Banta, Stromsburg, make up a pirate quartet for the last act.

The work of making up the men for girls parts has required considerable work and advice has been obtained from the Haresfoot club at Wisconsin and the Triangle club of Princeton, clubs especially well known in the presentation of musical comedies with all-male casts.

Conaway Beaver's regular Orpheum theater orchestra will be augmented to eighteen pieces for the Lincoln performances, while on the road the club will carry its own jazz band.

Speed Limit On Street by State Farm Enforced

Motorists may drive no faster on streets adjoining the state farm, than on any other Lincoln thoroughfare, Municipal Judge Chappell ruled Saturday morning.

Prosecutor Rupert Boehmer declared in a speeding case that both Holdrege and Warren are Lincoln streets since University Place became annexed, and that both are maintained by the city and not by the county. Therefore, he held, the city speed limit is to be enforced there.

In connection with speeding, Judge Chappell announced that his practice of giving youths an opportunity to escape a fine by their agreeing to go without a car for a stipulated period, has been dropped. The other day Judge Chappell heard a man complain that he could not keep his son from driving the family car. "Well, Judge Chappell will get him some day, and then he will be ordered not to drive," The unidentified father stated.

"I'm not going to be the spanking whip in any family," Judge Chappell said.

Asks $3,000 For Injuries to Wife In Crossing Crash

Frank Staats filed suit in district court Saturday afternoon against the Rock Island railroad asking $3,000 damages as a result of an accident at the A street crossing of the railroad company on December 24, 1922, in which Mrs. Staats was injured.

He claims negligence on the part of the railroad and asserts that his wife was in bed for three months, that he was put to great expense and inconvenience.

He states that he was damaged to the extent of $10,000, but waives damages above $3,000.

Wisconsin Girl Victim

Disappearance of Clara Olsen, 22-year-old farmer's daughter, and Erdman Olson, 18, her sweetheart, and subsequent finding of the girl's hastily buried body in a Wisconsin hillside, has resulted in a nationwide search for the youth, who is charged with the slaying. Above is a picture of Miss Olson.

Obituary

Neville J. Vinson.

Neville Jacob Vinson was born June 14, 1867 at Quincy, Ill., and departed this life on November 29, 1926, at his home in Lincoln, aged 59 years, 5 months and 15 days. At the age of eight years he moved with his parents to Maryville, Mo., where he spent his boyhood, coming to Nebraska at the age of 20.

On November 15, 1897, he was married to Cora Trunbo of Eagle, Neb., to which place they moved in 1901 and made their residence until 1923, when they moved to Lincoln. To this union were born four children: twin daughters, Vena May Worthington and Vina Irene Fisher, and one son, Lester R., all of Lincoln, and one daughter, Gracie Bernice, who died in infancy. These, with his wife, survive him. He also leaves to mourn his loss an aged father in California: M. W. of McCook, C. S of Kelvin, Mont., R. H of Great Fall, Mont. and C. L. of Oklahoma City, Okla.; four sisters, Mrs. Cora Doyle of McCook, Neb., Mrs. Carrie Hill of Lincoln, Mrs. Bertha Rhoades and Mrs. Jennie Campbell of Los Angeles; also two grandsons, Eugene Fisher and Jimmy Worthington of Lincoln, whose devoted companionship did much to brighten his days during his illness, which extended over a period of three years.

Funeral was held Wednesday, December 1, at 2:30 p. m. at Robert's chapel, Rev. J. W. Davis officiating. Burial in Wyuka.

CONTRIBUTED.

JOHN ALLEN BRADFORD.

John Allen Bradford was born at Malvern, Ia., May 4, 1886, and died in an automobile accident Nov. 27, 1926. At the age of two years he came to Nebraska with his parents, locating at Wayne where he spent the greater part of his boyhood.

He was united in marriage to Miss Cecilia Frohner of Hastings, Jan. 10, 1906. He is survived by his wife, one son, Everett, two daughters, Erma and Elma, his father, W. R. Bradford, four brothers and three sisters.

Mr. Bradford had resided in Lincoln for six years, being employed by the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. His work was as instructor in first-aid, which subject he taught throughout the territory of the company.

The respect of his employers and fellow employees for Mr. Bradford was seen in the closing of the telephone plant for the funeral service, the first time this has been done on a like occasion in the history of the firm. The funeral service crowded to capacity the auditorium of the Vine Congregational church on Wednesday afternoon, December 1.

Big Convetnions Scheduled To Be Held In December

A number of large conventions have been scheduled for Lincoln for December, the most important of which is the Central Western Shippers' advisory board to the car service division of the American Railway association. This meeting opens at the chamber of commerce at 9:30 Wednesday morning and closes in the evening with a banquet at which the visitors will be the guests of the chamber. About 400 are expected. The executive committee of the board meets at 2.

Tuesday the state Master Painters' and Decorators' association meets. More than 200 delegates are expected and the meeting will continue through Thursday.

The last day of the painters' and decorators' conclave will extend over into the opening session of the delegate assembly of the Nebraska State Teachers' association, which opens Friday night and continues through Saturday.

This meeting is the one at which the teachers care for the business of the organization. It will be attended by not less than 300, it is estimated at the office here of E. M. Hosman, state secretary.

The prinfcipal business at the meeting will be the completion of a legislative program and election of officers for 1927.

December 29 and 30 will find the state bar association in session. Leaders of the legal profession from all sections of the state will be here, as will some of the most noted legal lights of other states.

BAD GRASS FIRE.

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., Dec. 4.—Three sections of valuable pasture and meadow land were burned over by a fire that was started Friday by a lighted cigaret stub northwest of here. The flames were fanned by a high wind, and were only controlled by being driven into the Belmont irrigation ditch.

NEBRASKA MAY GET HOSPITALS

Conklin Says The American Legion Trying to Secure Location In State.

Assurance that national committees of the American legion are putting forth their best efforts this years to bring a disabled veterans hospital to Nebraska was brought back to Lincoln from Indianapolis today by C. W. Conklin, state adjutant of the legion.

With State Commander Earl Meyer, Mr Conklin has been attending the three-day annual conference of department commanders and adjutants. While at Indianapolis he saw Watson B. Miller, chairman of the rehabilitation committee, and John Thomas Taylor, vice-chairman of the legislative committee. Following the recommendation of the Philadelphia convention, they are working to get authorization for the hospital from congress.

Mr. Conklin will urge all Nebraska Legionnaires to write their congressmen and senators to use their influence for the hospital in congress. A bill probably will be drawn for consideration at the coming session.

On their way home, Mr. Conklin and Mr. Meyers stopped at Omaha for a meeting of the state Paris convention committee. Representatives of the Burlington, North Western, Milwaukee, Rock Island, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Wabash, Baltimore & Ohio and other railroads were there, seeking for their companies the title of official road over which the 600 or 700 Nebraskans attending next year's Paris convention will travel. Decision on this matter has not yet been made.

At the conference in Indianapolis, such topics as child welfare, rehabilitation, community service, the Paris convention and membership were discussed.

No Attractions Booked for Fair At Chicago Meet

President E. R. Purcell, Vice President T. H. Wake, and Secretary George Jackson of the state fair board who attended the annual meeting of the American association of fairs and expositions at Chicago last week, did not close any contracts there for attractions at next year's state fair but they blue-penciled several offerings which did not suit them.

Mr. Jackson served as a pallbearer at funeral services in Chicago for Secretary Phil Eastman of the Kansas free state fair at Topeka, who died suddenly while attending the meeting. The remains were cremated. Mr. Eastman was secretary of the midwest circuit of fairs, to which the Nebraska belongs. E. G. Bylander of Arkansas was elected in his place.

The annual meeting of the state board of agriculture will be held in Lincoln the week of January 17.

P. T. A. ORGANIZATION.

(Special to The Star.)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb. Dec. 4.—A rural school gained the distinction of forming the first parent-teacher association in Pawnee county, when patrons of District 2, three miles west of here, met with the teacher, Miss Freda Niles, this week and elected Mrs. A. B. Hansen president and Miss Niles vice president of the association. Several other rural schools will perfect similar organizations this month.

"PARKING TAX" IN LITTLE FAVOR

Proposal Due For Defeat Monday, Mayor Admits.

General Tightening-up Planned to Stop Auto Accidents.

Mayor Zehrung's parking tax proposal probably will be tossed into the discard at the meeting of the city council Monday, the mayor believed Saturday. "It is not improbable that the city attorney will advise me such legislation would be illegal," he declared.

The proposal of the mayor, however, has been attracting attention all over the country, the number of press clippings and editorial comments that have been sent him, indicate "They are coming from all sections of the United States," he said Saturday, "indicating that every city in the country is trying desperately to solve the parking and traffic problem."

According to Mayor Zehrung, many places have a wrong impression of his proposal. This is all true in Lincoln, he added. "My plan does not sell a man a certain place along the curb for a year, as many believe," he said, "It simply charges him $5 a year for the privilege of parking anywhere in the congested district."

Whether the plan would solve the problem the mayor does not know, "but something must be done, he said. "Trade is being driven away from the business center every day and the man in the high rent districts, he who is paying $500 a month for a 25-foot room, is losing a large amount of business to the outlying districts."

What the solution of the problem is the mayor has no idea, but he likes the plan suggested by a Lincoln business man in a letter recently. It would amend the parking ordinances to allow but thirty minutes parking in the congested area. This, the mayor believes, would not really constitute parking although it would give the driver of a motor car ample time to transact business in a store and move off from the curb without violating the ordinance. his also would be true of women shoppers. "Certainly it would increase the chances of finding a place to park," he said.

Automobile accidents were again the topic of conversation at the city hall Saturday, to the exclusion of almost every other subject. What to do is puzzling each of the commissioners. One of them, however, likely will insist that the traffic policemen continue making arrests "as they have the last three or four days." The commissioner quoted Major Gross as saying "if speeding is causing these accidents and fatalities we certainly will stop it." Since that time, according to the official, "traffic arrests have doubled. This is shown by the records and is an indication that the police have not been bearing down as much as they could."

Woman Hurt In Auto Accident Now Improved

Mrs. Emil Johnson, 1931 U street, was in an improved condition at the Lincoln hospital Saturday evening. She was injured when the car in which she was riding turned on its side in a collision at Nineteenth and Q streets.

Mrs. Johnson suffered an injury to her hip, but Dr J. W. Carothers said he believed there was no fracture.

According to a police report, Johnson was driving south on Nineteenth when his car collided with one driven by Dr. Fred R. Metheny, which was traveling west. Dr. Metheny reported the accident to police. Mrs. Johnson was taken to the hospital in Kroblen, Goldstein and Umberger's ambulance.

Medals Ready for Drivers Who Have Clear Records

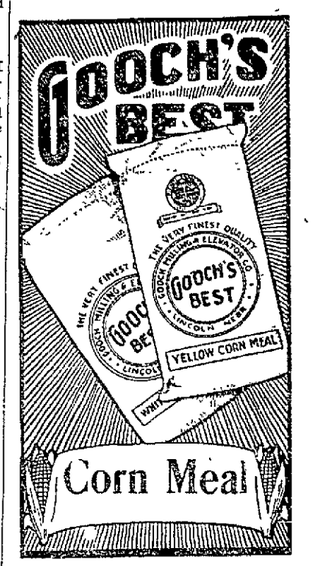

If you have not been arrested during 1926 for speeding, reckless driving or driving while drunk, and if you have not figured in a serious collision, you are entitled to a "Good Conduct" emblem for your motor car.

Chief of Police Peter Johnstone received word Saturday from the International Association of Automobile Traffic Officers, of which he is a member, that the emblems are now ready for distribution from the national headquarters, 505 University street, Seattle, Wash.

The association was formed the first of this year and announces its aim as the bringing about of harmony and co-operation between the motorist, the traffic officer and the police judge.

Police officials have received numerous calls recently in inquiry about the "Good Conduct" emblems. Chief Johnstone said the only way to get them is to write to the association headquarters.

TO KEEP RECORD OF THEIR COWS

Will Attempt To Place Dairying On a Strictly Business Basis.

(Special to The Star.)

EMERSON, Neb., Dec. 4.—As a result of a joint meeting of farmers and bankers of this locality, a program of community development work with definite plans to increase profits in farming, Dixon county's principal industry, will be launched here. The purpose of the meeting, which will be held here under the direction of the Farmers State bank, Dec. 7, is to discuss and lay plans for a community association of farmers and bankers interested in promoting prosperity through the use of dairy cows, which will be known as the Prosperity Cow club.

Arrangements for the big meeting are being completed by local farmers and bankers and all appear to be working with great interest on the project. Local leaders back of the cow clubs in this locality declare that one of the most urgent needs today on the average Dixon county farm where cows are milked, is the introduction of modern business methods, based on a simple book account of every cow so as to determine how to feed them for most profitable production.

Farmers must recognize that a cow is merely a milk factory moving on four legs and not all of these factories can convert economically such raw materials as pasture grasses, dry and succulent roughage, grains and their by-products into milk and butter fat. And since no one can tell by looking at a cow, whether she can be fed into profitable production, the way to find out is to keep a record of feed consumption and milk production.

Accordingly each member of the Prosperity Cow club will be furnished and familiarized with a simple system of records, telling him which of his cows are making a good porfit and which are not.

OFFER CRYSTAL LAKE FOR PARK

Northeast Nebraska Residents Would Have State Acquire Resort.

(Special to The Star.)

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, Neb., Dec. 4.—A movement in which the resident of Dakota county as well as several other counties of northeast Nebraska are interested on account of the camping and fishing grounds here, is to establish a state park at Crystal lake, concerted efforts already having been made by a number of civic organizations here to bring this about. After considering the question at a recent meeting of the commercial club, a unanimous vote was recorded for the project. Present plans include the appointment of committees from the commercial organization, Izaak Walton league and other groups which will present the matter before the state legislature during the winter session, hoping to obtain immediate action.

Those who are back of the project assert that Crystal lake is the finest natural body of water in Nebraska and the development of a state park here would make this one of the best fishing and camping grounds in the middle west that is within reasonable distance of the large cities of the state. Even now during the summer large numbers of picnickers, including family groups, Sunday schools, fishing parties, clubs and other organizations, visit Crystal lake from many of the towns of northeast Nebraska and the improvement of the resort by making it a state park would bring many others who now are tempted to go further north for fishing and outing.

The general committee, appointed to push the project, are George Boucher, J. J. Elmers and S. P. Maberry.

Antelope County Will Back Boys And Girls Clubs

NELIGH, Neb., Dec. 4.—At the annual meeting of the Antelope County Fair and Agricultural association the following were chosen as directors: J. M. Grove, Royal; C. H. Ray, Oakdale; R. M. Kryger, S. D. Thornton Jr., Neligh, and J. C. Coupland, Elgin. The first two are new members and the others re-elections.

President James Alderson presented the matter of organizing boys' and girls' calf and pig clubs and the project was given the indorsement of the association, the directors being authorized to proceed to put the project through. It was the unanimous opinion that if such clubs could be organized in sufficient numbers it would be the biggest thing the fair has ever undertaken and would mean much for the future prosperity of Antelope county.

Gasoline War Is Raging At Geneva

(Special to The Star.)

GENEVA, Neb., Dec. 4.—A gasoline war is being staged by dealers at filling stations in Geneva. The price cutting started Thursday when the prevailing figure for gas was 22 cents, and by Friday afternoon the auto-liquid was selling for 15 cents. The Warner, the Thomas and the Peterson filling stations in Geneva had all reached the low figure in their competion and, trade was increased as the price became generally known. The fifteen cent figure included the state tax.

Blair High School Annual Is Winner Division Contest

(Special to The Star.)

BLAIR, Neb., Dec. 4.—In the national Rocky mountain high school annual contest, held at the University of Boulder, Col., the Blair high school annual, known as "The Tattler," won first place, not only in its division but in its class as well.

The "Trail" from the Longmont, Colo. high school, won second honors. The "Purple and Gold" from the Lewiston, Ida. high school, was placed third.

The Blair high school Tattler received the highest honors of any high school annual published in the western division of the United States.

LONG SUIT OVER TITLE TO LANDS

Wife Did Not Sign Deeds To What Is Claimed Was Homestead.

(Special to The Star.)

AURORA, Neb., Dec. 4.—For four days Judge L. S. Hastings was busy in District court trying the locally famous lawsuit of Knute S. Engen against the Union State bank of Harvard. The trial and arguments were concluded Thursday night and Judge Hastings has reserved his decision but expects to decide the case in a short time. The plaintiff, Engen lives in Washington and his mother, the former wife of Christian Knudson of this county resides in Norway.

One of the principal contentions in the case was that certain deeds of Hamilton county property had been procured by the officers of the Union State bank for some of their customers who was nephews and nieces of Christian Knudson. These deeds did not bear the signature of Knudson's wife, a resident of Norway. There was evidence intended to show that this land was the homestead of Knudson at the time the deeds were made and it is the contention of the plaintiff and Mrs. Knudson that the deeds were therefore absolutely void.

Attorneys were in court from Lincoln, Omaha, Cambridge, Grand Island and Aurora, representing various parties in the suit. The Union State bank of Harvard is now in the hands of the guaranty fund commission and the land in question stood in the name of the Union State bank at the time receiver was appointed. The First Trust company of Lincoln made loans aggregating $9,500 on the land and the plaintiff is seeking to set aside these mortgages also.

THINK HOSPITAL IS SURE THING

Nebraska Legion Commander Back From National Conference.

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., Dec. 4.—E. L. Meyer, state commander of the American Legion of Nebraska, returned Friday from Indianapolis, where he attended a national meeting of state commanders and adjutants of the legion. John Thomas Taylor, chairman of the national legislative committee, reported that President Coolidge was in hearty accord with the legion on its building program and there is little doubt that the Nebraska disabled veterans' hospital will be erected as planned, Mr. Meyer states.

The location of the proposed hospital was not discussed at the meeting, however, and this will not be definitely decided upon until the program is launched.

Plans were discussed for the Paris trip next year, according to Commander Meyer, and a conference of leading railway men of the country was held at Omaha Thursday night. The Nebraska delegation will sail from Hoboken on September 6 on the steamship Republic, says the commander.

Conductor Ormsby Falls Off Train And Life Is Lost

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., Dec. 4.—Hugh Ormsby, 37, of Casper, Wyo., Burlington conductor who often came into Alliance on passenger runs, was instantly killed at 4 o'clock Thursday morning at Glenrock, Wyo., when he fell from a tank car of a moving train. There were no witnesses to the fatality and what caused the man to fall is not known.

Mr. Ormsby was in charge of an eastbound freight train out of Casper. A stop was made at Glenrock to pick up some oil cars and it was while switching was being done that the accident happened. He had been a Burlington employe for more than 15 years and was one of the most highly respected trainmen in the Burlington service.

He is survived by a widow and one child, two brothers, Clarence and George of Alliance, and one sister, Mrs. Mable Coleman, of Curtis, Neb.

CRETE NOTES.

(Special to The Star.)

CRETE, Neb., Dec. 4.—The body of Mrs. R. J. Tambling, a former old resident of Crete, arrived here Thursday from Oakland, Calif., at which place she died, and was buried beside her husband, who died in 1897. Mrs. Tambling was a nurse and followed that calling for many years during her residence here. Her one daughter, Mrs. Elva Ackerman, accompanied the body. Crete Eastern Star chapter conducted the services at the grave.

Eighty ladies were in attendance at the covered dish dinner given at the Methodist church dining room on Dec. 1. Table decorations were in the line of Christmas suggestions, including small Christmas trees, poinsettia nut cups, place cards picturing old Santa Claus. A bounteous dinner was served and many more could have been fed. The regular business meeting of the Ladies Aid society was held at the close of the dinner and all reports showed that splendid work had been done throughout the year, leaving a fine balance to start the work for 1927.

The Eastern Star held election Thursday night with the following results: Worthy matron, Mrs. Della Smith; worthy patron, Dr. C. C. Lillibridge; associate matron, Mrs. Ella Bahner; secretary, Miss Nellie Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Edna Denny; conductress, Mrs. Marvel Hudson; associate conductress, Mrs. Ellen Lillibridge. Installation of these officers will take place about the middle of January.

T. H. Miller, father of Mrs. C. B. Anderson of Lincoln, and J. G. and O. G. Miller of Crete, started Saturday for his sixteenth winter trip to California, where he makes his home with another daughter, Mrs. A. G. Kennedy of Palo Alto.

Football Players Guests Of Rotary

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., Dec. 4.—The Alliance Rotary club entertained the members of the Alliance high school football team at the Alliance hotel Friday evening. It is the custom for the Rotarians to entertain the local athletes each year. Short speeches were made by J. O. Stockton, coach of athletics at the high school, and Earl Mallery for the Rotary club. Mr. Mallery expressed the pleasure it gave the Rotary club to have as its guests the team members; Mr. Stockton the appreciation of the school and team for the support of the Rotarians during the fall football campaign.

Dedicate a New School Building

(Special to The Star.)

RISING CITY, Neb., Dec. 4.—Rising City's new $57,000 school building was formally dedicated Friday evening in the presence of 600 patrons and friends of the school, who filled the auditorium to overflowing. The principal addresses were made by State Superintendent John N. Matzen and Mrs. Fern Neill, county superintendent of Butler county. Music was furnished by the Rising City band and the exercises were participated in by the pupils of the various grades.

Degree of Honor Juveniles Guests at Banquet

Juveniles of the Degree of Honor who were guests of Miss Rose Herrick, grand secretary, at a banquet held at the county convention of that organization. They responded with songs appropriate to the occasion and in the evening put on a playlet entitled "Lazy Children, Will You Get Up?" After a hearty applause they responded with a song "Dear Mother."

A juvenile lodge will be instituted in the near future and as these juniors reach the age of sixteen years, they will be transferred to the adult lodge.

Workman On Cass County Farm Dies Of Heart Trouble

(Special to The Star.)

LOUISVILLE, Neb., Dec. 4.—Emil Foreman, 65, was found dead early Saturday morning in the barn at the farm home of Frederick Stohlman, four miles south of Louisville. He had been husking corn for Stohlman, and went out to the barn in the morning to feed the horses. A little later he was found dead, it was thought, from heart trouble.

The body was brought to the undertaking establishment of Stander & Stander at Louisville.

Forman was a native of Germany and no living relatives are known in this country. He had made his home around Louisville and South Bend for the past twenty-five years.

Former Wymore Man Is Married

(Special to The Star.)

WYMORE, Neb., Dec. 4.—Wilber F. Farlow, retired former Burlington railway roadmaster of Wymore, stopped off in Wymore today with his bride for a visit with friends. Mr. Farlow served the railway for 43 years, 25 of this being roadmaster out of Wymore, and was retired by the company two years ago. He married Mrs. Emma Craig, former resident of Hardy, at Pocatello, Idaho, recently and the couple have been sojourning in southern California. They are now on their way to Kansas City, where Mr. Farlow has a son. The bride was formerly Miss Emma Shuler, daughter of Mrs. Rudolph Frye, of Hardy. They expect to live in southern California.

Nice Profit Made By Kansas Woman Off Turkey Flock

(Special to The Star.)

CONCORDIA, Kas., Dec. 4.—Mrs. Austin Zirkle, wife of a farmer of the Jamestown vicinity, just west of here, has found that a flock of turkeys pays its way. Out of 80 young turkeys last spring she raised 72 full grown birds for market this fall.

She recently marketed 36 of the turkeys for a total of $148, or an average of $4.10 per turkey, and she still retains 36 of the choice ones for breeding purposes, for a starting of a flock next year. The total flock would have brought in over $300. She finds that while they require a little more care than chickens, they hunt more for their own feed and do not cost any more than chickens, while they can be marketed for twice as much. The Zirkle corn crop this year was not heavy and the flock of turkeys will do much to make up for it.

SEWARD NOTES.

(Special to The Star.)

SEWARD, Neb., Dec. 4. — Bert Chain and Harry Rigdon of Seward accompanied Ralph Fetterman of Lincoln, to Muskogee, Okla., Friday to look after oil well and farming interests.

A total of $220 per month is paid out by this county for mothers' pensions. The law provides for a special levy to raise the funds from which to pay these pensions but here the expense is so small they are paid from the general fund.

Mrs. William Smiley of Pleasant Dale sustained a painful accident Friday, at her farm home. When she was entering her home she fell, striking her face on the ground with such force that she broke her glasses, which cut into her face from her eye to her cheek. Several stitches were required to close the wound.

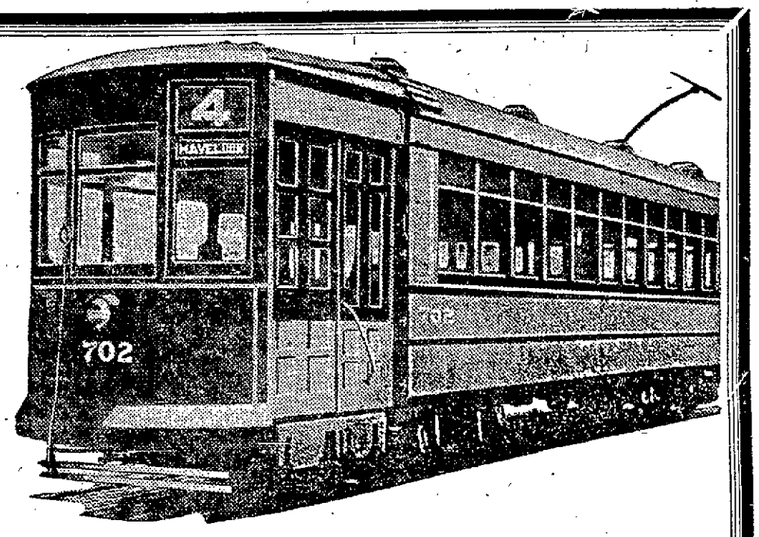

John Curtiss of the Lincoln chamber of commerce, and "Gloomy Gus" of the KFAB broadcasting station, were the entertainers at the luncheon of the commercial club, on Tuesday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Joe Morrow left Wednesday by motor for Texas, to spend the winter.

Taking Chances

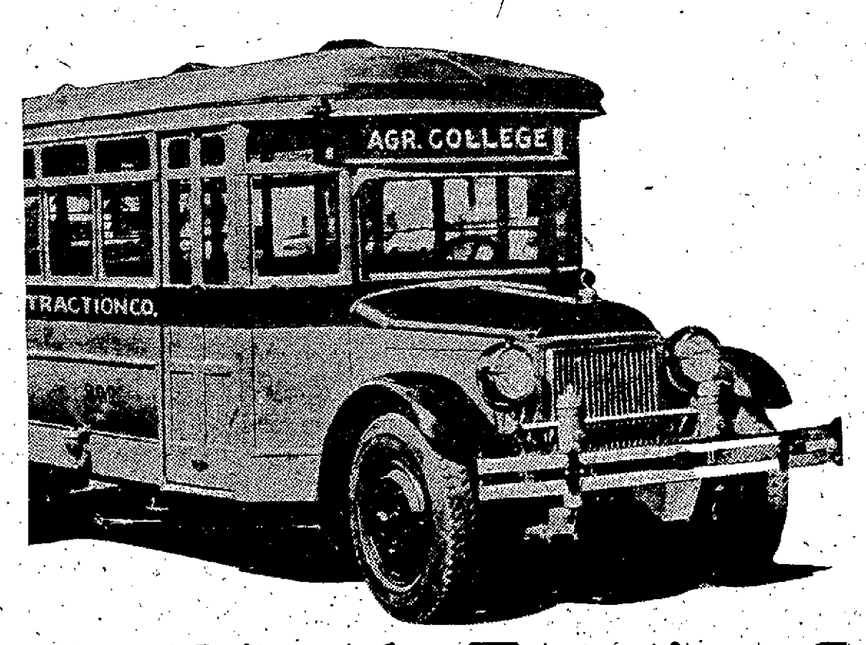

Children everywhere, throngs crossing between corners, the streets jammed from curb to curb, drivers impatient and stepping hard on the accelerator at every chance.

All this you have to contend with in driving down-town at this time of year. To even the most experienced drivers there are unavoidable risks, work, and annoyance.

Are you taking chances? Do you have narrow escapes now and then? Do you feel nervous and uncertain when you get into a "tight pinch"? How about the safety of the children?

With all the things you have to think about when you're doing your Christmas shopping, why worry about driving?

Notre Dame Wins Thrilling Battle From Trojans

HOOSIER IRISH IN FRONT 13-12

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 4.—Howard Jones and his Southern California Trojans apparently were riding on the crest of the victory tide today, in possession of a 12-7 point margin, but a forward passing gale, sweeping off the Irish coast swamped Howard's boat and Knute Rockne's Notre Dame Pirates edged their way to triumph by a scoring advantage of 13-12. A gigantic gathering of 75,000 spectators jammed every inch of the Los Angeles Coliseum and witnessed the scuttling of the Trojans' ship.

The plunging system of the Jones aggregation was pitted against the aerial tactics of the Rockne eleven and the plunge bowed its head in defeat to the pass. A fourth period rally, staged during the fading moments of tense struggle enabled the Rocknemen to snatch the victory

Flanagan and O'Boyle.

The fighting Irish drew first blood in the opening quarter Frequent penalties inflicted at the expense of both teams balked the efforts of the ball carriers, but exchanges of punts eventually gave the Irish possession of the ball on their thirty-yard line. Halfback Flanagan then slid his way off tackle to two first downs and O'Boyle, Irish full-back, followed with a spectacular dash of twenty-five yards

Another drive by O'Boyle was turned back, but Quarterback Riley sped around Trojans' right wing, back of a wall of sterling interference and a dash of fifteen yards planted the ball back of the U. S C goal. The extra point negotiated and the Rocknemen were making pace 7 to 0.

Kaer Real Goods.

The Trojans responded with sterling efficiency in the second quarter A series of brilliant off-tackle smashes by Quarter-back Kaer advanced the ball deep into Irish territory and Kaer then hurled a forty-yard pass to Right end Berjendt, who was tackled on the Notre Dame one-yard line, whence Full-back Laraneta ploughed through to a Trojan touchdown Taylor's miss of the goal kick gave the Irish a one point margin

Trojans and Irish were deadlocked during a scoreless third period, but injury at the start of the fourth quarter sent Kaer to the side lines and gave his substitute Don Williams his opportunity to direct the Trojan helm on a sustained march which advanced the ball from mid-field to a second U. S C touchdown Williams accounted for the bulk of the Trojan ball-lugging. Another missed goal kick, this one by Half-back Drury, seemingly conveyed no hint of disaster, yet subsequent events demonstrated that Drury's failure wrecked the Trojans' hopes.

Parisien Pinch-Hitter.

Coach Rockne's ace in the hole reserved for display during the final period, was Quarter-back Parisien. The poison he injected into the veins of Howard Jones' boys suggested that he might, with much propriety, be named "Paris Green"

ATHLETIC MEET HERE THIS WEEK

Nebraska Athletic Association Delegates Gather For Friday Meeting.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The annual meeting of the Nebraska High School Athletic association is scheduled Friday of this week in Lincoln. The representatives are to gather at the Lincoln hotel for the confab and with a long list of business arranged for the delegates it promises to be a prolonged afternoon for all

One of the important topics for discussion this year will be the proposed constitution drafted by a committee composed of O. A. Wirsig of Kearney, Ira A. Jones of Omaha and W. E. Flake of Stanton.

Constitution is Drafted.

Drafting a constitution for such a body as the N H. S A A has not been an easy task but from the manner in which the proposed document has been received in this section the committee has functioned in a wise manner

There will be plenty of debating over some parts, however, and the usual flow of oratory which accompanies any constitutional ratification proceedings

One provision calls for the enlargement of the board of control to include "one member from each district of the Nebraska Teachers association"

Regulate All Contests.

A step forward is seen in the provision that "all athletic contests involving four or more schools should have the sanction of the secretary-treasurer of the athletic board"

Another article deals with officials for games The secretary-treasurer of the association is charged with preparing a list of approved officials, who shall be available for officiating and the issuing of indentification cards to those approved . It is also provided that these cards may be revoked for cause

May Discuss Tourney.

The matter of the state basketball tournament may also come up for considerable discussion Some school men are insisting upon the return to the district scheme although a poll of the association last year showed an overwhelming majority in favor of the one state tourney

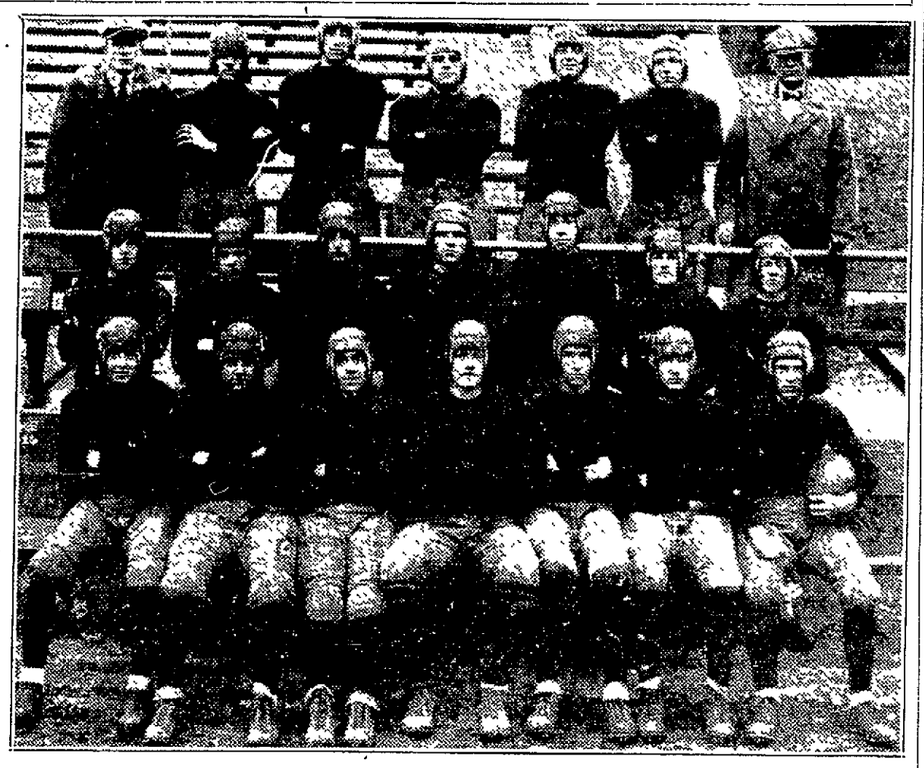

It is felt that this year the plan of the board of control is wise in limiting the entries to just those who have fulfilled certain requirements.

Plans for the staging of a state high school wrestling meet may also be discussed. Some schools in the state have introduced the mat sport and are anxious to provide a tournament for settling state honors in the different classes

Final Five Minutes Of Coast Game Real Thriller Says Lait

BY JACK LAIT.
(Famous Author, Playwright and Newspaper Writer)
(Copyright, 1926, by International News Service.)

COLISEUM, LOS ANGELES Calif, Dec 4—St Patrick's Day, according to Pacific coast standard time, fell on Dec. 4 this year instead of March 17.

Notre Dame out-passed, surpassed, and passed U. S C in a finish as thrilling as any ever conceived by the most fantastic scenario dreamer With four minutes to play, it looked as though the Hoosier collegians had blown. Then came a series of daring, lightning, perfect passes, and Southern California passed out Twice this year, over the goal line of national championship, the Trojans failed to kick the additional point The score against Notre Dame was the same as the one against Leland Stanford —just not enough.

Final Minutes Thrilling.

Notre Dame played great football only in the final five minutes. The rest was just durable machine stuff, and not always that The dashing outfit that had swept the early part of the season, clean looked like no world-beaters.

Southern California—not only the school, but the citizens—took defeat like thorough Trojans.

Notre Dame cast a pall over the famous climate which had come through nobly after a cloudy morning and a rainy night, but Los Angeles swallowed the gulp and let out a cheer for the bold invaders who did their best and biggest when things looked blackest and who found the inspiration for victory in the bitter flower of defeat

Fight Won The Game.

Fighting Irish is right That fight beat a much better football team U S. C. had played much stronger football all the way, offense and defense Cravath alone, pitted against the All-American Boeringer, was a stone wall and a cannonball. It is hard to imagine one man being both in one game, but he was both all the way.

Williams, the little substitute quarter for the stellar Kaer, who had already gone to glory and gone out on top of it, hurtled the last nine yards through the solid Notre Dame line in desperate, amazing and almost sublime man-stuff fashion

Praises Sportsmanship.

It was a great outfit against which the visiting boys hazarded their bold, brazen, entirely wide-open trick technique . They gave it all they had and they made their goal. I have never seen a finer, truer spirit at a sporting event This was a compliment to Southern California, to our times and to our institutions

And the way the crowd took it was one of the finest exhibits of American sporting blood and sportsmanship that I can remember It out-thrilled all the thrills I had come to see, and all of which and more I saw

SCHISSLER MAY LAND IOWA JOB

Former Nebraska Cage Mentor May Go To Iowa City Says Coast Rumor.

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 4.—The gossip mill in the Pacific Coast conference is busily grinding away on a yarn which connects Paul Schissler, formerly Nebraska basketball coach and head mentor of Oregon Aggie football the past three years, with the head coachship at Iowa university. Coach Bert Ingwerson has had a most distressing year at the Hawkeye institution, while Schissler's Aggies recently finished a glorious season.

Schissler admitted tonight that eh had been approached by several Iowa alumni, but denied that advances had been made by anybody having the authority to speak for the Hawkeye school. Schissler's contract at the Corvallis school has been extended another four years at an annual salary of $8,000.

May 14.—Drake at Drake.
May 20-21—Missouri Valley outdoor meet at Lincoln.
May 28.—Missouri at Columbia.

The 1928 varsity crew of Yale will train at Amsterdam for the Olympic games Yale's crew carried the American colors to victory in the 1924 Olympic championship at Paris.

The undefeated football teams of Stanford and Alabama University will meet in the annual intersectional game at Pasadena (Calif.), Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

GOTHENBURG HI DEFEATS CRETE

Coach Fred Thomsen's Swedes Drive To 14-0 Victory In Final Period; Win Mythical Title.

BY CHARLES H. WICKER.

HASTING, Neb., Dec. 4. — Gothenburg's high school eleven, which has buffeted some of the best teams in the state, vaulted the final hurdle in the race for the mythical grid championship of Nebraska here this afternoon, when the Swedes brushed aside Crete's great eleven in the fourth quarter of a great battle before a crowd of 1,500 excited fans and carried home the highest honors, 14-0.

After fighting for three quarters apparently on even terms, the Terrible Swedes turned a break that went against them into a beautiful piece of strategy with Harold Barnes sweeping left end for a 25-yard run and the first touchdown of the game. Nichols, quarterback, drop-kicked for the extra point.

Gothenburg took the ball on its own 43-yard line, after Aller had punted from beneath Crete's goal posts, and by smashing the line for two first downs, on cross-tackle bucks, they placed the ball where Barnes could flash his speed and he did it to the wild acclamation of five hundred rabid Gothenburg fans, who came to Hastings in a special train

Passes Scores Touchdown.

Aller was under his goal posts and attempted to punt on the third down, but he was rushed and the punt was blocked with the ball hitting the posts and then rebounding into a Crete players arms. This made possible the next punt, which went for 42 yards

Scarcely had the shouting for the first touchdown subsided when Gothenburg again obtained possession of the ball in about the middle of the field and then Barnes heaved a pass to Williams, who completed the pass in the end zone. The ball bounced around on his finger tips, but it was clutched firmly when he fell to the ground. Nichols again drop-kicked perfectly for the extra point

Crete Loses Quarterback.

Throughout the first period the teams battled on even terms with each uncorking an aerial offense, but in this department, Coach "Pop" Klein's clan had the advantage with Stone, Hokuf and Whalen reeling off two consecutive gains of 10 and 16 yard gains respectively.

Parker, quarterback, was removed from the game early in the first quarter on account of an injured ankle and his absence handicapped the Crete backfield. However, he returned to the lineup in the third quarter and did some clever work

Crete Forwards Strong.

Gothenburg made two bids to score in the third quarter but was held for downs inside the 10-yard line and just as the quarter ended Crete had the ball on its 7-yard line. A punt far down the field stopped the onrushing Swedes but they dug in their cleats on the moist field and soon had the game iced

In the final minute of play, after Coach Thomsen had sent in a number of second string men, Parker, Crete quarterback tossed a long pass to Hokuf and he galloped off 60 yards before he was brought

ROBERTS SCORES QUICK KNOCKOUT

Joe Dundee Polished Off In Opening Round Of Coast Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4—(INS)—The hopes of Joe Dundee of Baltimore for a welterweight championship went a-glimmering this afternoon when Edyy (K.O.) Roberts knocked him out in the first round here of a scheduled 10-round fight. Dundee went down for a count of nine twice when Roberts drove hard rights to the chin. After taking a third one on the chin the Baltimore boy fell through the ropes and Toby Irwin, the referee, raised Roberts' hand

Chamberlain Team Beats Bears; Wins National League

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4—The Frankford Yellowjackets virtually annexed the championship of the National Professional league here today, defeating the Chicago Bears, 7 to 6, when Tex Hamer kicked a goal in the last minute of play after Homan, the Yellowjacket quarterback, had scored a touchdown on a forward pass from Stockton, hurled over Chicago's goal line.

Valley Meeting Favors Shifts

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 4.—The Missouri Valley conference in session here today favored retaining the shift plays in football with an elapse of one second between end of shift and passing of the football.

Play-By-Play Details of Notre Dame Victory Over Southern California

FIRST QUARTER.

Captain Cravanth won the toss and chose to kick, Notre Dame defending the east goal.

Taylor kicked off for U. S. C. over the goal line and it was Notre Dame's ball on its 20-yard line. U. S. C was off-side on the kickoff and the ball was taken back and U. S C. penalized 5 yards. Taylor's second kick-off went to Hemmick on Notre Dame's 12-yard line He returned to the 33-yard line.

Badgor threw Nemic for a 2-yard loss and Notre Dame was penalized five yards for backfield in motion Wynne went 5 yards off left tackle. Riley passed to Dolan for 15 yards and first down on Notre Dame's 48-yard line.

Notre Dame Penalized.

Nemic made 5 yards over left guard but Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards for holding The ball was on Notre Dame's 35-yard line Kaer knocked down a long forward pass to Nemic. Dolan made a yard on a wide run. Nemic was held for no gain around U. S. C's right end. Nemic dropped back and punted to U. S. C. S 20 yard line, Kaer returning 20 yards and run-out of bounds on the Trojan 40-yard line.

Wallace replaced Maxwell at end for Notre Dame. Laraneta hit center for 5 yards Kaer went off right tackle for a good gain but U. S. C. was penalized 5 yards for backfield in motion. Laraneta bounched through the center of the line for 4 yards more, Smith bringing the Trojan back down. Kaer punted out of bounds on Notre Dame's 25-yard line

Irish Makes Yardage.

Wynee made 3 yards at right guard. A reverse forward pass, Nemic to Voedesch was completed for 7 yards and a first down on Notre Dame's 35-yard line. Riley sneaked through the line for 2 yards. On a split buck Wynne gained but Notre Dame was called back and penalized 5 yards for having the backfield in motion. A long forward pass fell incomplete A reverse forward pass was smeared back of the line by Hibbs. Nemic punted, Kaer returning 10 yards to his own 30 yard line Laraneta broke through center for a yard and on the next play, Kaer broke off left tackle for 17 yards and a first down on the Trojan's 48-yard line Laraneta made another yard through the center of the line.

Kaer on Rampage.

Kaer broke off right tackle for 6 yards Kaer made it first down on Notre Dame's 40-yard line. Laraneta broke through the center of the line for 5 yards but the play was called back and the Trojans were penalized 5 yards for having backfield in motion.

Kaer got 4 of those back in a dash off left tackle, Dorringer, the star Notre Dame center was stopping him. Laraneta went off right tackle for 4 yards.

N. D. Intercepts Pass.

Drury faked a punt and passed. It was intercepted by Dahman and it was Notre Dame's ball on its 41-yard line. Nemic broke off left guard for 8 yards. Drury brought him down. Dahman made 1 yard through center. Notre Dame was penalized 5 yards for off-side Wynne went over center for 6 yards. The ball was on Notre Dame's 49-yard line. Nemic punted out of bounds on the Trojans' 8-yard line.

Kaer made 7 yards from punt formation Kaer made it first down but the play was stopped as both sides were off-side. Laraneta made it first down on the Trojan 19-yard line where he was downed by Voedisch Kaer made 6 yards off left tackle as the period ended.

SECOND QUARTER.

U. S. C.'s ball on its 25-yard line, second down and 4 to go Laraneta made it first down, going to the 33-yard line Hearndon, O'Boyle and Christy Flanagan went in the Notre Dame backfield replacing Dahman, Wynne and Nemic

Laraneta made 2 yards off left tackle Kaer punted over the Notre Dame quarter's head and the ball was downed by Badgro on the Irish 37-yard line. Flanagan made 6 yards off right tackle. Hearndon carried for 3 yards and first down on Notre Dame's 37 yard line Flanagan failed to gain on a reverse. A pass, Flanagan to Riley, made it first down in exact midfield.

Notre Dame Scores.

O'Boyle carried out of bounds for a 2-yard gain. Flanagan bucked the line for 2 yards. O'Boyle broke through for a 22 yard run and first down on U. S. C.'s, 16-yard line. Kaer ran O'Boyle out of bounds. On the next play Riley ran 16 yards around U. S. C.'s right end for a touchdown. O'Boyle kicked goal.

Score—Notre Dame, 7; U. S. C., 0

Lepnig and Walsh went in for Notre Dame. Taylor kicked off, Flanagan receiving on the 9-yard line and returning to the 24 yard line Flanagan running from punt formation made 9 yards through a broken field. Riley fumbled on the next play and Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards for holding.

Flanagan fell back in punt formation, but it was a fake, O'Boyle hitting the line for 3 yards Edwards replaced Riley at quarter for Notre Dame The Irish now had a full strength of the company in the back field. Flanagan ran around right end for 6 yards, Cravath bringing him down Fourth down and 5 yards to go. Edwards punted, Kaer receiving and being downed in his tracks on the Trojan 34-yard line.

Kaer Runs 29 Yards.

Kaer's forward pass was incomplete. The Trojan's were penalized 5 yards for having the backfield in motion. Kaer ran 29 yards around Notre Dame's right end, and was run out of bounds by O'Boyle on Notre Dame's 42-yard line. Laraneta failed to gain on a line smash. Kaer made 2 yards off left tackle.

Kaer passed to Behrendt who was downed on the Notre Dame 1-yard line. On the next play Kaer plunged for a touchdown The kick for goal failed. Taylor missing the goal.

Score—U S. C., 6; Notre Dame, 7.

Rockne Replaces Line.

Coach Rockne sent new men into the line. Thompson replaced Drury in the Trojan backfield. Taylor kicked off to O'Boyle, who received on the two-yard line and was tackled by Badgro on the 16-yard line. Hearndon carried for 2 yards around right end, Jess Cravath tackling him.

Morley Drury, incapacitated by his trick knee, left the field. Scheving replaced Cox at tackle for U. S. C Flanagan was smeared for no gain over center. Edwards punted, U. S. C. making no att empt to touch the ball. It was the Trojans ball on their 30-yard line. Laraneta made two yards at right guard. Kaer made a yard at right end. Schaub replaced Taylor at guard for U. S. C.

Thirty Nebraska College Players On The Roll of Honor for 1926 Campaign

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Football stock in Nebraska conference circles was "looking" up" during the 1926 football season which has just closed The better quality of pigskin warfare exhibited by the different college elevens was reflected in a championship race which was crowded with interest from the opening day to the Thanksgiving finale The result of all this intensive campaigning which had its high spots for nearly every eleven was a larger and more representative Roll of Honor.

Last year the college race was practically a two-team proposition, but such could not be said of the 1926 pennant pursuit Return of Nebraska Wesleyan to the football fold seemed to give added zest to the campaign and, with half a dozen teams weathering a season which stamped them of championship caliber college conference fans gathered plenty of firewood for the "hot stove" season during the winter months.

Best of Conference.

The Star Roll of Honor is recruited from conference athletes that during the season have acquitted themselves in such a fashion as to merit recognition The Roll is the compiled opinion of coaches and officials who have seen the moleskin warriors under fire

The Honor selection for 1926 lists the names of thirty athletes, four more than the 1925 choice. The fact that the 1926 crop in several instances has shoved some of the 1925 selections from the Roll is a silent testimonial to the quality of football played in the college circuit the past season.

Three Teams in Lead.

Chadron Normal, Peru Normal and Doane college each placed five athletes on the Roll of Honor. Nebraska Wesleyan and Hastings college each landed four men in the balloting. Nebraska Central was awarded three positions, Midland college two and Wayne Normal and Cotner college one each.

Five ends in the conference played the type of a game which stamped them of Honor Roll ability. The wingsters chosen are Manchester of Wesleyan, Bayer of Doane, Chrisman of Chadron, Snyder of Cotner and Welch of Hastings.

Manchester Best End.

Manchester of Nebraska Wesleyan was the outstanding end of the lot He played consistent ball all season and was one of the mainstays on the Methodist eleven. He is a fast man at getting down under punts, this being a potent factor in the Yellow and Brown's ability to take full advantage of Wiberg's toe. Manchester, who got his prep school training at North Loup, is a good man at snagging passes and a hard man to solve on end runs.

Bayer, a former Doane captain and four-year veteran, has the honor of being on the Roll for a third season. He weighs 155 pounds, is a sure-fire receiver of forward passes and probably the headiest player in the conference circuit. He is exceptional at sizing up plays started toward his sector.

Chrisman of Chadron was a powerful factor in the Chadron line, while Welch's ability to catch passes when a successful forward flip meant touchdowns brought him to the front. Snyder was an Honor Roll fullback i 1924, an Honor Roll end in 1925 and is back again this season in spite of injuries and the task of keeping in the fight although playing with a losing team.

Plenty of Linemen.

The conference had plenty of good tackles and guards this season. Outstanding tackles were Huyck of Wesleyan, Moore of Nebraska Central, Spray of Chadron, Booth of Doane, Latta of Hastings and Higgins of Peru.

Huyck, Wesleyan tackle, was the main strength of the Methodist line. A strenuous schedule found Huyck fighting in every game, which usually calls for two opponents to unite efforts in keeping him from spoiling plays. A type of his tackling shown to good advantage in the Doane game when a savage tackle behind the scrimmage line caused a Doane back to fumble and paved the way for a winning touchdown

Moore of Central was one of the reasons the Quakers were scored on by only one team during the season He was in the thick of nearly every play, fast at getting down under punts, his work enabling the Central City collegians to hold their own with Chadron Normal until injuries forced him to the side lines

Booth Powerful Tackle.

Booth, a former Sutton gridster, played his third year of football at Doane the past season. He weighs 180 pounds, is a tower of strength and was a fixture in the Congregationalist line which gave and took with the best of them all season.

Latta, Hastings college captain, is a repeat selection from last season He is active and shifty and featured the Broncho line play in all its games Higgins of Peru would probably be the outstanding tackle in the conference if he could shake the injury jinx. A broken leg sent him to the sidelines in 1925 and injuries dogged him part of the past season.

Guards Above Par.

Conference guards were above par the past season. Five stood out above the others—Weller of Chadron, Adams of Doane, Garris of Peru, Boell of Wesleyan and Garwood of Wayne.

Weller completed his second year under the Eagle banner. He weighs 180 pounds and yet carries this weight with such speed that he gave the Chadron ends good argument in getting down under punts. Adams completed his fourth year at Doane and captained the 1926 team. He weighs 174 pounds and is fast at working into the intereference. Adams is a repeat selection from 1925.

Garris of Peru is another return from the 1925 Roll. Garris has played consistent ball all season. Boell of Wesleyan is a guard of the agressive type that never quits. Garwood of Wayne is a third-year

THIRD QUARTER.

Kaer caught the Notre Dame kick-off on the 5-yard line and ran back to the 30-yard line. Time out. Kaer made 5 yards off right tackle. Laraneta made 2 yards through the center of line. Kaer slipped and fell but gained a yard. Kaer punted. Edwards being downed without a gain on his 24-yard line.

O'Boyle lost a yard back of the line of scrimmage. Flanagan shook off four tacklers and carried the ball 11 yards for a first down on Notre Dame's 34-yard line. Lloyd Thomas, who tackled Flanagan, was injured on the play.

N. D. Passes Fail.

Thomas resumed play. Flanagan's long pass was knocked down by Taylor. O'Boyle gained 3 yards at right guard. Flanagan's pass was incomplete and Notre Dame was penalized 5 yards. Edwards punted, Kaer receiving on the 28-yard line and was forced out of bounds on the 38-yard line. He was tackled so hard that his wind was knocked out, but he resumed play.

Kaer's ribs were taped after the tackle. Laraneta made 4 yards off right tackle. Kaer passed to Badgro who caught the ball on Notre Dame's 21-yard line. The play was called back however and U. S. C. was penalized 5 yards for off-side.

Kaer's Pass Goes Astray.

Kaer's pass was intercepted by Flanagan who ran 20 yards to U. S. C.'s 40-yard line. O'Boyle went through left tackle for 4 yards. A split buck sent O'Boyle through left guard for 2 yards. O'Boyle carried to the 30-yard line, inches short of a first down. O'Boyle made it first down on the 27-yard line.

Cravath broke through the line and smeared O'Boyle for a 2-yard loss. O'Boyle went through left guard for 4 yards. On a reverse Hearndon was smeared by Cravath for a 5-yard loss. It was fourth down on U. S. C.'s 30-yard line with 14 yards to go. Riley replaced Edwards at quarter for Notre Dame. Flanagan punted, Kaer being downed on U. S. C.'s 7-yard line.

Williams Replaces Kaer.

Williams replaced Kaer at quarter for U. S. C. Kaer was given a marvelous ovation by the crowd as he left the field. Williams made 4 yards through center. Williams punted and Riley signalled for a fair catch on U. S. C.'s 42-yard line.

O'Boyle carried through the center of the line for 1 yard. Hearndon was thrown by Hibbs for a 1-yard loss. Flanagan gained 2 yards on a wide end run, Cravath bringing him down. Fourth down and 8 to go, the ball in Notre Dame's possession on the Trojan 30-yard line.

Flanagan's Punt Blocked.

Flanagan again punted, the ball was blocked and was caught out of bounds by Cravath who dove over the player's bench to get it. It was U. S. C.'s ball, first down on its 43-yard line.

On the first play Williams ran 8 yards from punt formation. Williams made it first down on the Notre Dame 43-yard line as the quarter ended.

Score end third quarter—Notre Dame, 7; U. S. C., 6.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Don Williams broke off left tackle for ten yards and a first down on Notre Dame's 33-yard line. On the next play Williams gained two yards. Williams again pitched left tackle, this time for a gain of six yards. He was stopped by O'Boyle. Williams squirmed through center for three yards. Williams made it first down on Notre Dame's 18-yard line with another off-tackle plunge. Notre Dame took time out.

Williams Plunges Across.

Laraneta made seven yards around right end. Williams made it a first down on Notre Dame's 9-yard line. Williams was stopped for no gain.

On the next play Williams went over left tackle for a touchdown. Before the try for goal time was taken out by Notre Dame. Flanagan was hurt on the play on the touchdown and was helped from the field. Nemic replaced Flanagan. Drury's kick bit the goal posts and bounded back for no goal.

Irish Open Up Passes.

Taylor kicked off to O'Boyle on Notre Dame's goal line. O'Boyle returned to the 24-yard line before being downed. Riley's forward pass fell incomplete. Nemic caught a forward pass and ran with the ball around left end for a one-yard gain.

Riley passed to Nemic for a 38-yard gain and it was first down for the Irish on U. S. C.'s 48-yard line. Laraneta intercepted Riley's pass and was tossed out of bounds after a ten-yard return on the Irish 48-yard line. Williams broke through left tackle and made it first down on Notre Dame's 38-yard line. Laraneta lost a yard on an attempted end run. Don Williams carried for three yards through left tackle. Laraneta made two yards through the center of the line. Howard Elliott replaced Williams for U. S. C. Elliott punted, out of bounds on Notre Dame's 15-yard line.

U. S. C. Gets Ball.

Nemic's pass was incomplete, Laraneta smearing it. Dahman made seven yards around right end. Riley's pass fell incomplete and Notre Dame was penalized five yards for failing to complete two passes in the same sequence. It was fourth down and eight yards to go with the ball on Notre Dame's 20-yard line. Nemic punted, Elliott making no attempt to catch the ball. U. S. C.'s ball on their 23-yard line. Laraneta carried out of bounds for no gain.

Elliott made three yards off left tackle. But U. S. C. was penalized five yards for off side and the ball was put in play on their 18-yard line. Elliott made one yard around left end. Elliott punted to Riley, who was downed without gain on Notre Dame's 41-yard line.

N. D. Passes to Victory.

Parisien, who replaced Riley, carried for two yards over center on a hidden-ball play. Parisien passed to Nemic for a first down on the Trojan's 29-yard line. The pass gained thirty-five yards, net.

Parisien carried out of bounds for no gain. Parisien was thrown for a two-yard loss on an attempted wide end run.

Nemic kicked off. Elliot caught the ball on his 5-yard line and returned to his own 19-yard line. Elliott's forward pass was intercepted by McNally on U. S. C.'s 41-yard line.

Aided by perfect interference, Nemic ran for a first down on U. S. C.'s 27-yard line. On a split-buck Nemic carried to the 14-yard line as the game ended.

Christian New Chadron Pilot

CHADRON, Neb., Dec. 4.—(U.P.)—Ivan Christian, center, was named captain of the 1927 Chadron Normal college football team at a banquet given in honor of the 1926 Nebraska conference champions by Coach Roy Wynn here last night.

Christian's home is at Bayard, Neb. Paul Carroll, Cambridge, Captained this year's Eagle squad.

go, a crisis which meant that the only Irish attack would be the forward pass, the Jones teams defense was wholly inadequate. Two Parisien passes, one for forty yards to Walsh, advanced the ball to the Trojan's twenty yard mark and then a third forward flip, Parisien to Niemic, sent the latter scurrying over U. S. C.'s goal. The pass had proved its superiority over the plunge.

Bearg Congratulates Rockne.

Coach Ernest Bearg of Nebraska was an interested onlooker of the Irish teams victory and following the game visited the Notre Dame team's dressing room to congratulate Coach Rockne on the startling triumph achieved by his victorious gridders, after which he invaded the Trojans' quarters to commiserate with Coach Howard Jones.

"I saw enough to convince me the Notre Dame teams never are beaten until the final pistol shot," the Nebraska coach said. "The Trojans out-downed their opponents by a slight margin, but first downs are valueless unless they produce touchdowns. The Irish had the punch in the pinch and clearly earned their victory."

Coach Bearg, who will pull away Sunday for Lincoln, was the guest of honor at Friday night banquet by a hundred Nebraska alumni in the Southern California region.

Stage Brilliant Finish.

BY LINCOLN QUARBERG.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—Coming from behind with a brilliant finish, the fighting Irishmen from Notre Dame triumphed over a stubborn Southern California eleven in one of the last intersectional games of the year, 13 to 12.

A spectacular passing attack, which the Knute Rockne warriors turned loose in the final minutes of play turned the tide for the invaders from the east.

The Irish comeback was a spectacular anti-climax to a brilliant rejunevated offensive which the Trojans uncorked in the same final period and which gave Southern California their second touchdown and the lead.

The Trojans held their advantage of one touchdown, which Don Williams sub Trojan quarterback, put over in a blaze of glory, for less than five minutes.

Trojans Once in Lead.

Williams' touchdown made from scrimmage on a nine-yard crash through the Notre Dame line put the Trojans in the lead with a score of 12 to 7, and, until the last minutes of play, it looked like a victory for the Pacific coast eleven.

Art Parisien, sub quarterback, went in for Notre Dame and engineered a floc kof passes which turned the trick and enabled Nemic to run across the goal for the second Notre Dame touchdown. He made a 23 yard jaunt.

Each team scored in the second period when the game began to get thrilling with Rockne and Jones both sending in their best shock croops.

Great Game to Watch.

It was a thrilling battle for the 80,000 spectators who crowded th coliseum to witness two of the most evenly matched and fastest football machines in the country in action against each other. The crowd stood and roared its approval when Williams made the second touchdown for the Trojans and it appeared that U. S. C. had won the battle. A few minutes later Notre Dame rooters were swarming the field and carrying their own players to the dressing rooms in tribute to one of the best earned victories of the season.

Knute Rockne, the crafty Scandinavian, who handles Notre Dame's football destines, sent his entire second string backs into start the encounter, reinforced by a forward wall composed of both regulars and second stringers. When U. S. C. won the toss, Coach Howard Jones employed a bit of strategy and the Trojans elected to kick off instead of receiving the ball.

First Period Played Even.

Rockne's second eleven is not supposed to be as effective on offense as defense but during the initial period the Irish battled the first Trojan team on even terms.

Both teams gained consider yardage in the first quarter, but there was never a threat of a touchdown until the replacements were sent in by Rockne.

The Irish first troops, in the persons of Christy Flanagan, O'Boyle and Hearndon arrived early in the second period. They soon had the ball and before they gave it up to their stubborn opponents, Notre Dame had counted the first touchdown of the game.

Irish Score First.

The "three horsemen" marched straight down the field from scrimmage, interspersing their attack with an occasional forward pass that usually registered additional yardage. O'Boyle tore loose on the 42-yard line for a 26-yard run around left end before he was tackled by Kear, and on a successive play, Riley broke away on a "hidden ball" play and circled other Trojan end for 16 yards and the touchdown. O'Boyle kicked goal.

Meanwhile, Rockne was replacing his linemen from the bench and Jones was employing similar tactics to strengthen his defense.

Kaer Play Brilliantly.

Morton Kaer, the brilliant all-American halfback, who has been on the injured list for several weeks suddenly got his old stride and began tearing off long runs and heaving healthy passes for great gobs of yardage. He finally tossed a beautiful pass from Notre Dame's 33 yard line that landed in the arms of Behrendt, who raced for the Ir. goal only to be downed within a foo of a touchdown by Edwards, of Notre Dame.

Trojan Kick Fails.

Kaer took the ball over on the next play. Taylor failed to convert and the score was 7 to 6.

Jones called on his reserves again and sent in Thompson for Drury in the backfield and made changes in his forward wall.

Rockne's men tried their passing game in the third period but it was ineffective against the reinforced defensive of Southern California. Several long tosses were grounded or intercepted.

The Trojans, with fresh replacements in the backfield, tried desperately to put over a second touchdown in this quarter, but the stubborn Irish held at the right time and it was a see-saw affair, devoid of any great thrills until the final period.

Williams Breaks Loose.

The arrival of Williams injected new life into the Trojan attack and late in the final period he crashed through Notre Dame's defensive for a series of spectacular gains from scrimmage that gave Southern California their second touchdown. Drury on the kick for extra point failed.

It appeared for a time that Williams would be the hero of the afternoon and that Pacific coast fans would be inspired to erect a statute in his honor in Los Angeles harbor. The fans raised in their seats and almost stopped the game with their lusty cheers.

The Irish decided then and there, it seemed, that it was time to display the famous fighting spirit for which they are famous, as well as a few tricks they had apparently held up their well known sleeves for just such an emergency.

Finale of Passes.

They unlimbered with a dramatic finale of forward passes that kept the spectators near breathless and most of them landed just where they were supposed to drop.

Two long heaves by Parisien sent the ball half way down the field. Niemic was on the receiving end. A third pass, executed by this pair from the 23 yard line enabled Niemic to score the deciding touchdown. Parisien failed to kick goal, but the extra point was not needed, as the touchdown gave the Irish the game by a single point.

Penalties Halt Hoosiers.

Rockne sent in 24 substitutes during the contest and Jones used eleven replacements, another indication that it was a strenuous battle.

Each team made eleven first downs. California gained 105 yards from scrimmage and Notre Dame 177. The Catholics completed six passes for a total yardage of 109 and the Trojans two long passes for total gains of 72 yards.

College Athletics Help Scholarship Says Sooner Head

NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 4.—Joining Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the University of Missouri, in his stand against the statements of Wm. Allen White, Emporia Kansas editor, and those of Chancellor Ernest Lindley of the University of Kansas, that football was detrimental to university scholarship, Dr. W. B. Bizzell of the University of Oklahoma today lodged protest against condemnation of athletics.

"Not only do athletics fail to overshadow academic interests, but when wisely administered contribute to higher standards of scholarship," the Oklahoma university president said.

Dr. Bizzell stated that generalizationsin regard to the probable effects of athletics could only be made from past experiences, but that he had always found the results profitable in every way and intended to encourage them to the fullest extent.

Germany is making extensive preparations for her return to the Olympics, and figures on being second to the United States in track sports.

The University of Dayton (Ohio), has seven Hawaiians connected with its football team.

Tigers-Bears Bury Hatchet

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—Football differences between the University of Missouri and Washington university of St. Louis, were settled tonight, according to Coaches of the two schools attending the Missouri Valley athletic conference here.

Faculty and athletic representatives of the two institutions decided to play the game next year October 15 at St. Louis, it was announced.

STATE COLLEGE ROLL OF HONOR

man and weighs 185. He is agressive, a fighter and Wildcat supporters declare he has been responsible for 50 per cent of the tackles.

Christian Good Center.

Christian of Chadron, Bunch of Peru and Graham of Midland appear to be the class of the conference centers.

Christian faced a real task in filling the shoes of Smith, former Eagle captain, but got away in such a fashion that he received a majority of votes for this position. He is a good passer and smart defensive player.

Bunch, 204-pound center for Peru, improved greatly as the season wore along and would probably have been the best in the conference had he not missed two games because of an amputated toe. Graham of Midland was an Hopor Roll selection in 1925 and he pastimed in such a fashion to gain recognition for his work during the '26 season.

There were many good quarterbacks in the conference the past season but four stood out—Carmody of Midland, McCrady of Hastings, Marsh of Central and McElroy of Peru.

Carmody Heady Quarter.

Carmody, the Lutheran general, directed the Midland attack in good style although injuries in the Fremont camp forced him to work with a constantly changing bunch of backs. He is clever at returning punts, carries the ball well and gets off his plays in fashion that puts fire into a team.

McCrady of Hastings is more of a halfback than quarterback but nevertheless rates among the best generals of the conference. He is a slippery ball-lugger, can pass, plunge or run ends. When the Bronchos were in a pinch, it was generally McCrady that was on some end of the offensive play that brought the score. His work in the Wesleyan game stamped him of real caliber. He was a member of the '25 Roll.

Marsh of Central.

Marsh of Central was one of the speediest men in the conference. His return of punts featured the play of the Central City collegians. He has plenty of grit and stuck by the guns in several games in spite of discouraging injuries.

McElroy of Peru shows much improvement over his play during the 1925 season. He played consistent football during the year and should develop into an outstanding player before he completes his career with the Bobcats.

There was plenty of speed and drive in the conference crop of halfbacks this fall but the the outstanding ball-luggers were Fort of Peru, Garvin of Chadron, Baldwin of Doane, Tunning of Nebraska Central.

Fort Flashes Speed.

Fort, former Dewitt sprinter, delivered in collegiate style in his first year with the Peru Bobcats. His speed carries him well through a broken field and as the season wore along he added drive that made him effective on quick opening plays that carried him through the line. He is a versatile athlete, in fact his work with the Graf team stamped him as the outstanding freshman in the conference grid realm.

Garvin of Chadron was on the Honor Roll last year. His value as a ball carrier was increased by another year of experience, the Alliance athlete being one of the veterans about which Coach Roy Wynne built his championship team. Garvin work in a broken field factored in keeping the Eagles at the top.

Baldwin Shines on Defense.

Baldwin of Doane is another great back. Playing his third year with the Tigers he was the backbone of the Doane attack. He punts, passes and has enough speed to make him a real triple-threat man. Baldwin is also effective on the forward pass defense, a factor in which most of the conference backs were weak the past season.

Tunning of Nebraska Central was rated by several coaches as the best offensive back of the season. He has speed, plunging ability and good defensive ability.

Wiberg Class of Lot.

To Oscar Wiberg, Nebraska Wesleyan fullback, goes the distinction of being the class of the players pastiming on the chalk-ribbed rectangles of the Nebraska conference the past season.

The Methodist athlete has completed four years of football and has written his name as the greatest fullback in Nebraska conference football for the past decade—or perhaps back to the very day when they first gathered around the prolate spheroid to decide a state title.

Real Conference Star.

Wiberg can pass with rifle-like speed and precision, punt with uncanny ability to get the most out of kicks, run the ends or plunge. He is a good defensive man. What more could anyone ask?

Wiberg is one of the great players in Nebraska Weslyan history—his achievements being scattered over two seasons of exacting competition in two conference — the state and North Central. During this time he has been a bright light in a brilliant array of victories. His educated toe has been a constant menace to opposing teams and his ability to rip a line wide open has made him real scoring punch when his team had advanced the ball inside the 10-yard line.

Stood Test of Games.

In fact as Wiberg went, so went Wesleyan and when injuries crippled the big boy along towards the end of an exacting and prolonged season, the Methodist eleven crumpled.

Dale of Hastings and Nixon of Doane were the other fullback selections, although neither have yet reached the class of Wiberg. Dale was a valuable plunger while Nixon was more effective because of his speed as well as plunging ability.

JUDGE LANDIS ON UNEASY SEAT

High Commissioner Said To Be In For Busy Time When Moguls Meet.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright 1926-King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Ken, the more or less celebrated Landis, is on the last lap of his seven years of wandering in the meadowless of balldom. After that—what?

The silver-thatched jurist who loves power and plaudits and the thrilling vision of his own preface peering from newspaper columns, comes up for re-election—or excommunication—from his czarship—just about one year from now.

What'll happen? And the answer is that "nobody knows." But very soon there ought to be a bit of knowing—a little something that serves as a forecast.

Has Ear To Ground.

It's rather patent right now tha Landis has his shell-like sound receiver close to terra firma in an effort to find out what everything is all about. If what he hears is favorable, it's 100 to 1 that he certainly will be a candidate to succeed himself as "High Commissioner" for another three or five years at $50,000 per year—and cookies.

But will all that he hears gladden his palpitating buzzum? The answer seems to be "hardly." For Landis of to-day is minus the solid backing he had when he was jammed into his job six winters ago and there may be such an alarming lot of minuses that he may decide he can't win out. In such a case, Landis, rather than suffer a terrific jolt to his pride that utter defeat would bring, would announce that he isn't a candidate to succeed his little self.

Depends on National.

Based upon the most optimistic view of the rather complex situation, the best Landis could hope for is 9 out of the 16 possible mogul votes. The National League is presumed by the intelligencia to be "solidly back" of the $50,000 beauty and so is Charles Comiskey, of the White Sox—the only American leaguer who could be counted upon to support Landis in an effort at re-election. That makes his nine votes.

But—but—and several more of those "buts," which are the things that perhaps cause Landis an occasional nightmare—is the National league solidly for him? or have there been some deserters from the ranks of the "Ken Landis Boosting and Cheering Bund of the U. S. and Way Stations?"

Since Landis assumed office it has cost the big leaguers $300,000 in the matter of salary for him and perhaps as much more for expenses. All of which totals $600,000 and will go to $700,000 or so before his seven year contract becomes just a scrap of paper. After which the question comes:

"What has Landis done that's worth $700,000? Is he useful—vital—or merely ornamental?"

Landis was hired to keep baseball pure and rather undefiled. Yet during the tenure of his office the Cozy Dolan—Jimmy O'Connell incident came up and snapped at him, didn't it? So his presence in the role of high commissioner didn't stop the boys from trying to cheat a bit, did it?

Just a Nice Soft Job.

Thus, therefore and also likewise it is shown that the existence of Landis is a bar against attempts at baseball crookedness—and he isn't worth any outlay of $100,000 annually on that score.

Any review of the Landis career through his six years as Gaekwar of Baseball's Baroda fails to find it studded with the gems of achievement or accomplishment or progressive legislation. Baseball of to-day, in all its basic elements, is the same as it was prior to his advent. Nothing has been done that is refreshingly radical. The very few things that have transpired, such as changes in the world's series playing rules, have been more the result of time and experience than through any functioning of the Landis dome.

On the other hand, it is remembered that Landis had a door slammed in the face of Barney Dreyfuss, who was one of the men who put him in office; that he has consistently ignored both of the league presidents in their functioning power as members (with Landis) of the advisory council. It is recalled that he applied one rule to Benny Kauff, a poor ball player, and then refused to apply it to his pal, Charlie Stoneham, the bucket-shopping owner of the New York Giants.

Lost Some of His Friends.

Landis seized upon a lese majeste offense of a ball player—Babe Ruth—and dealt out punishment to him by a long suspension that perhaps cost innocent ball clubs in the neighborhood of $300,000 to $500,000. And Landis, apparently has alienated some of the admiration and staunch friendship of earliest supporters by his arrogance and his utter disregard for their feelings.

In the years since he was elected, Landis does not seem to have accomplished—by a thousand and one hops—skips—jumps and waves of his silvery mane—what was expected of him. He certainly does not seem to have gained new friends or added admiration. Any glance along the horizon forces the conclusion that he has lost—and lost much.

Dreyfuss Also on Outs.

When Charlie Ebbets died, Landis lost one of his most ardent supporters. When the door was slammed in the surprised face of Dreyfuss, it certainly didn't intensify Barney's eagerness to help pay him $50,000 for seven more years of opportunity to slam doors. And thtre are stories that Garry Herimann of Cincinnati isn't so keen about Ken as he used to be.

Other deflections from the "solid front" of the National league are rumored—and re-rumored. If a single one of the reports is true it means that there'll be a deadlock on magnatorial voting—and that means that Ken either won't risk defeat for re-election or perhaps will be ingloriously whipped if he makes the effort.

Haskell Indians Lift Tulsa Scalp

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 4.—Coach Dick Hanley's Haskell Indians this afternoon added another victory to their season's string when they defeated the Folden Hurrican of the University of Tulsa, 27 to 7.

Haskell started scoring by going over for a touchdown in the first five minutes of play. In the second quarter McLain, giant fullback from Pryor, went over for the second touchdown.

Iowa U. Quintet Drubs St. Louis

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—Iowa's highly touted defense performed up to standard tonight and coupled with a newly formulated offense which centered around Wilcox, sophomore senter romped to an easy basketball victory 45 to 13 over St. Louis. The game was played in the new Hawkeye $400,000 field house. A crowd of 3,500 saw the contest.

After Cuckoo Blow He Still "Saw Things"

By AL DEMAREE.

My old friend, G. S. Alderton, well-known sports writer, tells the story in the above cartoon on Garland (Chief) Nevitt, former professional baseball player with many minor league teams and once with the St. Louis Cardinals. Nevitt is basketball coach at the Bay City, Mich., Central high school. He pulled this play on a referee in Lansing, Mich., where his team was scheduled to play.

Alderton also told me a good football story.

"At the University of Michigan-Michigan State game," he says, "Fred Barratt, State center, was knocked cuckoo on the first play and although he remained in the game, playing like a fool for 12 minutes, he was unconscious. They finally devined that he was 'gone' by his chatter, and led him away, taking him to the University hospital. There stretched him out and after an hour or so he suddenly snapped out of the trance. Raising himself up, he addressed the team doctor as follows: 'Doc, answer me this before you say a word—what in h—— are all these women doing in our dressing room?'"

The women he referred to were, of course, hospital nurses.

COMMISH MAY RETURN TITLE

Illinois Boxing Tribunal Hints It May Have Some Interesting News On Walker-Flowers Fight.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—After the shortest reign in pugilistic history Mickey Walker, of New Jersey, world's champion middleweight boxer, prepared tonight to relinquish his crown.

Word that the Illinois boxing commission had decided to reverse the decision of Referee Benny Yanger in the sensational 10-round bout Walker fought here Friday night against Tiger Flowers of Atlanta, Ga., returning the title to the Georgia deacon, was brought to the new champion just before he entrained for Philadelphia with his manager, Jack Kearns.

That the commission intends to yank back the middleweight diadem in a formal announcement Tuesday was the information given out after the three members met today and Walker, it was said, was assured nothing he or his manager could do would prevent his enforced abdication.

Referee Gives Explanation.

Referee Yanger, who appeared before the commission with the two fighters, informed the body punishment Walker inflicted on Flowers was to a large extent the basis of his decision. He told the commissioners Flowers persisted in using an opened glove even after he had been warned and that he also twice claimed a foul, although he (Yanger) believed he did not receive a blow approaching a foul.

None of the commissioners would comment tonight on reports that charges of a "fixed" fight, gambling and referee "juggling" had been placed before them.

Investigate All Charges.

"We have decided to make a complete investigation of the decision and of any other charges that may be made," a statement of the commission said.

Reports that a betting coup marked the Walker-Flowers fight were not credited by sporting writers and a denial of a "deal" was also generally made in as much as it was fairly well established Referee Yanger did not know he was to be third man in the ring until a few minutes before the bell, when the betting was ^ to 5 on Flowers.

Hold Up Purse Money.

Kearns, who left without getting his purse, understood to be 10 per cent of the receipts, which were about $80,000, said he did not believe the commission would take any steps to reverse Yanger.

"Walker won hands down and he should keep the title," said Kearns. "I have to be in Philadelphia Monday, but I will return and get my money and I think also full title rights."

While the commissioners prepared to resume their inquiry next week, a furore raged over the fact that Flowers temporarily bereft of his title, smilingly walked over to Walker and congratulated the new champion.

Semi-Officially Spiked.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Rumors that the Walker-Flowers middleweight championship fight here last night was "fixed" were semi-officially "spiked" by the Illinois athletic commission late today.

While the commission announced it would not consider until Tuesday charges against referee Benny Yanger who gave Mickey Walker the division championship held by Tiger Flowers, it called attention to the Illinois system of selecting referees and allowed Yanger to issue a statement in his defense from the commission offices.

Last Minute Choice.

Under the Illinois system, the commission points out, a group of referees is chosen to run every show scheduled. The referees are notified they will work a few days before the fight, but do not know which bout they will officiate until the proceeding bout is ended.

Yanker did not know he would be called until Flowers and Walker were ready to enter the ring.

Yanger declared he awarded the bout to Walker on the basis of established rules that open hand punches and punches in which the heel of the hand is used do not count as points.

Flowers Claimed Foul.

Yanger also pointed out that Flowers attempt to win the fight by claiming a foul in the fourth round. "When he did come back after the low punch, he fought all right," Yanger said. "And if he had been hit as he claims, he could not have continued as he did. This fact had a great influence in my final decision.

"Walker showed aggressiveness and forced the fighting," Yanker continued. "In the ninth round, he scored a clean knockdown. Walker forced the fight in the tenth round and was doing all the real hitting as he did throughout the fight.

"His blows had something back of them and counted for real points. He also fought cleanly.

"I feel I gave the decision as I saw it, with a clear conscience."

Lewis Is Chosen Broncho Captain

HASTINGS, Neb., Dec. 4.—Laurel Lewis of Osceola, who has been playing two seasons with the Hastings College Broncos, will captain the team in 1927, having been elected following the Thanksgiving game, but announcement of the honor was withheld until this week at the annual football banquet.

The captain-elect has been a lineman during his participation in football at Hastings college and this season showed marked development, playing at tackle. He has been a power on defense and his aggressiveness has been a stumbling block to the opposing teams. He will be a junior next year.

Chester Hi Cagers Ready for Season

CHESTER, Neb., Dec. 4.—A busy basketball program for Chester schools is being worked out by J. G. Naiman, coach of athletics here.

The letter man is Paul Dry. Other promising material includes Captain Donald Butts, A. Reitz, G. Reitz, Verley Smith and Leo Mohr, with Charles Herald, Dale Snook and Leonard McEwan showing up well in practice.

A league has been formed for the junior high and reserve teams, the purpose being to create enthusiasm and training for younger boys. League games will be played as curtain-raisers to the regular contests. The Chester schedule:

Dec. 16—Hubbell at Hubbell.
Dec. 17—Alexandria at Chester.
Dec. 22.—Hebron at Hebron.
Jan. 7—Hebron at Chester.
Jan. 14—Belvidere at Chester.
Jan. 21—Ruskin at Ruskin.
Feb. 4—Belvidere at Belvidere.
Feb. 11—Hubbell at Chester.
Feb. 18—Hardy at Chester.
Feb. 25—Open.
March 3, 4, 5—Thayer county tournament.
March 10, 11, 12—State tournament at Lincoln.

Bill's Back and Boston's Glad.

Bill Carrigan, as he appeared when bossing the Red Sox in 1915.

Boston Red Sox fans are pleased over the return to the helm of the Sox team of Bill Carrigan, who led the club to two pennants in 1915 and 1916. They have hopes that he can take the players Lee Fohl assembled and make a fighting, if not a winning ball club out of them by July next season.

GRANGE PRAISES HUSKER PLAYERS

"Red" Declares 1924 Game In Lincoln Was Toughest Of His Career.

Harold "Red" Grange in a copyrighted article appearing in a recent issue of the Chicago Herald and Examiner paid tribute to the brand of football presented by the Nebraska Cornhuskers

In selecting an "all" team of the players that played against him during his collegiate career at Illinois U., Grange placed Ed Weir at one tackle and Rhodes at a halfback.

Weir and Rhodes.

Rhodes, Grange declares, was fast as an end in 1923 and a sprinter and line plunger in 1924 and 1925. According to Grange, Rhodes gained seven or eight yards at a time in the 1924 game and in the 1925 contest which was played in mud and rain, the Nebraska back gained more ground than all the other backs on both teams.

"Red" states he believes the 1924 game with Nebraska was the toughest game he ever played in.

Record Squad In Basketball Togs At Falls City Hi

FALLS CITY, Neb., Dec. 4.—Coach Obermeier of Falls City high was greeted by a squad of 79 boys when he issued the first call for basketball practice at Falls City.

Falls City has the finest basketball prospect in years and the team will enjoy for the first time the use of a standard court. The large court in the high school gym is the largest court in southeastern Nebraska.

Six letter men are in school. They are Captain Krecklow, Briggs, Allison and Walbridge of the 1926 Falls City team, Hinkle a former Stella athlete, and Hawley, who played with Sacred Heart last year. The schedule:

Dec. 13—Dawson at Dawson.
Dec. 17—Stella at Falls City.
Jan. 10—Nebraska City at Nebraska City.
Jan. 14—Peru at Peru.
Jan. 21—Auburn at Falls City.
Jan. 24—Shubert at Shubert.
Feb. 1—Robinson, Kas. at Falls City.
Feb. 4—Shubert at Falls City.
Feb. 8—Nebraska City at Falls City.
Feb. 11—Auburn at Auburn.

Basketball Card For Nelson High

NELSON, Neb., Dec. 4.—Nelson high will play a good schedule of basketball games this season.

A new idea is being worked out by Nelson high for the basketball season. Four local business firms have outfitted a league of teams and these quintets will meet in games before the first team contests. The Nelson schedule:

Dec. 17—Guide Rock at Nelson.
Jan. 7—Davenport at Davenport.
Jan. 14—Fairbury at Fairbury.
Jan. 15—Edgar at Nelson.
Jan. 22—Superior at Superior.
Jan. 28—Fairmont at Nelson.

Feb. 5—Hebron Academy at Nelson.
Feb. 11—Hebron at Hebron.
Feb. 12—Superior at Nelson.
Feb. 18—Holdrege at Holdrege.
Feb. 19—Minden at Minden.
March 4—Harvard at Nelson.
March 11, 12, 13—State tournament at Lincoln.

Sterling Quintet Defeats Lewiston

STERLING, Neb., Dec. 4.—Sterling high opened the basketball season last night by defeating Lewiston in a doubleheader. The Sterling boys won, 21 to 11, and the Sterling girls won, 48 to 9.

The girls game was a walkaway for Sterling, the first half ending with the score 28-6. Steinhubler and Johnson did most of the goal-shooting for Sterling, while Douglas led the Lewiston team.

Sterling has a 11-6 lead at the end of the first half of the boys game.

Pyle Tames Shrew In Suzanne

BY AL DEMAREE.

While talking to "Cash and Carry" Pyle, the man now engaged in the great experiment of whether or not the sport public will support professional football and tennis, the subject of temperamental athletes came up.

"Temperamental athletes are my particular hobby," said Pyle. "I wouldn't handle an athlete of either sex who didn't possess that indefinable something we call color, which is just another name for temperament.

"The worst enemy Helen Wills could ever have, was the man who dubbed her 'Little Poker Face'—that nickname means absence of temperament, and therefore lack of color.

"Everybody told me," he continued, "that I was crazy when I signed up Suzanne Lenglen to tour the states They said she would walk out on me in a pinch during one of her temperamental outbursts and leave me holding the bag.

"But the case has been the opposite and I have found her unusually easy to manage. As I said before, temperamental athletes are my 'dish'."

TUNNEY HEEDED SHAW'S ADVICE

Champion Admits He Considered Friendly Tip Passed by Irish Bard.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, would like nothing better than to meet George Bernard Shaw, he said today, but expressed a fear that he had been misquoted as saying he was contemplating a trip to England in the near future to see the Irish bard.

"I should love to meet Mr. Shaw," the fighter declared, "but my present vaudeville contract will tie me up utill next spring at least. Then I shall try to go to Europe, and if Mr. Shaw will grant me five minutes of his time, I shall indeed be deeply appreciative.

The champion confirmed a dispatch from London which quoted Shaw as saying that the fighter's victory over Jack Dempsey was partially due to his advice.

Took Shaw's Advice.

"If I did see Mr. Shaw," Tunney declared, "the first thing I would do would be to acknowledge his part in my victory. A few weeks after the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, Mr. Shaw wrote a letter to a friend in this country.

"I had the privilege of seeing that letter. In it, Mr. Shaw said that straight hitting would defeat the swinger. In it he outlined how the man who defeated Jack Dempsey might learn how to tie him up in the clinches. Mr. Shaw said that a man with a hard, straight punch could rob Mr. Dempsey of seventy-five per cent of his effectiveness. I took these things into consideration when I went into the ring at Philadelphia."

ONE LETER MAN ON AGGIE SQUAD

Lemon Only Veterans Out For Cage Sport At Aggie High.

The squad 30 basketeers which answered the call of Coach Wilber Knight at Aggie high included only one letter man last week. The veteran is Lemon, who played a guard position last season.

Jimmy Smith Can't Save "Pin Money"

By AL DEMAREE.

Certain names are synonymous with certain sports in the public mind. What "Babe" Ruth means in baseball, Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones in golf, Schaefer and Hoppe to billiards, Tilden and Suzanne Lenglen to tennis, Johnny Weismuller to swimming, little Jimmy Smith means to the ancient and honorable game of bowling.

The little Italian has that little indefinable something that interests the sport public and although he has been toppling the pins year after year for considerably over a quarter century, the bowling fans still flock to see him in exhibitions. Smith probably makes more real money from bowling than any other "alley artist" in the country but like all free spenders he has never amassed a fortune.

His Giddyaps Lose By Nose, So "Slim" Looks For Long Beezers

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright 1926-King Features Syndicate Inc.)

Mr. George ('Slim') Peterson, of here, there and a lot of other places, is paging giddyaps with long beezers—the longer the better.

"If I find 'em, all's well" quoth George 'Slim,' "otherwise I am a wreck and 57 assorted varieties of a ruin."

The aforesaid George 'Slim' sighed a deep, deep sigh, as becomes men who have suffered oft from the slings and arrows of an outrageous fortune and then said:

"An ordinary race horse—the kind I own, is worth about $3,000, to me. And let's say that the average galloper weighs 1,000 pounds which means he's worth $3 a pound or about 20 cents an ounce. The nose of a race hoss weighs about ten ounces—or $2 worth. But if I could ge a few of those nags with extra long snoots I'd be tempted to pay about $3,000 per ounce for the nose alone."

Beaten by a Whisker.

Of all the men involved in the art of having gee-gees chase each other around an oval, perhaps none has had any tougher deals from the deck of Dame Fortune through many months than has George 'Slim' Peterson. For 16 times in a row the horses of Peterson have been beaten for the first place by the proverbial whisker.

The most recent shellacking Peterson took was on the secnd last day at the Pimlico meeting when his racer, North Breeze, was—for the fifth straight time—beaten by a snoot. The loss of first money that was quite a jolt. But the sorrier loss for Peterson was in the fact that he had plunked $100 or so on his horse, to win—and nothing for place.

Length of a Nose.

North Breeze would have paid $113.40 for a $2 ticket if he had won—and that would have meant a wagering profit of $5,570 for Peterson. But the length of a nose—or, rather, a fractional part of a nose—ruined the frijoles for Peterson.

Peterson, in addition to seeing North Breeze lose five in a row, also stood by and watched others of his racers lose out in the east jump to the wire. Three times Parmachence Belle was beaten by a nose with odds or around 10 to 1 laid against her. West Point, another of his horses, ran second four times and each defeat was only the matter of a nose.

Then there was Chief Tierney. On two occasions the wagering fraternity overlooked him and he went into races with long odds against sim—but with Peterson betting that he had the longest nose in the race. But he didn't. For on both those days, when the last leaping had been done, and when all the nose poking had ended, it was found that the Chief's nose was just a wee bit in the rear of another sniffing organ.

Need Just Another Inch.

If the noses of Peterson's horses had been just an inch longer each of those races, Peterson would have won all those contests. That would have made a difference of at least $10,000 in the matter of earnings. And in the matter of wagers—well, 'Slim' has lost about $1,400 betting $100 on each, whereas if they had won his pickup would have been at least $25,000.

Inasmuch as the short noses of the Peterson runners has meant a difference of about $36,400 in 'Slim's' particular life, it isn't difficult to figure out why he's willing to pay huge figures for giddyaps with elongated nasal organs, or whatever it is that a horse has that he breathes through and wins—or loses—with.

"If I can't soon discover a breed of horses with long beaks" says Peterson, "I will make a standing offer of $50,000 to any inventor who can furnish me exclusive rights to a machine that will stretch a horses snoot a couple of inches. If I can't get a long nosed horse, or a nose stretching device, well—say, where's the dock that these discouraged birds jump off of, hey?"

Aged Auburn Man Who In Youth Served In Army In Place Of His Father Seeks Recognition And A Pension

BY CHARLES NUTTER.

FALLS CITY, Neb., Dec. 4—When congress convenes for its final meeting of the sixty-ninth session Monday in Washington, Congressman John H. Morehead of the First district of Nebraska will be on hand with preparations to introduce one of the strangest motions ever presented in the house, where strange motions are heard rather frequently.

Congressman Morehead will ask the lower house to consider the claim of James Perry Whitlow, impoverished 80-year old veteran of the Civil war, who fought on the side of the north for nearly two years in the Civil war, but who has never been able to secure a pension or secure government recognition of his service.

Early in 1863 Peter Whitlow, father of James Perry Whitlow, let his emotions run away with his judgment at Brownville and enlisted in the army there.

A short time later when he returned home and told his family of his action they were horror stricken at the thought of the father and husband leaving his wife and family to go to war. He was the father of nine children, all of whom were under 18 years old

Takes Father's Place.

The oldest son, Perry, realizing the predicament that his father had thrown the family into, offered to serve the enlistment in his father's place that the father might remain at home and care for the children. Though Perry was then but 17 years old he was well-built for his age, and was able to enter the service under his father's name.

Perry was the second oldest child, the oldest being a girl, and he realized that unless he lifted the service burden from his father, shoulders the whole family might be thrown into dire distress

Perry reported for duty to the Second Nebraska cavalry, which was being mustered in at Brownville, Neb, first capital of Nebraska and home of Governor Robert Furnas, first state governor, under the name of his father, Peter Whitlow.

The outfit was sent north into South Dakota and for the next two years Perry and his outfit, along with other Nebraska troops, fought back the Indians. The troops ranged through central Nebraska and North and South Dakota fighting the Indians, who were attempting to take advantage of the fact that the Union was engaged in civil war to drive out the middle western settlers.

In 1865 the troops were returned to Nebraska and mustered out. It was with mixed emotion on that day in 1865 that Perry Whitlow drew his honorable discharge papers in the name of his father Peter Whitlow His record was excellent and the papers were the best that could be given.

Father Gets Pension.

Perry returned to Auburn and took up his residence at his father's farm which he had homesteaded and then owned. His father demanded and received the discharge papers, Perry then being a youth of 19 years, not realizing how valuable they might be to him later.

A few years after the war his father put in a pension claim and it was granted. Shortly after the son found this out a quarrel ensued between father and son as to whom the pension rightfully belonged.

The boy forbidden ever to enter the home again and was left out of the father's will when the later died in 1905, having attained considerable wealth from the homesteaded land

The boy was young and optimistic and had suffered considerable of the rough side of life in the army and rather than cause his aged father any trouble accepted his father at his word and dropped the matter

Peter Whitlo wreceived the son's pension until the time of his death 21 years ago, and at that time the pension had mounted to nearly $50 a month.

After his parents died the son attempted to take the matter up with the government and have the records corrected so that they would show his service instead of his father's.

Health Is Impaired.

His efforts at that time, however, met with such little success that he dropped the matter

Recently, however, his health has become so bad and he has so advanced in years that he is now unable to work to any longer and support himself and some of his friends called the matter to the attention of Congressman Morehead

Congressman Morehead went to Auburn and talked with the old man, who now lives alone in a one-room shack on the edge of the town, and got the facts of the case. For more than a year the congressman has devoted much of his time and unceasing effort in an attempt to get the facts of the matter straightened out He secured affidavits and information from numerous old citizens who knew of Whitlow's service in the Union army under his father's name, and with an abundance of information he made a fight on the floor of the house last spring to get the old soldier's name straightened out on the records

The mills of the gods grind slowly, however, and getting such a distant matter adjusted on the government's records proved a difficult task. The house finally passed the bill to correct the records and to list Perry Whitlow as a soldier of the Union.

The bill went on to the senate, where it was turned down.

Now Morehead has renewed his fight, gathered additional data, and in the present session of congress will introduce a new and special bill to have Perry Whitlow granted a pension

Is Old Settler.

Mr. Whitlow is now past 80 and recently has become so feeble that he cannot work. He was born July 22, 1846 in Cass county, Ill., and came with his parents to Nemaha county in 1855, being now one of the oldest settlers in Nebraska. For more than 40 years he has lived in Auburn

When Mr Whitlow was interviewed recently about the matter he still expressed confidence that the congressman would be able to put the matter through and that he would be able to put the matter through an dthat he would get the pension claim.

Despite the many troubles that his service for the Union has embroiled him in he is still optimistic and patriotic He proudly displays his G. A. R. button in his lapel, and prizes this Civil war emblem above any other of his meagre possessions.

CHAPLIN THINKS WIFE EXPENSIVE

Lita Grey Spent $8,629.50 for Lingerie and Clothing In One Day.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif, Dec. 4.—(INS)—In addition to having spent $8,629.50 for lingerie and clothing the day before she separated from Charlie Chaplin, famous film comedian, Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin spent "thousands of dollars" for clothing while she was in Honolulu recently, it was said at the Chaplin studio this afternoon by Edward Manson, one of Chaplin's executive staff.

Denying Mrs. Chaplin's charge that her clothing and that of the couple's children was being held by Chaplin, Manson said Mrs. Chaplin made her first request late this afternoon for the clothing and it was sent at once to her.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif, Dec 4—(U. P.)—Charlie Chaplin is not seeking a reconciliatory meeting with his wife, the former Lita Grey, but he expects to visit their two children tonight.

Announcement that Chaplin expected to see his two sons was followed immediately by a statement from his attorney, Lloyd Wright, that the meetings had no connection with any conciliatory effort.

"He merely wants to see his babies and I arranged with Mrs. Chaplin for the visit," Wright said

"The meeting is in no way a forerunner for a reconciliation."

Will Hays, the movie czar, is watching developments in the Charlie Chaplin family row, it was learned here today, while attorneys were seeking to patch up the differences between the couple and avoid a divorce scandal in the courts.

May Send Warning.

If a settlement is not reached soon Hays is expected to send the film comedian a letter of warning, advising him that the movie industry cannot tolerate another big public scandal. And, if the Chaplins take their squabble into court, drastic action is anticipated from the Hays office.

All thought of a reconciliation between the Chaplins has faded. Mrs Chaplin is willing to make a settlement out of court, according to her counsel, George Beebe, but "it must be right."

"She will expect custody of the children and certain financial guarantees," Beebe said.

"If Mr. Chaplin is willing to do what is right by his wife and two babies, there will be a private settlement out of court. Otherwise Mrs Chaplin will be compelled to take her case to court"

May Ask Million.

LOS ANGELES, Cal, Dec 4.—(INS)—All hope of a reconciliation between Charles Chaplin, famous film comedian, and his 18-year old wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, has been dissipated "because thinks have gone too far," it was learned today.

Coincident with the report that there will be no "making up," it was learned that Mrs. Chaplin would seek a private settlement from her estranged mate before resorting to the divorce courts. Mrs. Chaplin will seek in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, it was intimated by her attorney, George Beebe.

The young wife replied today to the statements made by her famous husband in connection with his denial that he had ever been cruel and inhuman toward her.

"Money doesn't always bring happiness," Mrs. Chaplin flashed back when told her husband had said he had always allowed her "unlimited credit."

Says Frequently Absent.

"The fact that he has given me money was merely his way of trying to console me for his frequent absence from me and the babies.

"Nor does his having furnished me with money mean that he was a good husband or a good father"

Mrs Chaplin declared emphatically that since she had been married she had made many of her clothes and that "it is only recently that I have bought any at the stores."

The 18-year-old wife complained that as far as friends were concerned her husband would never meet her friends, "as he always insisted they were common"

Rounding Up Wild Horses In Wyoming To End Depredations; To Be Butchered For Europe

RAWLINS, Wyo., Dec. 4.—(U. P.)—Horses, horses, horses—wild mustangs, fiery little pinto ponies, ornery mouse colored mavericks—numbering over 2,000 and every one an outlaw, are milling around in a big corral here following a general round up of wild horses in this vicinity.

Today they are just horses; chased, hunted and finally corralled by long aggravated ranchers. Tomorrow, or in a few days, they will be butchered into steaks for European consumption and food for silver foxes.

Although they are as wild and as mean as the bronchoes that provide thrills for rodeos, they will die as they have lived—never knowing the feel of saddle, bit or spur.
feel of saddle, bit or spur.

Civilization, which brought the horse to the western world, is now faced with the problem of protecting its fence and valuable range land from the depredations of thousands of wild horses that roam over the hills of Wyoming, Montana and other western states.

With the thought of the ignominous end that the 2,000 captured mavericks face so soon, old timers of the region are recalling romantic tales and legends that have been told around camp fires and council fires since the first horses were brought to Spanish America.

One legend explains how horses were brought to Wyoming and Montana long before the first white explorers had been there. A stalwart young Crow brave journeyed alone from his home country on the banks of the Yellowstone to the territory of the Apachaes, far to the southwest. The Indians there had horses brought by the conquering Spaniards a century before. This lone Crow brave had never seen a horse before, but managed to mount a fiery black stallion and race away with his prize. Before he returned home he captured a famous white mare from the Yaqui tribe and in this way brought horses to the Indians of the north.

Winter Retreat Of "Y" Workers

Y. M. C. A. officials and their wives will hold an afternoon and evening winter retreat at the Hi-Y building, Twenty-second and J streets, next Sunday, December 12. About 100 will attend the meeting including the board of directors, trustees, staff and special guests. Early in the evening a luncheon will be served

The meeting will start at 2:30 and continue until 7 o'clock This is a part of a national and world wide plan which was first developed at the national council meeting recently held at the Edgewater Beach hotel at Chicago which lasted six days.

The Nebraska delegation to this conference made up of W. A. Luke, general secretary of the Lincoln "Y," Postmaster J. D. Ringer of Omaha, Attorney S S. Sidner of Fremont and C. A. Musselman, state Y.M. C. A. secretary, will lead the discussions of the afternoon. The relation of the Y. M. C. to the divisions of Christianity and to the non-Christian communities will be the theme for study.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Caldwallader and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strader are the committee in charge of the affair.

EDITORS ROUTE TO BE PLANNED

Burlington, Northwestern and Union Pacific Officials Meet to Draft Schedule.

A meeting of passenger representatives and officials of the Burlington, Union Pacific and Northwestern lines will be held Monday at Union Pacific headquarters in Omaha to map out the route and make up train schedules for the National Editorial association tour of Nebraska and the Black Hills country next June. This meeting follows a conference held at the headquarters of the editorial convention committee in Lincoln.

Ole Buck, secretary and manager of the Nebraska Press association who has charge of arrangements for the national convention and tour will meet with the railroad men in Omaha. Shortly after the close of the Omaha meeting Mr. Buck will have complete information regarding the tour to distribute among the more than 4,000 members of the National Editorial association thorughout the United States.

The editors of the nation who attend the convention will assemble in Omaha, the convention city, June 12. The three days following will be devoted to the business side of the program and a variety of entertainment, to be followed by an educational and sight-seeing tour of Nebraska and the Black Hills. Stops of from four hours to an entire day are to be made at about 20 towns, including Lincoln, each one of which will provide a program of entertainment for the editorial party.

Information reaching the convention committee headquarters in Lincoln indicates that the 1927 convention of the National Editorial association will surpass the forty-two preceding annual meetings in both attendance and entertainment features

A. W. Cutten And Associates Credited With Profit Of Ten Millions In Wall Street Deal

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(I. N. S.)—The story of how a mid-western group of speculators, headed by Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago, has "taken the play" away from the astute men of Wall street and amassed for themselves a profit, actual and on paper, of $10,000,000 within a single month, is being told in New York today.

The group, operating in Baldwin Locomotive stock, one of the favorites of the New York professionals, is said to have executed a coup which still has Wall street mystified. The move was started during October as a one-man pool when Cutten began accumulating Baldwin stock. The wheat market, in which Cutten usually deals, was then slack

Baldwin stock, which had sold as low as 92 7-8 in March, was then quoted around 105, and according to the story going the rounds a great amount of it was purchased at between 105 and 115 in small lots of 100 to 1,000 shares so as not to disturb the market.

On November 1 when the accumulation process had come to a head, the advance in the stock was started by open bidding for the stock on the floor of the exchange. Yesterday Baldwin sold for 165 3-4, on a profit of 50 to 60 points for the members of the Cutten pool.

Reprisal Seen.

That Cutten's sensational coup in Baldwin Locomotive stock was partly in retaliation for the drubbing administered to him and his associates last year in the wheat market by New York speculators was Wall street's view of the matter as discussed in the financial district today.

Shortly after the rise of wheat prices on the Chicago board of trade to around $2 a bushel, a "bear party", of powerful speculators, headed by Jesse L. Livermore, flooded the wheat market with selling orders, causing one of the most sensational chashed in prices in the whole post-war period. Arthur Cutten "held the bag" and Jesse Livermore cleaned up heavily, according to general view.

Has Livermore been caught on the short side of Baldwin This question is going the rounds in Wall street today.

Cutten Denies.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—(INS)—I wish the ridiculous story were true," said Arthur W. Cutten today when asked about reports he and his associates had made $10,000,000 in the last month on Baldwin Locomotive stock.

"While my holdings of Baldwin are comparatively small," he said, "I do feel the stock is intrinsically worth more than $250 a share."

Michigan U. Head Admits He Takes Ocasional Drink

DETROIT, Dec. 4—(INS)—Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, at the annual football dinner tonight in honor of the Michigan football team, made a public declaration of his personal use of liquor and in the same breath scored the undergraduate body for bringing liquor upon the campus in violation of the university rules.

"I take a drink occasionally, and I don't care who knows it; but there are members of the football squad present here who are not entitled to the applause they are receiving because they have violated the rules of the university in regard to liquor," Doctor Little said.

STAGE SET FOR LEAGUE'S MEET

Premier Briand Reported Prepared To Resist Demands Of Germans.

Herr Stresemann of Germany, Expected To Press For Action.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(I.N.S.)—Having secured cabinet approval for his program, M. Briand left tonight for Geneva to attend the League of Nations council meeting opening on Monday.

M. Briand, it is reported, will go to Geneva unprepared to grant the German demands for the abandonment of inter-allied military control in Germany and will maintain that the treaty of Versailles does not provide for the turning over of military control in Germany to the league.

Accompanying M. Briand were Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister; M. Zaleski, Polish delegate, and M. Vandervelde, Belgian delegate.

All of these delegates were in conference in Paris and it is understood they have reached an agreement on policy in connection with the claims Germay will make.

While the German request is likely to be rejected, it is understood M. Briand will strive to make some concessions to Germany which Herr Stressemann can take back to Berlin so that he may not show his political opponents empty hands.

Pessimism Shown.

GENEVA, Dec. 4. — (I.N.S.) — Prospects of renewed Franco-German negotiations between M. Briand and Herr Stresemann overshadow questions of the agenda of the council of the League of Nations which meets Monday.

Tonight there was a measure of under surface pessimism when reports were received that Herr Stresemann will arrive here prepared to press for immediate action on Germany's request that the inter-allied military control commission be withdrawn from Germany and such military control as is necessary be placed in the hands of the league.

If M. Briand and Herr Stresemann can meet privately and work out a more satisfactory agreement on this issue, then the council meeting may be colorless, but if it becomes necessary for Herr Stresemann to fight for his demand before the council then there may be interesting events. Little credence is placed in reports that Germany will withdraw from the league if Herr Stresemann's request is rejected, although it is conceded that a rejection of Herr Stresemann's request may lead to a political situation in Germany which would not be to the liking of the league members.

To Urge Delay.

Both M Briand and Sir Austin Chamberlain are reported to be of the opinion that no hasty action can be taken to raise the restrictions placed upon Germany and they will probably seek to persuade Herr Stresemann to accept delay, but there is a grave question as to whether the political situation at home would permit Herr Stresemann to return to Berlin without definite concessions.

The council will consider the work of the preparatory committee for the economic conference and also of the council committee on disarmament. Questions of Greek, Bulgarian and Armenian refugees will be considered and reports will be received from the permanent mandates commission and the Saar governing commission.

State Historical Society To Meet Here In January

The annual meeting of the Nebraska State Historical society and of the Sons and Daughters of Nebraska will be held January 10-11, 1927. Among the program features will be:

The W. J. Bryan exhibit presented by Mrs. W. J. Bryan and including photographic scrap books of Mr. Bryan's campaigns and newspaper clippings of the many varied aspects of his life. Added to these gifts of Mrs. Bryan will be shown the collection of Bryan cartoons made by Mr. McCutcheon of the Chicago Daily Tribune and presented by him to the Nebraska State Historical society.

The Ricker collection of manuscripts covering fifty years of plains warfare along the Nebraska border, with personal interview with Chief Red Cloud and other noted Indians will be shown together with photographs gathered by Judge E. S. Ricker, formerly of Chadron.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone company will have an exhibit of early telephonic appliances used in Nebraska with an address by W. R. Johnson, division manager at Omaha.

Lincoln Goods May Be Shown at K. C.

The chamber of commerce is negotiating to have a display of Lincoln made goods on exhibit permanently at the manufacturers permanent exhibit at Kansas City. The plan will provide foreign jobbers and retail buyers an opportunity to see first hand goods offered by Lincoln houses. Exporters and brokers also will have a chance to buy Lincoln made goods that they would not see in any other way, Secretary Whitten explained.

PHYSICIANS ELECT;
(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., Dec. 4.—The Box Butte Medical society met at St. Joseph's hospital last evening and Dr. G. F. Johnson was elected president for the coming year. He succeeds Dr. C. E. Slagle. Dr. Lee Farmer was elected vice president and Dr. H. C. Walker, secretary and treasurer, to succeed Dr. John McCoy and Dr. G. J. Hand. This was the regular monthly meeting of the society.

Road Conditions

The following report was given out by the Lincoln Automobile club Saturday afternoon:

The dirt roads in this vicinity are improved but if the drizzle which started Saturday afternoon continues or increases they will be uddy. Roads have yet to be dragged, and tsere are many rough spots. The graveled roads are fine.

No. 38 to Omaha is graveled and fine. No. 38 west to Hastings and Minden is completely graveled and now in good condition. The road is rough to Axtell but graveled to Atlanta. From McCook into Denver, the road is choppy in spots.

No. 11 is graveled east to Elmwood turn. To Union it is very rough in spots. The dirt route from Eagle to Syracuse is also rough. The balance is graveled to Nebraska City, Auburn, Falls City and points south. To Tecumseh via College View, Cheney and Bennet the roads are quite bad and a little soft to Adams.

No. 77 is graveled south to Wymore. Roads are fair to good through Kansas. No. 77 is graveled north to Fremont. There is a dirt stretch to Walthill and the road from Oakland to Walthill is exceedingly poor being quite rough. Roads in northern and central Nebraska are reported rough in spots but very passable.

No. 11, S. Y. A., is good if used via Milford turn on No. 33. There os a graveled road to York and Grand Island which is fine. From Grand Island west on No. 30 the road is graveled most of the way, but rough in the western part of the state. The road to Crete and Wilber is graveled. Side roads are fair.

No. 3 is fair to good. King of Trails is fine from Plattsmouth south to Falls City. The road from Plattsmouth to Fort Crook is poor. There is 21 miles of dirt between Omaha and Sioux City which is only fair. The rest of the road is graveled and fine.

The road to Seward and David City is fair to good. There is an 8 mile detour which is fair. From David City west, the road is graveled to Shelby and north to Schuyler. The Yutan road from Wahoo is graleved now. There is paving from the river to Omaha. Meridian, No. 81, is fair through Nebraska.

From Hastings to Grand Island the road is graveled, alo south to Red Cloud. Side roads are good in dry weather. From Saronville west two miles, then south, the roads are graveled to Superior.

Kansas roads are generally fair to good if the weather remains dry. Iowa roads are fair.

Motorists are again warned by Auto club members to use every precaution in avoiding accidents. The brakes and lights should be tested and adjusted frequently. The windshield should be kept clear so the proper vision may be maintained.

Three Hearings Before Railway Board This Week

Three hearings will be held by the state railway commission this week, all at its office in the capitol. The first scheduled for Monday forenoon, is on an investigation ordered by the commission itself with a view to the issuance of an order requiring the Northwestern and the M. & O. roads, which are under the same ownership and control, to make joint rates between points on their lines, based on what the Northwestern charges for equal mileage on its own line. The two carriers have voluntarilyestablished such rates on certain commodities and it is proposed to apply the same rule on everything.

On Tuesday, the commission will hear from railroads and racehorse owners relative to an increase of rates desired by the carriers on such animals, which are transported on the same tariff as purebred cattle, when occupying less than a whole car.

The Lincoln Traction Co.'s application for permission to abandon electric street car service on the North Twenty-third, agricultural college, East S and Vine, and Bethany lines, and operate motor coaches instead, will be heard at 10:30 Friday morning.

CADILLAC—

USED CAR DEPARTMENT—

NO MATTER WHAT YOU PAY—For a used car, or a new one, the question of it being a value depends upon the service you receive from it.

USED CARS VARY IN PRICE—Materially as well as in condition. No two used cars would be in the identical condition after being in the hands of different owners over a period of time Therefore, when on the market they should not be priced the same for resale.

WE ARE PROUD OF THE PRICES—We are able to quote on our used cars and feel that they represent real value for the money. Of course their condition and the amount of service in them warrants the price.

IF YOU ARE LOOKING—For a Touring car, Coupe or Sedan, you will do yourself justice to see what we have to offer. Now is the time to buy an automobile before prices start increasing. Trade your old car in on a better one and pay as you ride.

Getting Down To Facts

What people think, what they claim, what they promise—is interesting. And sometimes it is true.

There's only one way to judge hearsay and opinion. Check it up with facts.

So when you are told that real estate is going up or down, that help is scarce or more plentiful, that money goes farther or not so far as it did—look through the different headings in the Star's Classified Section and find out.

Here is an excellent summary of local conditions of supply and demand—from runabouts to rooms for rent.

There's no theory about these ads. They're the facts of the case in point. They tell what you can get and where you can get it. They're final.

There are more than four-score headings in the Star's system of Classified arrangement.

Which ones interest you most today?

You Can't Do The Right Thing The Wrong Way

The right thing to do when you lose anything is to discover at once who found it.

And the right way to do this is to let a Star Lost ad put your name and address in the finder's hands.

These little ads are returning scores and scores of lost valuables to anxious owners all the time. An actual checking up of results shows that the service of this paper's Lost and Found Column is hightly efficient.

There's no reason why it shouldn't be.

The chances are all in favor of any particular finder being honest. Your ad and the Star's circulation does the rest.

Star Lost ads don't give worry a chance. Next time you lose anything call Star and ask for an ad taker.

MOTORS AND THEIR CARE

Protection to Batteries.

Batteries that are in a box in the side pan or on the running board should be covered with a piece of rubber or linoleum to protect them from a short circuit, from moisture in wet weather or when the car is washed.

To reduce Carbon in Cylinders.

The formation of carbon in cylinders can be prevented, to a certain extent, by using the choke as little as possible, by avoidance of unnecessary idling of the engine by keeping engine oil fresh and clean and by never running the car with its engine missing explosions.

Causes of Jerky Car.

Jerking at low speeds is usually the result of the engine missing, which may be due to several causes. Points of the spark plug may be set too close, a plug fouled, faulty valves or piston rings may make the engine lose compression or the carburetor may be improperly adjusted.

Tip for Cleaning New Car.

A new car should never be washed with soap and water. Do not aim the water hose straight against the finish. Use a hose without a nozzle. Keep water off the hood while the engine is hot. Dust the car before washing. Do not use a strong kind of soap and never clean the wheels with gasoline. Before using a sponge or chamois, clean them thoroughly. Polish the car after it is dried, but do not apply cheap, oily polish that will pick up dirt or dust.

Focusing Headlights.

The correct way to focus headlights is to place the car on a level plane, about 25 feet from a light-colored wall or building. Adjust the bulb of each lamp in and out until the light it throws on the wall is of small, well-defined shape, free from dark spots and flat on the top (lenses being in place.) Adjust each lamp up and down until the top of the spot thrown on the wall is at the same height as the top of the lamp socket. Then adjust the lamps horizontally until the combined beam is projected straight ahead and is of the desired width.

To Tune up Car for Winter Use.

Tighten the body bolts and chassis bolts.

Clean spark plugs and reset ignition points.

Drain the crankcase and refill with lighter oil.

Drain the gasoline tank of sediment and water.

Grease the chassis transmission and differential.

Fill the storage battery and keep fully charged.

Worth Remembering.

Shimmying or a shaking of the steering gear and front wheels may be caused by any of several mechanical defects. Among them are too much end play in the steering post, side play in the front spring shackles, loose spindle pins and bushings, loose wheel bearings, etc. If correction of any defects in these units does not stop "shimmying," make a taper wedge or plate to fit between the front springs and the axle, placing the thick end of the plate or wedge to the front, thus tipping the upper part of the axle forward. Make the wedge about 1-16 to 1-8 inch taper. The reason for doing this is that in many instances the springs settle or flatten causing the axle to set at the wrong angle.

Facts About Tire Chains.

Every motorist should know there is a right and a wrong way to use chains. They may be placed on in a way to ruin the tires or in such a way as to cause a minimum of wear. At least two chains should always be carried in the car, and, when traveling over slippery roads, they should be immediately placed on the rear tires. By having the clamps at the back they are drawn around by the whipping motion that tends to keep them closed. If they are applied in a reverse direction they have a tendency to open. Remember that if a chain cannot creep on a tire it will wear the tire continually in one place. Do not throw the chains in the tool box when they are not in use. The proper way is to hang them up and give them a thorough coating of cylinder oil and kerosene mixed.

Imperfect battery connections will affect the entire electrical system.

Spare tires should be stored in a dry, unheated room, and should be protected from the light.

To keep brakes from heating up too much when going down a long hill, use the hand and foot controls alternately.

Distilled glycerine gives better satisfaction than alcohol as an anti-freeze mixture. The solution will not eat into rubber or gasket material and will not attack parts of the engine or radiator.

Because dirt roads are very soft and a large number of cars have been mired in deep mud at this time of the year, a motorist will show good judgment to stay on pavements until the dirt roads have become hardened by frost.

SALES INCREASE WITH PRICE CUT

New Models and Lower Prices Make Hudson and Essex Popular.

Hudson Super-Six coaches, broughams and sedans—now at new low prices due to recent $100 reduction on all models—are proving the sales leaders of the season, according to sales executives of Lord Auto Company, Hudson and Essex distributors. They declare a marked styles stimulus has resulted from the reductions which were all the more surprising in view of the fact that they came shortly after the introduction of new and greatly improved Hudson models.

"Hudson certainly has knocked into a cocked hat the old idea that a car had to be expensive to be good," said Mr. J. C. Higgins. "We now have the best looking as well as the best made Hudsons ever built, yet these wonderful bodies on wonderful chasses are selling at the most favorable prices we have ever known. It is no wonder the public is showing its appreciation.

"In these new Hudsons the chief of many mechanical improvements is the greatly improved system of carburetion and manifolding by which gasoline consumption has been reduced materially without sacrifice of pickup, power or flexibility.

"Hudson's always brilliant performance is the greatly improved system of carburetion and manifolding by which gasoline consumption has been reduced materially without sacrifice of pickup, power or flexibility.

"Hudson's always brilliant performance is bettered in the new models. Power is greater. Pickup is quicker. Reliability is increased. Refinements and improvements centered around the famous super-six principle which for eleven years has made automotive history, five more smoothness, freedom from vibration, while the new colors, new lines, new comfort, beauty and distinction of the cars are factors which are having a great deal to do with the splendid sales response."

Full counterbalanced, crankshaft, balanced flywheel, roller tappets, aluminum alloy pistons, nickel babbit bearings for camshaft, bronze-backed, babbit-lined main and connecting rod bearings, accessible timing chain adjustment, minimum crankshaft dilution due to inbuilt features, patented motor lubrication control, efficient new intake manifold and carburetor, gasoline filter inbuilt in vacuum tank, exceptionally sturdy frame with five cross members, and rugged axles front and rear."

Mary Elizabeth Gill, 7, of Diller, Talented Child, But Girl First, Prodigy Second

Mary Elizabeth Gill might be just another little girl living on a Nebraska farm.

She hunts eggs and follows her mother about as she pulls radishes for a summer dinner and colors pictures and watches for the first ripe apples and practices a little and tosses a ball to her younger brother—and plays and plays and plays—my, how she does love to play.

If you think that is the whole of Mary Elizabeth's life that is your error.

Is Gifted Little Girl.

This litle girl, who has never had any concentrated attention to increase her mental abilities, will be in high school almost before she has acquired the atmosphere of the grammar grades, if she proceeds as swiftly in the future as she has in the past. Her mother is a busy woman, as are all women who live on farms, caring for her house, raising chickens, planting a garden, and sewing, and she has had no leisure time to devote to special instruction for her gifted little daughter.

Mary Elizabeth has made herself what she is today.

However, she has always met

with response from her parents when she turned her inquiring little mind to questions, and she has never been hindered by indifference. They have recognized that Mary Elizabeth's mind is more mature than her years, and they have tried to meet her on her mental plane. Mary Elizabeth has never talked baby talk, and she has always seemed to understand the conversations of her parents.

Is in Fourth Grade.

Mary Elizabeth is doing fourth grade work in school in all subjects except arithmetic—and she only started to school September 3. She was seven years old September 28, almost a month after she entered school. That dreadful arithmetic, which has bothered more than one small girl, Mary Elizabeth has with the third grade.

At the age of five, the small Mary Elizabeth had read the life of Abraham Lincoln, and had committed to memory his Gettysburg address. Last summer, as a manner of light diversion, she read Isben's "A Doll's House," and explained the meaning to her mother.

Mary Elizabeth started to read at four years of age. When only three, she spelled words on blocks, in newspaper heads, and in advertisements. A year later she began to read primers and first readers, and within a month she had read five or six through many times.

She Knew the Words.

Mrs. Gill believed that the child was merely memorizing the words or the lessons, but she found that Mary Elizabeth knew the words when pointed out to her in other places. As soon as she had finished the first readers, she read all the second, third, and fourth readers the family could provide.

When Mary Elizabeth finds a word she doesn't know, she spells it to Mrs. Gill, and, once learned, she does not seem to forget it. She has always read with the correct expression and emphasis, and if a sentences does not sound quite right, she reads it several times until it acquires meaning. Even though so young, she understands all that she reads, and can tell the story to any one. She generally reads out loud. Mary Elizabeth has read dozens of books, many of them several times, and would have read more had the family allowed it.

Easy for Her to Learn.

Even as a baby, Mary Elizabeth displayed unusual ease of learning. "Songs My Mother Taught Me" would have a real meaning to the little girl, because she learned the songs Mrs. Gill sang to her as a baby. At the age of two, she could repeat a song of four verses, four lines in each verse.

Mrs. Gill has never pushed her little daughter to force her to do mental feats beyond her years, but she has always helped her when Mary Elizabeth displayed an eagerness to learn. Mrs. Harry Gately, her teacher, placed her where she felt was suitable. She can advance in school as rapidly as she has the ability, but she will never be pushed, but is always to be a little girl first and a prodigy second.

Mary Elizabeth has the keenest sense of right and wrong that she has ever observed in a child, Mrs. Gill says, and it must be pronounced, because, she is very reticent on the subject of her small daughter. She thinks that "there are hundreds of such children in the United States, but we do not hear of them." Mrs. Gill taught for ten years, and she has never seen this feeling of right and wrong so marked in a little child.

Save Many Dimes In a Short Time

(Special to The Star.)

FREMONT, Neb., Dec. 4.—Saving one's dimes will soon result in the accumulation of a worthwhile sum of money, according to Mr. and Mrs. Chris Johnson, Salina, Kas., who have turned over to Midland college a bag containing 500 dimes. The $50 represented by the 10-cent pieces paid a pledge which the Johnsons made to Midland during the college's financial drive early in 1924. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson declared that the bag contained every dime which had come into their possession between January 30, 1924, and Thanksgiving day of this year.

Rural Carrier To Retire On Pension

FAIRBURY, Neb., Dec. 4.—A. J. Davis, the veteran Fairbury rural carrier with a service record of twenty-four years, resigned Saturday on a pension. Mr. Davis will receive a monthly pension of $66.66. His service has been on one route, Fairbury 2, and he has always used a team and wagon instead of an automobile. His route will be alloted to other carriers, agreeable to a recommendation of the department, and it will not be necessary to hire a man in his place.

Obituary

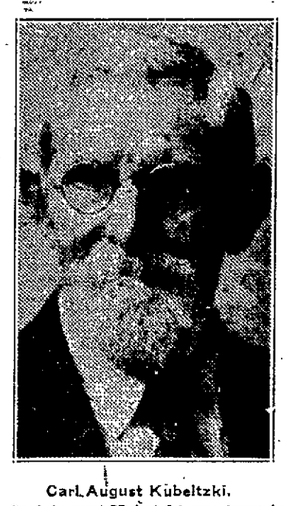

James Giles.

James Giles was born in London, England, Feb. 19, 1835 and died in Lincoln Nov 15, at the age of ninety-one years and nine months. He was married to Harriet Claridge on April 2, 1858. There were three sons and three daughters born to them. Mr. and Mrs. Giles left England March 1869, coming directly to Nebraska, then to Lancaster county.

He was a Christian from a very young man and continued in the faith to the end. He leaves his wife, with whom he lived 68 years; five children, Mrs. Hattie Payne of Virginia; Mrs. Emily Hudson and Herbert of Denton; William and Mrs. Nellie Hudson of Denton. Also thirty-two grand children and thirty-one great grand children. The son, Fred, died several years ago.

—CONTRIBUTED.

Carl August Kubeltzki.

Carl August Kubetzki was born in Danzig, Germany, April 1, 1847 and died Friday morning at 4 o'clock, November 26 at his home, 933 A street, Lincoln. He was seventy-nine years, seven months and twenty-six days old. He leave his wife, four daughters, Mae and Matilda at home; Mrs. Leona Siddens, Lincoln, and Mrs. Clara Warnke of Beaver Crossing; three sons, Martin and George of Lincoln and Fred of Denver, Colo., and eight grandchildren; one son, Frank, having died Dec. 16, 1909. A brother and sister in New Jersey and a sister in Germany also survive.

His early life was spent in Germany. At the age of fourteen he was confirmed in the Lutheran church and later united with St. John's Episcopal church at Wahoo, Neb., where he was a very active member, holding several offices.

At the age of fourteen he became a sailor. Thirteen years were spent in continuous travel, he having gone twice around the world, visiting many interesting foreign ports. He was often an officer of one station or another on many of his ships. His seafaring stories of real experience were vastly interesting to all who knew him and ever vidid in his memory. Having a cheerful optimistic nature, he was always able to look on the bright side of life.

At the age of twenty-seven he came to Ashland, Neb., where he bought a small farm and lived for about a year. Again longing for the sea he returned for two years.

He then returned to Philadelphia to the first centennial and to visit his brother, Henry. He came to Lincoln in 1876. Last he settled at Roca where he was united in marriage to Mrs. Mary Ann Isaac Golz, Sept. 20, 1889. To this union were born five children.

His naturalization papers were taken out in 1892. The family then removed to Stratton, Neb., where they live for two an a half years, then moving to Wahoo where they live for twenty years; then to Seward, later to Ulysses and finally to Lincoln where he enjoye the companionship of his old associates. Being of a kindly disposition he never knew any one to be a stranger.

The last three years he had been in failing health but wa sable to be up and around. On November 23 he was stricken with paralysis from which he never rallied.

—CONTRIBUTED.

Mrs. Katherine Seng.

Katherine Westmeyer, daughter of Henry and Elizabeth Westmeyer, was born at Wolferoda, Germany, Aug. 30, 1840 and died November 29, 1926, having reached the age of eighty-six years, two months and twenty-nine days.

When sixteen years of age she came to America, where she joined her brother who had come to this country some years before and was residing at Peoria, Ill. Here she found employment with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Knowlton, who had a home known as the "Methodist Preacher's hotel." Here she made the acquaintance of some of the leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church and she united with the church when eigteen years old. She was ever a conscientious, faithful member of the church and attended the W. F. M. S. meeting less than two months ago and Sunday school and worship on the last day of her life.

In 1865 when she was still in Peoria, Ill., after having been in this country nine years, she was united in marriage to Sebastian Seng. To this union six children were born, three of whom survive the mother. They are William H., Charles C., and Dr. George E., all of Lincoln. There are also eighteen grand children and two great-grandchildren. The husband and three children preceded her in death, the husband thirty-six years ago: Arthur at the age of two; Katherine, the only daughter, at the age of sixteen; and John in 1923 at the age of forty-seven. Since 1908 she had made her home in Lincoln with her sons.

These Improvements are Important

There are two general classes of motor car improvements. Those made primarily for their effect on the public—and those made primarily for their effect upon the car.

You will perceive at once that Dodge Brothers new five-bearing crankshaft, two-unit starting and lighting system, air cleaner and other recent improvements, are the sort that represent genuine value.

They are sound and substantial betterments, producing definite and marked results, and as such they are typical of Dodge Brothers methods and product.

The great value in closed car comforts, which gave the Coach its enormous vogue, is now combined with deluxe attractions of appointment, color and beauty in a new popular favorite—the Special Coach.

It shares with the Brougham a place of distinction in appearance and comfort among far higher priced cars. Only the costliest approach its brilliancy of action, smoothness and power.

Gasoline mileage is greatly improved. Refinements and improvements centered around the famous Super-Six principle give greater smoothness, freedom from vibration and closely perfect all the great results of this exclusive Hudson advantage.

Hudson's always brilliant performance is bettered. Power is greater. Pick-up is quicker. Reliability is increased. Motor life is lengthened. Repair needs are even more infrequent.

Today's Hudson, in all models, reaches new heights of supremacy in motor values—the greatest achievement in Hudson's long known policy of giving most for the money.

Mary Davis Is Chosen "Tiger Maid" At Doane

Miss Mary A. Davis, '28, of Sayre, Okla., received one of the high honors of Doane college last week, when she was chosen Tiger Lily Maid by the football letter men. The selection is an annual event at Doane.

Prof. D. G. Burrage was toastmaster at the banquet. Toasts were given by Coach Haylett, Assistant Coach Spink, Captain Bill Adams, and Captain-elect B. L. Booth. A program of vaudeville acts was arranged, and the singing was led by the girls' ukulele band. President Edwin B. Dean, on behalf of the athletic board of control, granted football letters to twenty-four men, the largest number to receive letters at one time in the history of the college

Return Of Lincoln School Set Forecasts Gay Holiday Season

With the majority of Lincoln's school set returning home for the holidays, this Christmas season will undoubtedly prove to be one of the gayest. Although very little has been definitely arranged, waiting for the arrival in town of the host or hostess, many are contemplating parties at various times during the holidays. Those from the far east and the far west will for the most part meet again in Lincoln this Christmas, although a few of those farthest away, will visit friends or relatives near their school.

A number of Lincoln's younger set attend Wellesley this year, and all of them are coming west for the Christmas recess. Catherine Clapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Clapp, Susan Lau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lau, and Helen Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Warren F. Day, all arrive on December 18. They will spend two weeks in the city.

Janet Mathews, who is also a Wellesley student, will spend the holidays with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Mathews, in Omaha. She arrives on the eighteenth with the other girls. Miss Mathews is the daughter of Jack Mathews.

Jack Ames arrives from Phillips Exeter December 17, and remains until after the first of the year. He will spend the time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E Ames.

Returns From Northwestern.

Dr. and Mrs C. L. Fahnestock will have their daughter, Margaret Fahnestock, with them for the holidays. She comes December 18 from Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., to remain two weeks.

Carroll Black, son of Mr. and Mrs E. R. Black, comes only three days before Christmas, and remains until after the New Year. He is a student at Wabash college at Crawfordsville, Ind.

Among the earlier arrivals is Ruth Hilton, who comes December 16 to be with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Hilton for the holidays. Miss Hilton will be hostess at a luncheon January 2, honoring several out-of-town girls who attend Stephens college at Columbia, Mo., with Miss Hilton. She leaves January 3 for Columbia.

Roma Ridnour arrives December 19 from National Park seminary at Glenn, Md. She will spend the two weeks of vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ridnour.

Clara Olson, who is also a Stephens student, will have two of her classmates as her guests when she comes on December 16. She will be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olson, until January 3.

Returns December 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Foster will have their daughter, Letitia, with them from December 20 until a short time after New Year's. She is attending Emma Willard school at Troy, N. Y.

Miss Smith is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. Mr. Tomiska is also a graduate of Nebraska university, and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. George Round of Ord, announce the engageent of their daughter, Miss Alice Jane Round, to Frederick F. Campbell of Pittsburgh Pa., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell of Lincoln. The wedding will take place after the holidays.

Mr. Campbell is a graduate of the University of Nebraska in the class of 1926, and at the present time is taking a student course at the Westinghouse Electric company.

Mrs. Marie Coddington announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Lorena Coddington, to Charles W. Andrews of Syracuse. The wedding will take place January 8.

Miss Coddington is a junior in the University and a member of Phi Mu sorority. Mr. Andrews is engaged in business in Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. August B. Larson announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jenella Larson, to Martin E. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Johnson of Ceresco.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Gausmann announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Hulda Lucile Gausmann, to Kent W. Eno, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Eno of College View.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bearing announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Catherine Elizabeth, to Jack C. Streck of Hastings.

Lincoln Families Make Christmas Dinner Plans

Both Country Clubs Are to Be Closed and Yule Tide Feasts Will Be Served in Private Homes; Many Out-of-Town Guests Will Spend Holidays Here.

With Christmas but a scant three weeks away plans for the Christmas dinner are taking definite form in the majority of families. The Country clubs will both be closed Christmas day, which means that dinners, whether there are many guests or not, will be served at home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Burnham are having their dinner in the afternoon at their home, 1020 D street, and will have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burnham and family, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Yates, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Lau, Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes and Mrs. S. W. Burnham.

Mr. and Mrs Arthur Raymond will entertain at dinner at their home, 1951 South Twenty-fifth street, the following guests, Mrs. J. E. Gavin and children, Mrs. A. S. Raymond, and Miss Dorothy Raymond. Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Raymond, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Will Raymond, will have Christmas dinner together at the home of Mr. and Mrs I. M. Raymond.

ORGANIZE D. A. R. CHAPTER AT AUBURN.

A new chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was formed in Auburn November 26 by Mrs. Clarence S. Paine, state regent, and Mrs. Wesley, Dirks, Auburn, organizing regent. Mrs. Joseph L. Codington, state historian, Omaha, was present as an honor guest. Thirty people were the guests of Mrs. Dirks at luncheon, who entertained at the home of her mother, Mrs. William W. Clark of Auburn. Mrs. Dirks was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Sterling Mutz of Lincoln, who is secretary of Deborah Avery chapter. The home of Mrs. Clark was beautiful with chrysanthemums and several handsome silk flags were displayed in the parlors. After the luncheon the meeting was called to order and a brief patriotic program given, followed by a short address by Mrs. Paine, outlining the objects and work of the daughters. The chapter will be known as the Ann Froissart chapter and was named for the wife of the revolutionary ancestor of the organizing regent, Mrs. Dirks.

Ann Froissart was born in 1750 in France and was educated in a convent in the city of Longwy in Lorrain. She was first married to Philip Nadenbousch, who was an officer in the life guards of Louis Philippe and as such was not permitted to marry, but he escaped with his bride through the kindness of the Grand Duke of Hesse and fled to America, his bride dressed as a page. They were six months on the journey, but at last arrived in Philadelphia, where goods were purchased and a store opened at the village of St. Mary's, Md. Life was very different in America to the young French woman, who knew nothing of household duties. She learned how to cook from her black servant and in due time learned to speak English.

During the French and Indian wars Philip Nadenbousch was murdered and robbed while transporting goods from Philadelphia. Ann was left with three small boys, Philip, Frederick and Henry, in a strange land often raided by Indians. She protected and raised her children and some years later married James Clarke, a descendant of one of the fine old families that came over with Sir Charles Calvert, brother of Lord Baltimore. James Clarke served in the war of the revolution and his wife bravely did her part in that great struggle. There were several children by this second marriage, from whom are descended Mrs. Wesley Dirks and Mrs. Sterling Mutz, who are great, great grandchildren of James Clarke and Ann Froissart Nadenbousch Clarke.

She died in 1835 and was survived by her husband five years. Ann Froissart Hadenbousch was the grandmother of Benjamin Franklin Harrison and is the great, great grandmother of Mrs. Wesley Dirks, Auburn, and Mrs. Sterling Mutz of Lincoln. She is buried at Martinsburg, W. Va.

The officers of the new chapter are Mrs. Wesley Dirks, regent; Mrs. Frank Cline, vice regent; Mrs. R. C. Boyd, secretary; Mrs. Clarence Souders, registrar, Miss Lula Gillan, historian; Mrs. Paul A. Gilmore, chaplain; Mrs. Cora Christie, treasurer. Mrs. Floyd C. Kraybill sang the "Star Spangled Banner" during the program.

WOMEN'S BUSINESS PROFESSIONAL CLUBS.

The Business and Professional Women's club of McCook, presented a musical comedy last Tuesday and Wednesday nights, to the people of that city. A matinee had been given to the children of the elementary schools in the afternoon. After the performance Tuesday evening, all those taking part and several others were served a luncheon at the Bon Ton. Covers were placed for forty-four. The special committee consisted of, Miss Vera Neel, Miss Rose Brady, Miss Margaret Weller, Miss Jones, Mrs. Graco Bainter, Mrs. Sylvia Crawford.

A party of ten from the Oberlin Business Woman's club motored over to attend the performance.

DEBORAH AVERY CHAPTER HEARS OF PHILADELPHIA.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The tenth birthday party of the league will be held Thursday evening this week at the club rooms, with dinner at 6:15. The special guest of honor will be Mrs. Ruth Hartzell Greeley, the club's most recent bride; other guests of honor will be the president of the State Federation of Business and Professional clubs, Miss Norva Wickham of Beatrice and Miss Blanche Mahannah, president of Lincoln Axis club. A short program of music and short, spicy talks, has been prepared by Mrs. Eugenia Hancock; the usual recognition will be given to the past presidents of the league, and the birthday cake will be cut with ceremony and pieces distributed to all present. Mrs. Emma Shurtleff is in charge of the decorations and dining room, and Miss Emma Hedges will look after the dinner. Their assistants will be the newer members of the league, joining since July 1, 1926. A hint of Christmas will appear in the decorations. All members have been asked to bring a penny for each year of their age; these will be deposited in a birthday box provided by President Dr. Jane B. Ringer, and will later contribute to the purchase of some desired articles for the club rooms.

Mrs. Anna Crowley, house chairman, announces Mrs. Harriet Holm as assistant chairman for December.

Several tables of bridge made the rooms gay last Monday evening. All members are invited to play each Monday evening, the play is for instruction rather than winnings, and any who want to learn the game will profit by attending. Wednesday evening is dance night, and members and invited guests make merry each week. The dancing will take place also on Monday night of this week, as the rooms are in use on Wednesday night.

Edna Mae Collier of Hastings, Keith Folger of Omaha and Charles Lane of Hastings.

Mrs. H. E. McArthur was hostess at a luncheon and miscellaneous shower Saturday at her home, 1933 Harwood, in honor of Miss Katherine Holzhammer. Eight guests were present, and Christmas suggestions were used as decoration.

The Cook-Lincoln club will meet Friday evening, December 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Campbell, 1940 South Twenty-sixth street, for a Christmas party. Those assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Frank Martalka, Mrs. J. I. Davis and Mrs. E. E. Sanders.

The Seward-Lincoln club met for a 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Margaret Carns, 1734 South Seventeenth street, Friday afternoon. Mrs. R. O. McCall assisted the hostess. Twenty members were seated at small tables, which were attractively decorated in pink and white. The afternoon was spent in a discussion of current events and a kensington. Mrs. R. P. Anderson was a guest of the club. The next meeting will be in two weeks, at the home of Mrs. D. Goggins, 2827 Sumner street, and will be a 1 o'clock luncheon and Christmas exchange.

Mrs. F. E. Roth will entertain the Strollers at a 1 o'clock luncheon Friday at her home, 2434 Sewell.

The University of Nebraska chapter of Sigma Xi will hold a meeting in the general lecture room of Bessey hall, Tuesday, December 7, at 8 p. m. H. W. Mentor, Ph. D., professor of zoology in the university, will lecture on "Egg Hatching in Parasitic Worms." The meeting will be open to the public and non-members are welcome.

Mrs. C. G. Martin entertained eight guests at a luncheon Thursday at her home, 824 South Eighteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Folsom entertained sixteen guests Saturday at dinner at their home, 1305 J street. The out of town guests were Mrs. J. M. Raymond and Miss Eleanor Raymond of Chicago.

The Hollywood club was entertained at the home of Mr and Mrs. H. E. Allender, 1121 D street, Friday, December 3. There were three tables of five hundred and Mrs. William Mulder and Jack Borin had high score. A two-course lunch was served later in the evening. The next meeting will be in two weeks and will be a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mulder, 1932 South Fourteenth street.

Miss Amanda Heppner entertained twelve guests at a luncheon at her home, 944 Washington street, Saturday, in honor of three recent brides, Margaret Stidworthy Coryell, Ruth Carpenter Russel and Frances Weintz Ernst, and some brides-to-be. The out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Ralph Russell, Omaha; Miss Isabelle McMonies, Fremont; Miss Josephine Shramek, David City, and Miss Barbara Wigenhorn, Ashland. The decorations were in orchid and green.

Mrs. Max Beghtol will entertain twelve guests at the Country club Monday afternoon at a 1 o'clock luncheon. Mrs. David Beston of Evanston, Ill., will be the honor guest.

The pledges of Upsilon chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, of Nebraska Wesleyan, entertained the active chapter and guests at the home of Dean and Mrs. Parvin Witte, Saturday evening, December 4. "A Picnic Day in the Woods," an operetta for children, was given by the pledges in children's costumes. After this, the following numbers were presented.

Vocal solo, "Melisande in the Wood," Goetz—Gertrude Norsworthy

Piano solo, "Lotus Land, Scott—Catherine Allen.

Vocal solo, "Shepherdfold Song," Landon—Florence Deckett.

Piano solo, "Autumn," Chaminade—Odessa Holmberg.

Vocal Duet, "Across the Still Lagoon," Lodge—Catherine Allen and Gertrude Norsworthy.

A number of fraternity and pledge songs were also sung.

Mrs. William Martinson entertained Thursday afternoon at her home, 2701 South Eleventh street, at a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Margaret Vogt. The afternoon was spent informally. The guests were seated at one table entered with Japanese lillies and decorated with Christmas suggestions. Miss Vogt will become the bride of Olaf Martinson December 15.

Miss Sylvia Schaefer entertained at a surprise birthday party at her home, 1975 A street, Friday evening honoring her mother, Mme. Laura de Vilmar. Two tables were arranged for bridge and high scores were made by Mrs. Fred Lefferdink and Mrs. C. V. Gibbons. Covers for ten were placed at one table for luncheon. A color motif of blue and white was used in the decorations.

Mrs. O. F. Hines entertained at a luncheon Friday, at her home, 1636 South Twenty-third street, complimenting Mrs. R. A. Bickford and her mother, Mrs. Poynter, who have recently taken up their residence near the hostess. The guest list of ten included Mrs. W. P. Aylsworth of Bethany, who is leaving the first of the week to spend the winter with her daughter in Seattle, Wash. Several bouquets of winter berries graced the living room and the Christmas idea prevailed in the table decorations. The afternoon was spent socially.

The house mothers of Nebraska Wesleyan University met Thursday afternoon at Willard house for a Yuletide party, Mrs. Clara Prouty was hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jessie Cassell. The rooms were attractively decorated in Christmas colors, and eleven members were present. There was a short business session, after which the afternoon was spent socially. Very entertaining readings were given by Mrs. L. A. Cox, and Mrs. Helen Strandberg. Refreshments were served in the dining room, with Christmas candles and flowers on the table. The next meeting will be January 6, with Mrs. Matie Brown and Mrs. Olive Patterson.

The first Farmers' formal was given Saturday night in the Student Activities building at the College of Agriculture for all students in that department. All had to wear overalls and aprons and the rooms were decorated with corn stalks and sunflowers. James Jensen entertained during intermission, and refreshments were served. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Keim, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Loeffel, and Mr. and Mrs. Don B. Whelan.

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

You Never Know How or Where or Whom Love's Arrow Is Going to Strike—A Loveless Wife Keeps Young and Happy Through Her Children But She Has to Guard Her Secret From Them Too—High-Sounding Phrases Often Carry Us Away And We Think They are True Because They Sound Nice—"The Saints Shall Judge The World" Quotes "Ardent" And Calls For Discussion.

You Never Know.

Love is a funny thing. Here's "Hopeless" waiting impatiently for her Prince Charming who hasn't stuck his head up above the horizon. She finds all the present-day boys shallow and the girls chatterboxes. Yet, here is one funny thing about love. When it hits you it stands as good a chance of being for a wild young man as for a college professor. You never know whom love is going to pick on.

Dear Minerva: I have a pet theory that I'd like to put to your seemingly willing ears and I want you to tell me whether it is sound proof or not.

It's this. I'm waiting for my Prince Charming to show himself and not even his shadow has made an appearance yet. Maybe I'm asking far too much, but it doesn't seem possible that there aren't any left.

I'm not the touch-me-not variety, but all the same I'm saving my kisses for the Prince I'm waiting for. I don't know myself. I haven't met him yet. These worldly sheiks bore me to death.

I like the boys who are my friends, but there is something lacking.

I like boys for companions because they don't keep up an incessant run of chatter like some girls I know, but I wouldn't marry any of them. They seem to want just a wild time, and there isn't much to them. Shallow beings. This sounds like I'm a prude but I guess I'm just Hopeless.

A. I think you are right in you stand, little girl. Save your kisse for Mr. Right. Take that as your object, if you will. The result is that you will be saving them for your own self-respect. You'll be glad that you weren't promiscuous and if a dream of Mr. Right will turn the trick, more power to the hope.

Living a Lie.

Dear Minerva: I have been a silent reader for years, have laid letters aside intending to answer and give my views on certain questions but have put it off from time to time.

One letter which appeared some time ago in regard to some girl doubting whether she should marry a man she loved when he was in some way duty bound to another woman whom he did not love. I say "Why cause two unhappy homes?"

I have had exactly the same experience. I have lived ten years with a man I can never love and my fiance married the other party whom he can never love. Can he make her happy? Can I possibly make my husband happy? There is no happiness in just being married. It is most terrible to live a lie.

I think I have done it as gracefully as anyone could but at that know he knows and he is too good and sincere to have to suffer at my hands. I have given him an interesting family, am considered a good manager and quite an ideal mother, but I cannot make a desirable wife under such circumstances.

My problems are very perplexing. Only this morning my little daughter said "Mother, do you love daddy?" I answered "Why, Mary."

You didn't act like it when you looked at him then," she replied.

This is an example of how a child will grasp the true situation if you don't keep yourself on guard.

It isn't easy to live such a life. My advice is if you love him and you are positive he loves you don't give him up.

I was rather amused with "Mature Woman" in this evening's Mail. Aged at thirty.

A blind friend of mine one day asked my age. I answered "Thirty." His reply was "Why, you are only a baby." He happens to be a man of three score years and ten. I guess we don't all have the same viewpoints.

I certainly don't feel I have lived my life. I venture to say you haven't any family to keep you alive. I believe that is the secret of it all. My children keep me youthful, in fact at thirty I have a terrible time making myself behave myself. I never was so full of life in all my life as I am right now.

Then too, in regard to children being born of youthful parents not being so intelligent as those bor of older parents. There are nine in our family. My oldest brother is the only Harvard man in the family. I am near the end of the line and judge for yourself here. Very Much Alive.

High Sounding Phrases.

Dear Minerva: My husband drives me wild! He is fifty-four years old (I am considerably younger) and ever since Mr. Browning married "Peaches" Heenan I have been trying to convince him that it is impossible for a sixteen year old girl to have a romantic attachment for a man of fifty-one; but I might as well talk to the moon. I tell him that a man past fifty is a fool to think a mere child could love him as a husband. He insists that the aforementioned couple would have made a success of their marriage if they had been left alone. Just how old does a man have to be before he realizes that he is no longer attractive to sweet sixteen? I know my husband is not alone in thinking the way he does. Robert Browning's poem "Evelyn Hope" is very much admired by some people, but the difference in the ages of the lover and the loved spoils it for me. The man is forty-eight and as he looks on the beautiful sixteen year old girl, cold and still in death, this is what he says,

"I loved you Evelyn al the while!
My heart seemed full as it could hold.
There was place and to spare for the frank young smile

And the red young mouth, and the hair's young gold."

Of course there was room in his heart for her youth and beauty! Would there have been room in her heart for his greying hair and deepening wrinkles? There is a charm in young manhood also, what does a man of fifty have to offer a girl in lieu of this? Is there anything that can take its place or compensate for its lack? If, when I was sixteen, one of my father's contemporaries had proposed marriage to me, I should have been disgusted and chagrined, unles she had been a wealthy man. In that case, being a poor girl, I might have been tempted, I am not sure, but I am sure that if I had been tempted I should have repented of my bargain as quickly as "Peaches" did of hers.

Sometimes I think that the men of America are like Orientals in their love of mere youth in womankind. If a man of fifty has the mentality and the outlook on life that a normal man of that age should have, I do not see how he can find satisfying companionship in a girl in her teens or twenties either. Do American men not want companionship? Does the sex appeal of the younger woman outweigh everything else? Or do they think that if they yoke themselves with youth Father Time will look at them sideways and pass them by.

My heart goes out to "Tex." He should tell his wife what he overheard, tell her that he, and not she, is entitled to a divorce but that he does not intend to get one. I think he made a mistake not to tell her at the time. It is unwise to forgive people for their offenses before, and unless they express their regret. We are encouraging them in their meanness to pass things by, and it makes for nobleness of character to acknowledge an offense.

I am glad that you have the opportunity to warn the young folk against petting. If some of the seed does fall on stony ground, some will bare fruit I am sure. Roger's description of the male petter is true to life. Undoubtedly the breeding, education and environment of the majority of those who indulge in this diversion are on a low scale. Their parents, more than likely, did the same thing and are incapable of inspiring higher ideals in their children, and the latter are content to stay on the same low plane, seeking and finding diversion on the brink of fornication. I am wondering if "Sybil" would think the objectors to petting intolerant, and if she would quote Romans 14-14 in its defense. I love the Bible and have spent countless hours in the study of it, besides reading it through ten times, and I think it is inexcusable to take a verse from its setting and use it to prove something quite foreign to the original writer's thought. Verses 14 and 15 of that chapter should always be taken together.

When Paul said "there is nothing unclean of itself" he was speaking of clean and unclean meats, and to take those words and use them in defense of adultery "is sure the limit.

"There is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so" is one of the biggest lies ever written. We are sometimes carried away by a high sounding phrase and think it is true because it sounds nice.

"Every cloud has a silver lining" is one of them. There are clouds in life's sky that are black clear through that have not, and never can have a silver lining.

Long live Minerva's Mail! Marah.

Firm and Unequivocal.

Dear Minerva: May I say a few words to Sibyl in reply to her letter of recent date? It is not my conscience, but the word of God that "will not allow" me to think "the act of the unmarried woman and the legal husband" had the approval of God. God said "Thou shalt not commit adultery," and in Matt. 5:28 you may read what Jesus said. Then if you will turn back to the Eleventh and Twelfth chapters of second Samuel and read there the sory of David's sin, and that the Lord said that because David had despised His commandment the sword should never depart from his house. David's life was spared only because he humbled himself and acknowledged his sin, but he was made to suffer for his sin through seeing his sin visited upon the innocent child.

Then you say "But please be merciful and let God say what their fate, and the many others you have condemned to hell, shall be." Considering that it is God, and not I, who condemns the adulterer, I think it both narsh and presumptuous of you to say such an unchristian thing. God's language is firm and unequivocal. I am at liberty to do one of two things,—either believe God or disbelieve Him. If I disbelieve Him I make Him a liar, (1st. John 5:10.) I choose the first alternative. It is not I who "condemn to hell,"—I leave that to Roger. It is mine to point out what God has said, to call attention to the penalty He imposes for wrong doing, and He will not hold me guiltless if I do less than to contend for the right. You might read Ezekiel 3:17-21.

Why shall I not believe that an unrepentant adulterer "shall not inherit the Kingdom of Heaven when God says he shall not? Read 1st. Cor. 6:9-10 and Gal. 5:19-21 and be convinced. Since these passages are so plain I shall continue to believe that condemnation rests upon that man as long as he continues to willfully despise God's commandment. But whenever such a man becomes repentant enough to turn from his sin and humble himself before God, washing away his sin in the blood of the Lamb, then I shall believe that God remembers his sin no more, because there is the promise that "if we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1st. John 1:9.) This promise, however, is made to those who are on praying and pleading terms with the Father. I cannot find anywhere in the Bible where God ever forgave and saved a man who didn't want to be forgiven and saved. He isn't going to drag anyone to Heaven against their will, or redeem one who is not willing to accept Christ and His authority.

"If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: I do not say that he shall pray for it. All unrighteousness is sin; and there is a sin not unto death," (1st. John 5:16-17.)

Last Sunday night I was one of the large audience that witnessed the reproduction of the Passion Play of Oberammergau through stereoptican pictures at the First Christian church. It was a magnificent series of pictures, and doubtless will long be remembered by all who saw them. As we were leaving town we passed within a quarter of a mile of a dancing pav and another kind of "passion play" was in progress three, regardless of the fact that it was the Lord's Day, for we could see the dancers as they passed before the windows. Think of a dance on the evening of the Lord's Day,—the dancers not being content with rivelry six days out of seven but begrudging one day out of seven being given to spiritual pursuits. Surely "there is a sin which is not unto death" that can be persisted in until it leads to graver things and becomes "a sin unto death." And surely, surely Paul knew what he was talking about and did not speak falsely when he said that in the last days people would be "lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God."

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wiley Jr. entertained ten little children at their home, 1607 N street, Thursday evening honoring the ninth birthday anniversary of their son, Elton R. Wiley. The evening was spent playing games. Decorations were suggestive of the holiday season.

Keep Hair Tidy, Glossy, Wavy

By Edna Wallace Hopper

One of the best things experts evet made for me is a new-type hair dress. I call it my Wave and Sheen.

It keeps hair as you wish it. If you wish fluffy hair like mine, just comb it backward and the fluff will stay. If you wish waves or curls, use combs or fingers in the usual way, and the curl will stay. If you have a Marcel wave, my Wave and Sheen will keep it. Or it keeps hair sleek and smooth for those who want it, without stickiness or grease.

It will delight you, whatever your idea on hair dress. It gives a luster, enhances the color. It keeps the hair in any style you like.

All toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen under guarantee. The price is 75c. You will never go without it when you see what it means to your hair.

Christmas Questions Are Speedily Solved

—in Herpolsheimer's new gift room—downstairs to the right! Here the problem is—not to FIND attractive gifts, but to narrow down your choice to fit your requirements. It's such an utterly pretty place in which to shop—with its lovely glassware, pottery and other art objects gleaming in the soft light of innumerable artistic lamps. There is glassware of every sort in amber, crystal, blue and rose—much of it of renowned Fostoria make. Clever wall vases of pottery add their bright touches of color to the showing, and are priced remarkably low at $1.50. There is a veritable garden of decorative flowers at Herpolsheimer's—so realistic that they defy the closest inspection. Would you give a cretonne patterned waffle set? A lustre tea set? Candlesticks? Torcheres? Flower Bowls? Then shop in Herpolsheimer's Gift room — where you'll find not only large assortments of everything attractive in giftware, but also prices that will make a hit with your pocketbook!

Gray

In a group of imports, gray is prominent.

A stylist returning from abroad points to gray as the shade that will be chosen to begin the spring.

Christmas Slippers

—at Hovland-Swanson Co., are a far cry from the affairs of yesteryear, which existed only for the purpose of separating their owners from cold floors! See them, and you'll agree with Modern Eve that they're as beautiful as the most gorgeous negligee they'll be worn with. There are mules, D'Orsays, soft soled slippers and boudoirs, in satin, patent, kid, suede and brocades. Very different and new is the ostrich trimming on one striking mule. Choose them in black or any negligee shade!

—o—

As trimming for formal coats and coats for general wear, astrakhan and fox lead in chic, and both are used with luxurious profusion.

Hosiery News!

Fifth avenue knows another very new story about stockings —that they can now be made to measure. Gotham has recently opened another store that will, in addition to its regulation hosiery, sell stockings knit to order. For legs that are too slender for the regular stocking proportions or for legs that vary in the other direction, this service is well worth the extra charge. And when the stockings are especially made in this way, they can also have the drop-stitch French monogram that is the final individual touch.—Vogue.

Phoenix Hose

—make wonderful Christmas gifts, for no woman ever has too many pairs, and every woman hails the nationally known Phoenix brand with particular delight! Choose them at Hovland Swanson Co! There are smart novelty patterns in woolen hose for sports wear; the popular shades in stockings for daytime wear, including blue fox, evening glow, French nude and grain. Phoenix hose in jade, orchid, silver and gold will appeal to dancing feet. In wool, chiffon or service weight silk—priced from $1.00 to $1.95.

Give Him Neckwear

—from Magee's! A woman can't possibly go wrong in making a choice here, for every tie and every muffler seems more attractive than the last one you looked at! Mufflers often times are smartly square; and of beautiful silks in printed, block plaid and checked patterns. Others are good looking oblongs of Mallison's pussy willow. Handsome knitted mufflers are of silk or rayon. They vary in price from $3 to fine imported Swiss mufflers at $12. Interesting as well as handsome are the Resilio ties at Magee's—showing many historical designs in the heavy non-wrinkable silks of which they are made. There are old Persian patterns, artistic conceptions from the Cathedral at Rheims, designs inspired by 16th century Spanish brocatelles, etc. If you're seeking exclusive man-gifts, here they are!

The Fight In the Temple

—the mad leap into the Mediterranean, the moonlight awakening of a master love—don't miss them at the Orpheum this next week in "The Blonde Saint."—a saint with tantalizing lips and a Paris figure! Lewis Stone and Doris Kenyon are its co-stars. You'll also enjoy a top-liner vaudeville act: Bralle and Pallo, the famous French dancers and their Jugoslav Royal Orchestra. Other vaudeville; the excellent Orpheum jazz orchestra; a big evening of entertainment!

—o—

The Peacock Shop

—is one of the most fascinating places we know to choose Christmas slippers—if you dare to call such smart negligee footwear by such an ordinary name! Certain smart mules will probably kick at such an appelation! They're of vari-colored satins or of black satin or patent lined in color. From Daniel Green!

—o—

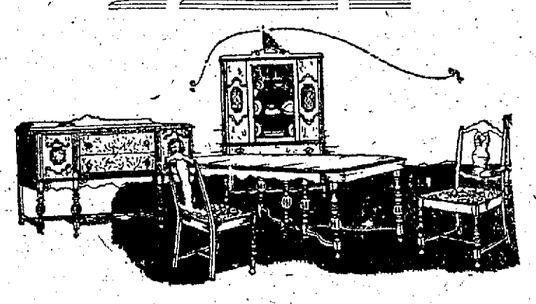

The hat with a brim turned up in the back has had its day and ceased to be. Brims now are turned down, cut off, or they do not exist at all.

—o—

When You Give Furs

—you've one eye to the practical —one eye to the luxurious side of Christmas giving. When you choose at Cadwallader's, you've both eyes on economy, for tis here that you may buy quality fur coats at prices lower than you'd expect to pay. Investigate —at 1010 Q street.

The Economy of All Walnut Furniture

—is convincingly demonstrated at Shurtleff's Quality Furniture Home, 633 South 17th. Here, wise shoppers may choose dining room suites that are all-walnut from the floor up—at prices usually asked for "combination" walnut. Indeed, so well does Modern Eve think of the values offered at Shurtleff's that she spent some of her own hard-earned dollars there acquiring a beautiful dining room suite. It's a big satisfaction to pay about a hundred dollars less than you expected to, and still get furniture that is high grade in every respect! You'll enjoy shopping for dining room furniture at Shurtleff's—not only because of the price tickets, but also because of the extensive variety of good merchandise on their show floors. Pay them a visit and you'll understand why Shurtleff's have sold their third car of Rockford all-walnut dining room furniture since August 15th! Moreover as a special mark of appreciation for their wonderful patronage, Shurtleff's are going to give from 10 to 20% off on everything in their stocks from now until Christmas. Considering their already low prices, this offer is doubly significant. At 633 S. 17th. "Entirely away from down-town high rents."

A Bower of 'Kerchiefs

—greets the Christmas shopper as she enters Herpolsheimer's store! Here, hanging in mid air, and attractively displayed on Christmas counters, are gifts for everyone on your list. Give a man a "handkerchief shirt." He'll be as pleased with the novelty of it, as he will with the four smartly bordered hankies themselves—arranged in a gift box to resemble a man's shirt. Exquisite novelties in silk are waiting at Herpolsheimer's to please fastidious femininity on Christmas morning. Many of them are handpainted; others are printed in stunning disigns or edged with exquisite good lace. And for those on your list who are lovers of fine linen handkerchiefs, there are some beautiful ones at Herpolsheimer's—made with hand drawn threads and the finest of hand embroidery. Kiddies will love the boxed sets, wherein each 'kerchief flaunts a juvenile decoration in one corner. So come to Herpolsheimer's handkerchief booth, if you would settle many a gift problem, quickly and with satisfaction.

When Is Xmas Candy

—more than a gift of sweets? When it is one of the special Christmas packages from Walter Johnson's Sugar Bowl! Here are boxes with tops containing beautifully framed pictures of well-known subjects, or framed mottoes. The contents are high-grade McDonald's chocolates. Order yours before Dec. 10th, for Christmas delivery.

—o—

"Zip-on" Leggings

—are as smart in appearance as they are comfortable for juvenile wearers. Mothers will hail them with delight as they are on and off in a jiffy, as there are zipper fastenings instead of buttons. Buy them at Wells and Frost in all colors and sizes. Of brown, navy or camel moleskin in sizes 2 to 6, they are $2.95. Brighter colors come in jersey and corduroy. Fine Christmas gifts, these leggings, for the youngsters!

—o—

The Low Cost

—of Christmas slippers is impressively evident in the Shoe section at Ben Simon & Sons! Here one may buy smart satin mules at $3.85; satin quilted slippers at $1.00; and good looking felt slippers for 65c. Obtainable in all negligee and bath robe shades, as well as black. Rhinestones buckles are $1.00 to $5.00 a pair.

Gifts For Boys

—are almost as much of a problem as gifts for men, and may be solved just as satisfactorily at Ben Simon & Sons! Here, in the Boy's Shop on the second floor, are more practical things to delight boys than you'd think could be assembled under one roof. The immensity of the stocks make choosing easy and satisfying. There are the newest and most popular styles in neckties, mufflers, gloves, caps, waists, shirts, sweaters, initialed belts, boxed sets, and other items of boy attire. Every item will be boxed attractively for Christmas giving. If you are unable to make selections personally for the boys on your list, Modern Eve will be pleased to do it for you. Phone me or write me! And for every youngster who comes to the Boys Shop at Ben Simon & Sons, accompanied by his mother, there is a minfature Santa Claus waiting—filled with good candy!

If the Gods Didn't

—give your mother or sister beautiful wavy hair, you CAN —this Christmas! Simply make arrangements with the Giffen Beaute Shoppe, and the fortunate feminine name on your Christmas list will be booked for a permanent wave at any time she might designate. Surely, no gift could be more appreciated—for its a gift of increased beauty—than which there is nothing more acceptible to woman kind! You're giving something besides a mere permanent when you give one from Giffen's. You're giving a promise of complete satisfaction—backed up by the years of experience, the skilled staff, and the utter reliability of the Giffen Shoppe. It's worth a lot to know that you are in the hands of experts. It's worth a lot to know that you are thoroughly protected in this reliable shop against any and all mishaps. So make your arrangements to give a Giffen Nestle Circuline wave at Christmas. The recipient will more than thank you for her natural, softly waved hair! B3273. 1340 M street.

Individual Lip Rouge

A true novelty in lip rouge is a small package deceivingly like a flat paper case of matches. The similarity is well carried out, for inside the case are a score of little "match sticks," each tipped with a creamy rouge. These "allumettes" are each to be used once and then discarded. In "cherry-ripe" or raspberry, they cost 25 cents a package.

—o—

Boxed Toilet Sets

—are awaiting seekers of beautiful Christmas gifts at Gold & Co! Every year, these fittings for feminine dressing tables are lovelier. Of exquisite ivory ware on amber, they are often trimmed with gold line decoration, or perhaps with a bit of black or color. Prices are surprisingly less than last year! One may buy a three piece set for only $9.95, or a seevnteen piece set for $24.95. Or should you wish to buy but a piece or two, choose from an open stock pattern, and then additions may be made at any later time. All toiletware will be beautifully boxed for giving, at Gold's!

Give a Permanent For Christmas!

What a difference it makes when your hair is waved by Mr. Black by the Le Mur method. Christmas price, $7.50. The Modern Shop, L 4023, 1122-24 N street.

—o—

Something He Wouldn't Buy For Himself

—makes, after all, the very nicest gift for the cherished "him" on your Christmas list! Such a gift is one of the handsome dressing gowns now on display at Ben Simon & Sons. You may chose from a host of different colorings and patterns—developed in velvet, moire, brocaded silks, Matelesse, imported grenadines and silk poplin. Some of them are double breasted; others are made in the new kimono style, with wide girdles and wider-flowing sleeves. Priced from $9.50 to $50.00. Blanket-robes, which also afford a wealth of service and good looks, are also at Ben Simon & Sons in a gratifying variety. They're of French flannel, English wools, two-faced fabrics, corduroy, blanket cloth and Terry—often trimmed in satin. Priced from $5.00 to $15.00. A man will also receive with great acclaim upon Christmas morning—a handsome housecoat. As usual, Ben Simon & Sons, step forward with a wonderful selection of them—offering smartly tailored garments in satin, corduroy, and broadcloth.

MINERVA'S MAIL

"The time is come that judgement must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God? And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and sinner appear?" (1st. Peter 4.17-18.)

I wondered as I saw those Sunday night revellers how many were there who had their names on the membership roll of some church? And I wondered how many were there with the full knowledge and consent of their parents. I wondered if somewhere there were not some parents sitting peacefully at home in the belief that their young folks had gone to church

Sibyl, I have been noticing for the past ten years that the majority of people who are found quoting "Judge not, that ye be not judged" invariably pass by two other thought—provoking texts in absolute silence I wonder why? Those passages were written by the apostle Paul and were addressed to the church of God at Corinth and "to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord" "Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world? And if the world shall be judged by you are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters? Know ye not that we shall judge angels? How much more things that pertain to this life?" (1st Cor 6 2-3) I think would be edifying if "Billy" or "Old Sincerity" or "Fundamentalist" would tell us just what that passage means

I have a sense of humor that oftentimes helps to smooth difficulties out of my pathway through my ability to see the funny side of things, and again that same sense of humor sometimes gets me into trouble, as it did when I quoted Artemus Ward about the bachelor and the pollywog's tail I laughed as I wrote that quotation, and supposed that it would stir up the bachelors just as much as if I were tossing a hornet's nest among them And just look how excited all the bachelor got over that one little paragraph, and think of all the reams of white paper they mussed up, trying to prove that the bachelors were "the salt of the earth," and "angels unawares," and "sugar and spice and all things nice" If they had waited long enough to digest that paragraph they might have known it wasn't intended to be a wholesome toast to all bachelors, but just a special little bouquet handed to the particular bachelors that infest the Mail with their war propaganda and "personal liberty" arguments Having a modicum of conscience we all know that all bachelors do not belong in that class,—that there are some who are truly noble fellows and incomparable creatures, indeed,—just as certainly as we know that some married men are saints, while others are just plain grouches So here's an appreciation of the bachelors,—the good ones, whose virtues betray their godness without any parade or brass trumpets One of them died in Omaha the other day and having loved children in this world, I have not the slightest doubt that he will be given a royal reception and a welcome to that city wherein the little ones do always behold the face of the Heavenly Father.

When I read your letter, Sibyl, that wicked sense of humor within me that won't always behave with decorum and pious dignity again flashed into existence with its satirical prompting, and I am thoroughly convinced that when you read the following nonsensical satire,—a "sugar plum" that ripened on the jingle tree,—and for which you helped to furnish the inspiration,—you will quite change your mind about my possessing "the power to work wonders" underneath my "heavy, rusty crust" I'm perfectly human, Sibyl,—not as good as my friends imagine me, and not as hateful as my enemies imagine me,—but maybe an utterly hopeless case like Johnny when he made the following decision:

I've made my life decision, maw, for all that I can find
Convinces me it pays to sin,—laws weren't meant to mind,
God said some "dont's" long, long ago,—"don't lie, don't steal, don't kill,"—
But "don't" is goin' out of style, and murder gives a thrill
We're told that all them "Thou shalt not's" God said so long ago
Will only make men sin the more! How little God must know!
I ain't a goin' to church no more, I ain't a goin' to pray,
I'm goin' to be a sinner, maw, cause righteousness don't pay.

I'm goin' to dance, an' swear, and drink, I'll be a second Darrow,
I'm goin' to be an Ingersoll, his eloquence I'll borrow
If I can be a Tom Paine, maw, and be as great as he
The hull, blamed world will just delight to love and honor me
The bird that leaves his wifey for a pretty little vamp
Gets all the adulation and the jolly glad-hand clamp;
Its only vamps and infidels the public loves today,
I'm goin' to be a sinner, maw, cause righteousness don't pay.

The only kind of preachin' that I'm ever goin' to do
Is the kind done by the Roger chap who's always in a stew
Cause he wants God's benediction on the folks that drink and smoke,
An' he'd send them old reformers to some lonely isle to croak
That Roger chap loves music,—the kind that smotes the ear
When the wife of some old boozer is carried to her bier,
I'm goin' to start a preachin' on girls' rights to smoke today,
I'm goin' to be a sinner, maw, cause righteousness don't pay

Ardent.

Questions in Brief.

Mary: Have your physician remove the wart for you It is not wise to try to remove it yourself.

Electrolysis is the only method to remove the unsightly hairs permanently, but it is a tedious task to remove the hairs from the eyebrows. Tweezing them as they grow in is the alternative.

Marion: Dancing is a good exercise to keep your muscles supple and flexible. Keep it up With sufficient sleep, plenty of fresh air and healthy outdoor sports you should soon build up a strong youthful figure.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

"The Auctioneer" was presented in Seward Friday evening by the University Players with the same cast which played in the recent production here The players presented three shows in Seward under the auspices of the American Legion last year, and expect to take as many productions there this year under the same sponsorship.

Miss Frances McChesney, '26 Omaha, will take the leading role in "The Swan," by Franz Molnar, while the University Players will present December 9, 10 and 11

Unique stage settings, employing draperies exclusively, are being designed by Dwight Kirsch, instructor in the School of Fine Arts.

The annual reception of the faculty of the University of Nebraska college of medicine for the freshman medical students will be held Wednesday evening at the Omaha University club This serves as an introduction of the faculty to the freshman students. The student activities committee, which includes Dr. C. W. Pollard, chairman, Dr. George B. Potter and Dr. H. B. Lemere, is in charge of the program.

Dr. Henry L Southwick, president of the Emerson College of Oratory in Boston, will read the play "King Herod" at the Temple theater the evening of December 15. Dr. Southwick is coming to Lincoln under the auspices of the University Players

Prof. A. A. Luebs of the department of mechanical engineering left Friday for New York City where he will represent the Nebraska section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the annual meeting of that society and associated organizations, December 6 to 9. Professor Luebs is especially interested in the meetings of the special section on fuels A number of prominent foreign engineers will attend the meetingse Professor Luebs will return to Lincoln about December 13.

Prof. H. E. Bradford, chairman of the department of vocational education, attended the national meeting of the American Vocational association in Louisville, Ky., last week. He will return late this week.

JUDGE ANDREW M. MORRISSEY
CHIEF JUSTICE SUPREME COURT

JUDGE CHARLES A. GOSS
RINEHART & MARSDEN

BY LULU MAE COE.

When President Franklin A. Pierce signed the Kansas-Nebraska bill on May 30, 1854, he created a new territory and provided for the judicial system of the territorial Nebraska in section nine of the bill. Within a few months the first territorial court, composed of a chief justice, and two associate justices, was organized.

The territory was divided into thred judicial districts, and each district was presided over by one of the Supreme court judges, who lived in the district. The constitutions of 1866, the first state constitution, and of 1875 also provided for three judges, elected for six year terms. For the first nine years of Nebraska's statehood, the Supreme court justices acted as trial judges in the District court, but the 1875 constitution, which served the state for nearly half a century, provided for the formation of District courts.

Court Enlarged.

Prior to 1908, the law provided that the judge having the shortest term should be chief justice, so that in time all the members of the court served in that capacity. Under that system, the judges could serve one to three or more times as presiding officer.

By a constitutional amendment adopted in November of that year, the court was increased to seven members, constituting a chief justice at the same time. The voters continued to elect the associate justices from the state at large on a political ticket until 1914. Since that time all the members of the court have been chosen on a non partisan ticket.

The constitution of 1920 provided for the election of the six associate judges by the electors of the six congressional districts, leaving only the chief justice to be elected at large. In that fashion, the chief justice is elected at one election, associate judges from the second, fourth and sixth districts two years later, and from the first, third and fifth districts four years after the choice of the chief justice.

Noted Men Serve.

Owing to the changes necessary to meet the demands of progress, Nebraska's highest tribunal is a larger body today than it was that May day seventy-two years ago when the territorial court was created and its organization has become more complex. During the years of its service, however, many men of marked legal attainments and of recognized influence in their own profession and in the state's affairs have been on the Supreme bench.

Fenner Ferguson came from Albion, Mich., as Nebraska's first territorial chief justice, he having been appointed to the position in the territory's Supreme court by President Pierce. T. B. Cuming, the first secretary of state, took his oath of office before a member of the U. S. Supreme court, and he administered the oath to the first chief justice of the territory. He, in turn, administered the oath of office to the other territorial officers, including Francis Burt, two days before his death.

After three years of service as chief justice he resigned, having been elected to congress from Nebraska. He returned from Washington in the fall of 1859, and was stricken with the illness which caused his death in October.

Kellogg Appointed.

Upon the retirement of Judge Ferguson, President Buchanan appointed Augustus Hall to the bench. He served until his death in 1861. He was succeeded by William Pitt Kellogg.

The last of the territorial chief justices was William Kellogg, uncle of William Pitt Kellogg. President Johnson appointed him chief justice in April, 1865, and he served until 1867.

The state's first chief justice, William A. Little, was not permitted to enjoy his honor. He came to Omaha from Illinois late in 1856 and began the practice of law becoming a prominent member of the bar. In 1867, he was nominated at the democratic state convention for chief justice and was the only man elected on the democratic ticket. Owing to ill health he returned to Illinois immediately after election, and died at Clinton in May, 1867, before having qualified for the office.

O. P. Mason Named.

Governor Butler appointed Oliver P. Mason of Nebraska City, a vigorous and fearless lawyer, to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Little's death. Judge Mason was the first chief justice, and served on the bench for six years. He was a vigorous and fearless man in politics and the law, who was one of the state's prominent pioneers. After retiring from the court, he became senior partner of the law firm of Mason and Whedon, and continued the law practice until his death.

George B. Lake, an early Omaha attorney who came to the state in 1857, was one of the able judges of the first court. According to Harry C. Lindsay, clerk of the Supreme court, Judge Lake's opinions are respected today for their discernment and perception. He served twice as chief justice between 1867 and 1884, and was twice re-elected to the tribunal. He declined renomination in 1883, and returned to Omaha to engage in private practice.

Cobb Fills Vacancy.

After serving as a member of the territorial legislatures, Daniel Gantt became a member of the Supreme Court in 1875. He served only a few months as chief justice, his death occurring in May, 1878. Mr. Lindsay has found that Amasa Cobb was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Gantt's death, but that Samuel Maxwell became chief justice, because he had the shortest time to serve.

Judge Maxwell was elected to the Supreme court in 1872 and reelected to the position under the new constitution in 1875, when he drew the six year term. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875. In all, he served twenty-one years, the longest term enjoyed by any member of the Supreme court. He served as chief justice from 1878-1882, from 1886-1888, and from 1892-1894. Judge Maxwell wrote many articles on legal procedure, both criminal and civil. He was later elected to congress, and died shortly after completing his term.

Judge Cobb, who succeeded Judge Gantt on the bench, was on the supreme bench for fourteen years. He was a veteran of the Mexican and the Civil wars. Before coming to Nebraska he had been a member of congress. The First National bank of Lincoln is a successor to a bank founded by Judge Cobb, and of which he was president.

Reese As Chief.

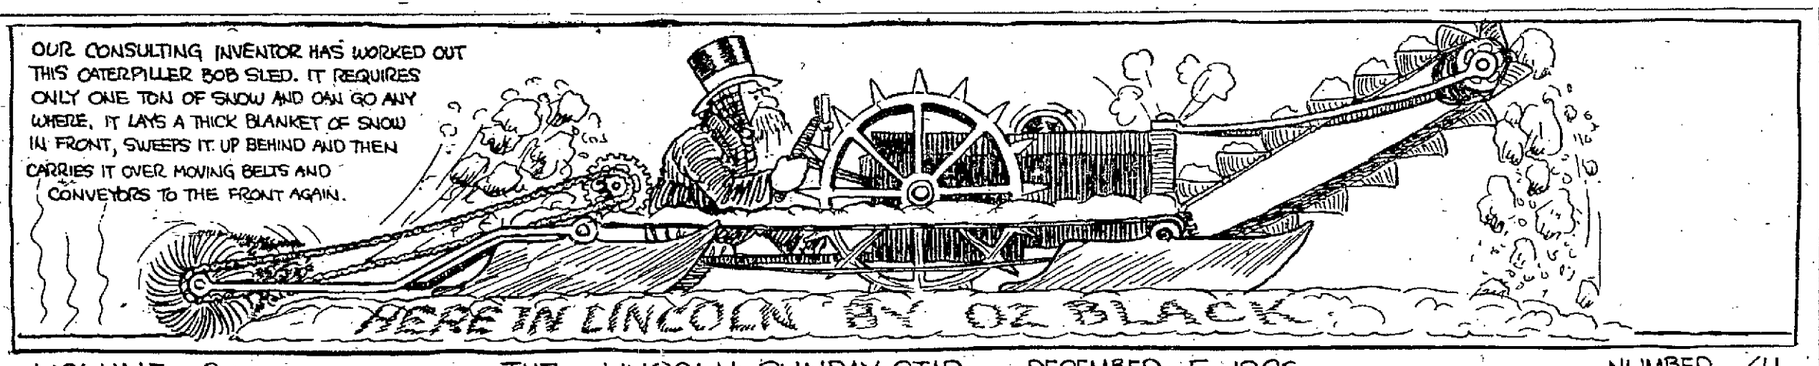

Judge Lake was succeeded by Judge Manoah B. Reese of Wahoo, who served as chief justice from 1888 to 1890, and again from 1908 to 1915. He was the first chief justice to serve after the rotation system was abolished. Before ascending to the highest court, Judge Reese had served as district judge and had been a member of the 1875 constitutional convention. He returned to the practice of law in Lincoln after leaving the bench, and continued in the work until his death about ten years ago.

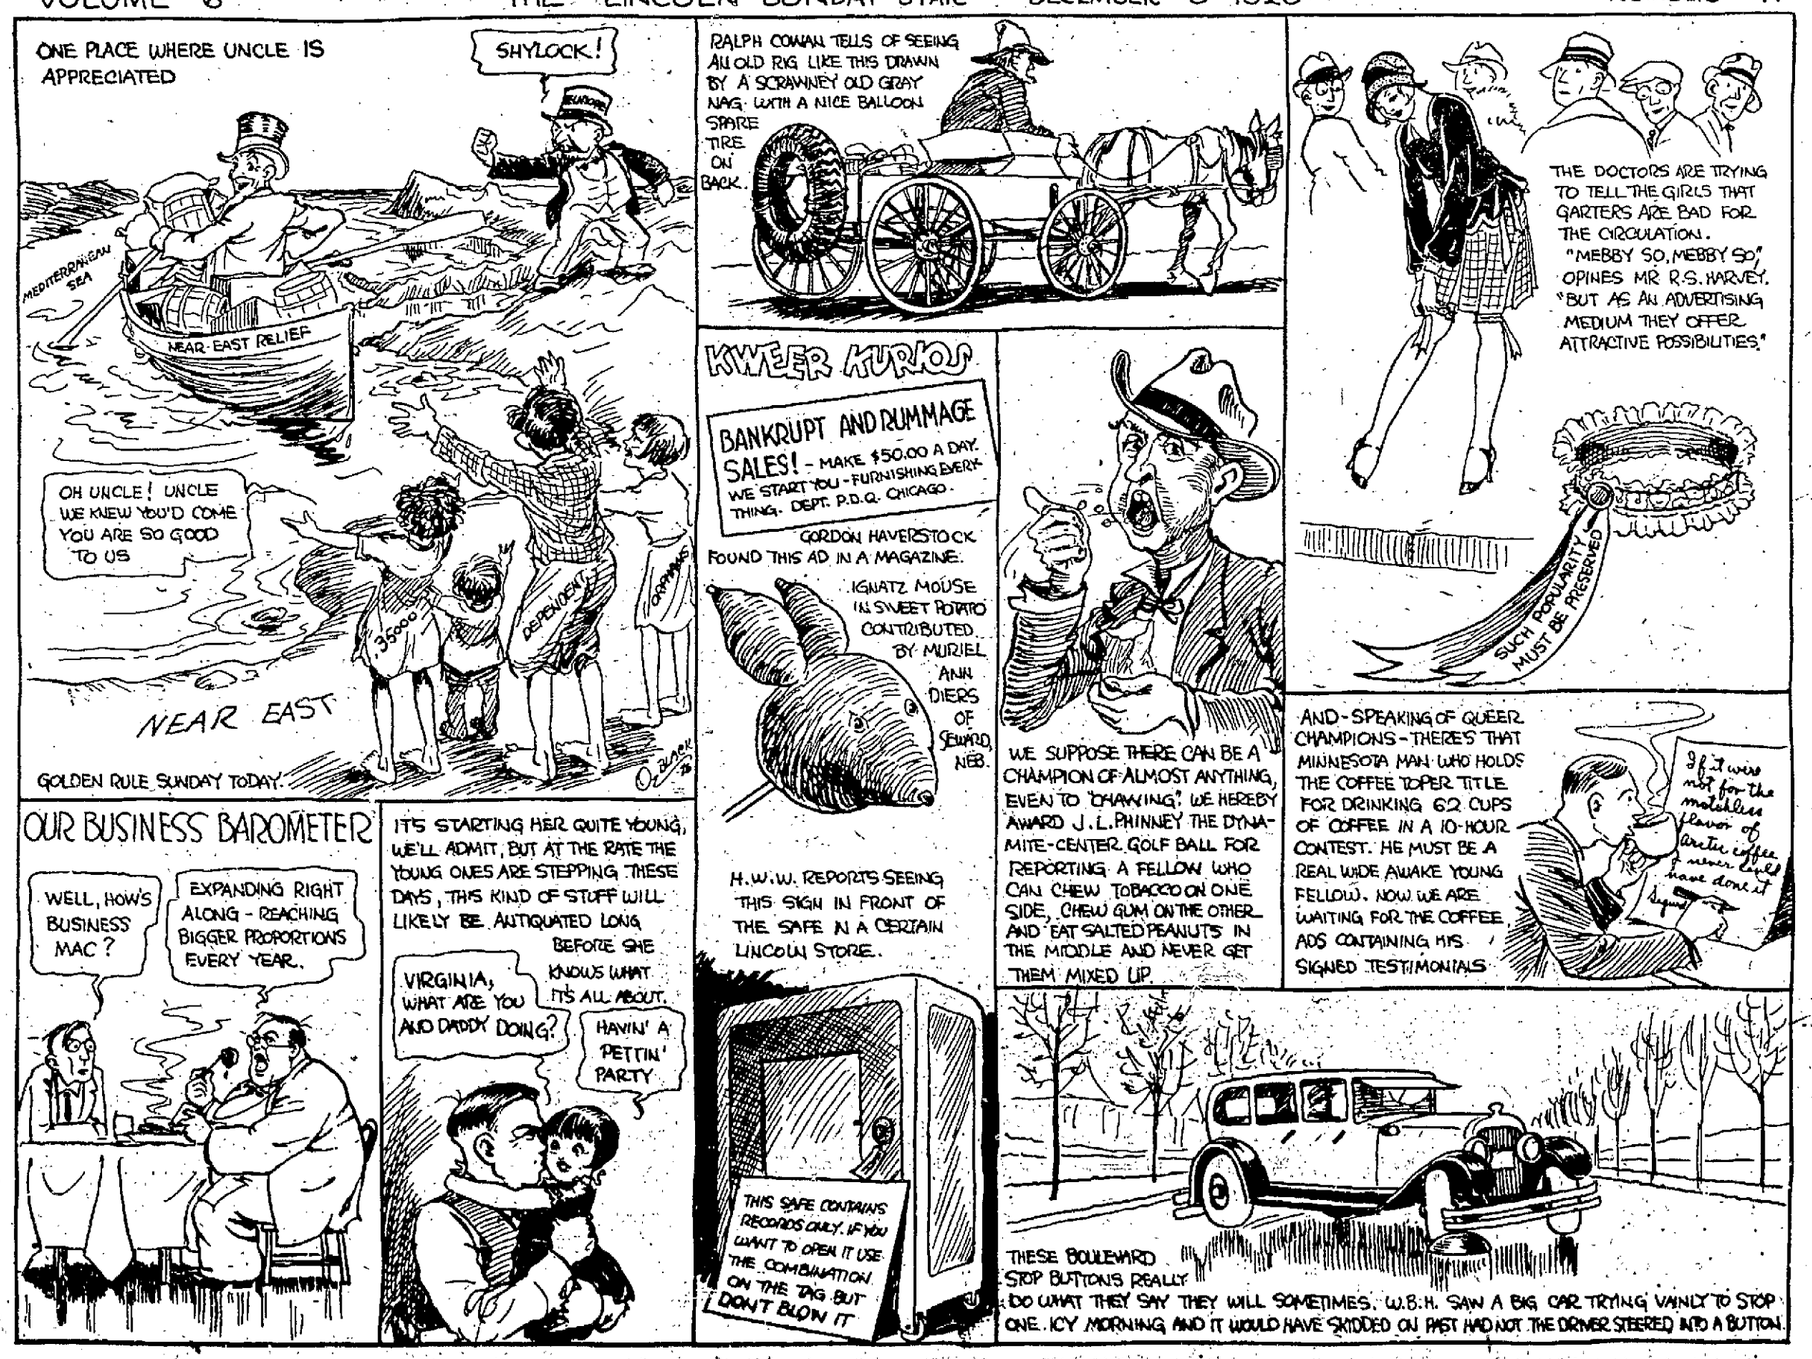

He was followed by Judge T. L. Norval of Seward, who served two terms as chief justice. Judge Norval came to Seward in 1872, after having visited Nebraska in 1869 and determining to make it his home. He returned to the University of Michigan, where he received his degree in 1871. After teaching a year, he came west to Seward. He was appointed on the district bench in 1883 and re-elected two times. In 1889 he was elected to the Supreme court and re-elected in 1895.

Sedgwick's Service.

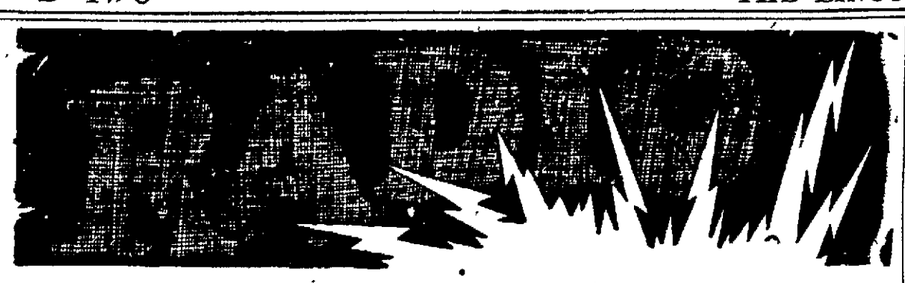

The successor of Judge Norval was Judge Samuel H. Sedgwick of

TRY ELIMINATION OF INTERFERENCE

Radio Club Has Investigator Working At Problem.

Special Tests Of City Power Sources Planned Sunday.

The Lincoln Radio club is now attempting to locate and eliminate radio intereference difficu'.es in Lincoln and vicinity. Phil Bartholomew has been engaged as detecting technician and has complete charge of the detecting equipment owned by the club. Mr. Bartholomew reports that the numerous complaints engage his attention during the major portion of every twenty-four hour period.

As a result of the work being performed by the club, it has been discovered that one major disturbance seems to be prevalent throughout the city. This disturbance is being thoroughly spread over certain main light, power and communication lines, and to date has foiled every attempt made to locate its source of origin. During the past week the trouble has been particularly aggravating.

The majority of radio receiver owners report the interference as a buzzing sound accompanied by intermittent crashes of static characteristic. The disturbance can be located at almost any setting of the receiver dials where a station is received, but is very intense at a point of approximately 240 meters adjacent to the point of reception of WBBM and WOK and can be tuned in after the fashion of a carrier wave. This disturbance seems to appear at about noon each day and continues to well past midnight.

The various public service companies within the city have shown every desire to co-operate with the club in locating and eliminating any interference traceable to their facilities and are engaging their own employees and detecting devices in the task of tracing various sources of radio interference.

A test of considerable importance to the radio users of this vicinity is contemplated for Sunday, December 5, at 1:30 p. m. Certain power sources within the city will be completely cut off for a period of ten minutes, provided the day is clear. Every radio user in the city is requested to test his set at that time in order to note whether radio interference noises are lessened during the time the certain power sources referred to are silent. Should the day be rainy or dark the test will of necessity be postponed. The Lincoln Radio club will appreciate advice from all persons making the test as to the results noted. Any advice should be addressed to the Lincoln Radio club, Lincoln, Neb

The club suggests that particular attention be paid at the time of the test mentioned to the disturbance prevalent on the lower wave lengths.

Should the Sunday test fail to eliminate the radio difficulties, further tests will be announced and made from time to time.

The club is now engaged in an effort to increase its membership in order that it may carry on the work which it has started The club will need at least 1,000 members in order to successfully continue its work

During the past week the club has located and reported a great many sources of radio trouble in behalf of its members and has received the heartfelt thanks of the radio public where these evils have been corrected.

The regular meeting of the club will be held Monday evening, December 6, at 7:30 at the Lincoln Elks club. As a part of the program for the meeting, various types of radio disturbances will be exemplified and discussed. The members will also be privileged to present any and all bothersome radio problems for discussion Other things of interest to the members will also be conisdered.

As an illustration of the interest now being taken in radio problems by Lincoln radio users, it appears that even the city "fathers" are taking cognizance of the vast number of local radio users and their increasing complaints relative to radio interference, and as a result Commissioner Schroeder announced this week that his department intends to immediately purchase a device adequate for the purpose of locating any radio interference attributed to city power sources. Such interference constitutes a potential source of loss to the city current through leakage.

Conducts Woman's Club Over Radio

Conducting a woman's club of 27,000 members over the radio sounds a bit peculiar, but such is the occupation of Vella Glasman, formerly of Lincoln

Miss Glasman, who is known as Jean Sargent on the air, has charge of the WNAC Woman's club, and each day puts on a program of fashion talks, cooking information, etc. She also is a contralto soloist and is in the WNAC Players

Her work with the woman's club is gaining wide attention and thousands of women watch each day for the programs. The Federation of Woman's Clubs of Massachusetts is co-operating in the work, and officers of the organization often speak over WNAC for the club program.

The woman's club is distinctive and Miss Glasman is given the credit for putting it over. She is widely known throughout the east and has many women callers who come merely to see the owner of "that wonderful voice"

Buick Station Celebrates Its Second Anniversary

In celebration of its second anniversary the Nebraska Buick station, KFAB, broadcast a very unique program Saturday evening, consisting of seventy-five artists.

In contrast with the first anniversary, the Nebraska Buick station celebrated its second year on the air with the most popular entertainers of its staff.

There were no prizes given away, but instead the station prepared a beautiful folder, which is being mailed to the listeners who responded. The folder was small in design, with twelve pages filled with views of the station, the studio, its entertainers and power plant.

Starting with a small fifty-watt station two years ago, the local Buick company, in February, 1925, raised its power to 500 watts and, as an outgrowth of the Lincoln station, built a new power plant at the edge of the city. At the present time the company has $100,000 invested in its new plant.

In commenting on the second year broadcasting, Mr. H. E Sidles, president, and general manager said: "Our present position in the radio broadcasting field is indeed a contrast to two years ago Broadcasting stations throughout the country have improved almost over night. The purpose of the installation of KFAB was to make better known the community in which we operate, to add to the fame of Lincoln as one of the great centers of the central west."

COTNER NOTES.

Vernon Cooper, professor of history, gave a review of American diplomatic relations at chapel Tuesday.

Mrs. E. L Marty, director of the Near East relief for Lincoln, spoke at a community meeting Monday evening under the auspices of the Y. M C. A. and Y. W. C A.

Kenneth E. Case, '28, Seattle, Wash., one of the official student delegates to the first Disciples' Youth convention at Memphis, Tenn., Nov 11-14, was appointed a member of the findings committee on the "Indigenous Church"

SINGER, PIANIST WILL BROADCAST

Mabel Garrison and Ernst von Dohnanyi On Atwater Kent Program.

Mabel Garrison, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, and Ernst von Dohnanyi, Hungarian pianist composer, will share honors in the Atwater Kent radio concert broadcast over fifteen stations, December 5.

Miss Garrison, a native of Baltimore, studied piano at the Peabody Conservatory of Music there, later changing to develop her remarkable voice. Her career started in a church choir, and during her eight years with the Metropolitan Opera she advanced steadily until she is now considered America's foremost coloratura soprano.

Dohnanyi was born in Pozsony, Hungary, in 1877. His father was a professor of mathematics, who played the cello and other instruments. When the son showed a preference for the piano, the father learned to play the instrument that he might teach his son. The father was succeeded by the organist of Pozsony Cathedral. Dohnanyi later studied at Budapest, winning the famous Franz Liszt scholarship Here he won the admiration of the great conductor, Hans Richter, who took him to Vienna and later to London. His first concerts in America were in 1898-9, when he was barely 20 years old.

The program for the joint radio concert by these two artists, beginning at 9:15, eastern time, Sunday, December 5, follows.

Head Of Radio Concern Makes Lincoln Visit

"A radio receiver must be adapted to the exact conditions in a given territory to the geographical situation, the distance between stations and to the requirements of the people," declared J. B. Ferguson, president of J. B. Ferguson, Inc., large New York manufacturers of radio equipment.

Mr. Ferguson is making a tour of middle western states sponsoring experimental tests in various towns with a view to improving radio reception and adapting receivers to local conditions. He arrived in Lincoln Saturday and remained here until Tuesday afternoon.

While in Lincoln Mr. Ferguson conducted tests at the Chapin Electric Co., and other places. His experiments centered around a ten tube, indoor loop operated set which is not yet on the market. He was able to tune in on thirty-one stations with this set by one turn of the tuning dial, he says. In the same manner he secured twenty-six stations, on a six tube set by moving nothing but the tuning dial.

Radio Digest

Points on Selecting Tube Sockets.

Tube sockets should be made of the best of insulation materials and the springs should be so constructed and of such material that proper contact will be maintained at all times with the tube prongs.

Keep The Work Bench Clean.

When finishing one job of wiring or assembling a receiver, take time to thoroughly clean up the work bench and, if necessary, the work room too, before starting another job. It will be surprising what a help this will be.

Check the Lightning Arrester.

Every so often, disconnect the lightning arrester and operate the receiver on the aerial without the lightning arrester attached thereto. If the set works better, there is something wrong with the arrester or the manner in which it is installed.

A Cleaner for Dirty Panels.

Dirty or greasy panels can be cleaned by rubbing lightly over the surface with a soft cloth dampened with alcohol This will remove the dirt, then dry the panels with another cloth The alcohol will evaporate quickly without damaging the set in any way, and will leave a high polish Never use water when cleaning panels or any part of the receiver

Aerial Supports.

The halyards used to support the aerial should not be made of rope because this material shrinks when wet and puts a great strain on the aerial wires or supports, sometimes enough to break either of them. If the halyards are adjusted so they will not put a strain on the supports when they shrink, they will be too slack in dry weather and allow the aerial to wobble.

Glass Insulators Best For Winter.

Use glass insulators to protect the aerial of the set against snow and sleet during the winter. Glass is impervious to water and other weathering conditions, and it is this quality which gives it value on ship radio installations. The use of glass as insulation reduces the leakage of radio energy, whereas other insulating materials might weaken under the effects of snow, sleet and continuous rains.

"B" Batteries.

There are four types of "B" batteries, small, medium, large and extra duty. The extra duty batteries are designed for sets having five or more tubes. The large size of "B" batteries will do for three or four-tube sets and are generally used on the five-tube sets. The medium sized battery should be used on one, two and three-tube sets, and compact one-tube sets

Battery Logic.

Never connect an old and a new dry cell battery in parallel; this will harm the new one and will do the old one no good. But little if any harm results from connecting an old and a new cell in series. In a parallel connection. "Positive" is connected to positive, and "negative" to negative. In a series connection, negative is connected to positive and the other negative and positive terminals are connected to the set.

Useful Wiring Hint.

In wiring a receiver, remember that, with very few exceptions, all screws and binding posts are threaded with a right-hand thread. That is, nuts and burs are tightened with a clock-wise rotation. Therefore, in making a loop in the end of a wire which is to be placed on a binding post or screw, bend the loop in a clock-wise direction so that, when the nut or bur is tightened, the wire will not be twisted out from under the nut.

For The Notebook.

A loop aerial has both ends connected to the set

Most loud speakers will not handle great volume.

Single circuit sets bring in stations just as loud as selective sets

Howling in a set may be due to over regeneration, filaments too bright, or parts too crowded.

November, December, January, February and March are the best months for getting distant stations

The only necessary tools to have in a radio kit are a screw driver and a pair of pliers The screw driver should be one with a long blade that will easily reach among the various parts. The pliers should be long-nose ones that can reach down among the socket terminals.

Radiograms.

A first-class broadcasting station takes in $2,500,000 a year for advertising, often $10,000 in one night.

Because of the temperament of its residents, New England is regarded as the most solid listening-in territory of the United States.

The city of Baltimore, Md., appropriated a special fund for the purpose of allowing the Municipal Band to broadcast a series of winter concerts from WBAL.

Thirty thousand blind in England are to be granted free licenses to listen-in over their radio sets. The annual license tax is $2.50 to owners of receiving sets.

Radio broadcasting congestion is increasing since the Government lost its power of supervision July 1. Sixty-three new stations have opened and 62 old broadcasters have changed their assigned wave lengths. Forty new stations are under construction. Forty-six old stations are making arrangements to increase their power. The Chicago district has 22 new stations, New York, 11; New Orleans, 10; and Boston, 2.

Doane Notes

The November number of "Association Men," a national Y. M. C. A. magazine, has an article on Guy W. Green, '91, who is in charge of a men's Bible class in a Presbyterian church in Kansas City. This is said to be the largest men's Bible class in any Presbyterian church in the country, numbering nearly 600 men.

Carl D. Thompson, '95, of Chicago, Secretary of the Public Ownership league of America, spoke in the Doane chapel Monday morning on the moral and spiritual influences in the public ownership movement. Mr. Thompson is a chautauqua lecturer of wide reputation and has written several volumes on public utilities. He addressed the American history, economic, history and ethics classes on public utility corporations owned and controlled by municipalities. He told of the work being done in Nebraska and in other parts of the country and of the great Ontario project being worked out. He also told of the comparative cost of selling electricity in Ontario and in Chicago.

Dr. Emily F. Rorer, '20, who is a graduate of the University of Nebraska college of medicine at Omaha, is now located at the Women's Hospital in Detroit.

Gordon Heyhoe, '25, has been admitted to the Adelphi House of Representatives, a debating society at the University of Michigan where he is taking a law course. The meetings of this society are conducted in a parliamentary manner.

Mrs. A. T. Cassel spoke before the meeting of the Y. W. C A. in Gaylord Hall parlors Tuesday morning. Her subject was "The Martha Berry's School of Georgia"

Paul Taylor, '27, of Crete, and Claude Welch, '27, of Stanton, Neb. made their preliminary appearance before the examining committee of the Rhodes scholarship in Lincoln, Saturday, November 27.

Dr. Ralph Kendall Schwab, head of the departments of religion and education, delivered the address at the annual missionary rally of the Christian Endeavor society of the Evangelical church of Sutton, Neb. last Sunday evening. Dr. Schwab was born at Sutton, lived some years in that vicinity, taught the rural school and coached the Sutton high school athletic teams for two years, 1908-10.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Your satisfaction depends on the answers to these questions

ATWATER KENT RADIO is made in the world's largest radio factory—under conditions permitting extreme care in quantity production.

Behind it stands the personal responsibility of a man who for twenty-six years has insisted upon the highest quality in every product bearing his name.

Every Atwater Kent Receiver has to run the gauntlet of 159 gauge and electrical tests before the last inspector can say: "This is up to our standard."

When Atwater Kent instruments reach the final proving ground, the home, they work—and keep on working.

Here is Radio you can buy on faith—because of the way it's made. But, of course you'll want to judge for yourself. Any Atwater Kent dealer will give you the opportunity. Ask the one nearest you today.

EVERY SUNDAY EVENING—The Atwater Kent Radio Hour brings you the stars of opera and concert, in Radio's finest program. Hear it at 9 15 Eastern Time, 8 15 Central Time, through

40 and 8 Medal To Nick Peterson

Nick Peterson of 2101 O street, is to be the first recipient of the 40 and 8 society's honor medal that will now be awarded annually to and American Legion man.

With the medal goes a year's dues in the Legion Presentation of the badge will be made December 13 at the auditorium when the new officers of the local post are installedfi Herman Naiman, the newly elected chef de gare of the local society, will award it.

Five points determine presentation of the medal. They are: Service to the community, allegience to Legion principles, attendance at meetings, number of members recruited, and services as a committeeman.

Nick Peterson was foreign born, but became naturalized at the time of his entrance into army for World war service. Following his return, he immediately joined the Legion and has been a member ever since.

It was Mr. Peterson who proposed that the Legion should send out growing plants on Christmas morning to all Gold Star mothers, as well as send appropriately engraved cards on mothers' day. He has been directly responsible for bringing 30 members into the post this year. He has served on several Legion committees. His attendance has been nearly perfect and his allegience to Legion principles are considered above question.

Wesleyan Affairs

Chancellor I. B. Schreckengast and Dr. M. E. Gilbert went to Aurora last Tuesday in the interests of the university.

Prof. F. M. Gregg, head of the department of psychology, addressed the students convocation last Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Wesleyan auditorium. He showed experimental studies of nicotine, and charts explaining the effect of nicotine on circulation, the brain, the heart, in motor skill, and other effects. He gave statistics concerning the great cost of the tobacco habits, and showed the effect it has upon the morals of American manhood and womanhood.

Preliminary tests on the new equipment which has been installed in the Nebraska Wesleyan university radio station WCAJ have been favorable and a complete schedule for broadcasting is being worked out. The station will be on the air regularly each week day at 5:30 and on Wednesday evening. Prof. J. C. Jensen, head of the Physics department, superintends the radio programs.

The newly elected members of Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society, are as follows: Inez Bailey of Guide Rock, John Casteel of Randolph, Otis Cole of Shelby, Paul Copeland of Holdrege, Harvard Hull of Holstein, Gertrude Wells of Madison, and Esther Yost of Hastings. Initiation for them was held at 4.30 Thursday, afterwhich Prof. J. C. Jensen delivered a lecture, "Radio and Politics." The regular dinner was held in the Nebraska Wesleyan cafeteria. Miss Gladys Coatman and Miss Ethel Booth were in charge of the affair. The second election of the year will take place at the March meeting. Professor Claude Shirk is the president of Phi Kappa Phi.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS INCREASE.

Commissioner Duncan's perpetual critic, former Commissioner of Streets Allen P Cowgill, in a communication to this newspaper attacks the system of arterial boulevards which has been established in Lincoln.

Mr. Cowgill says his most dangerous daily task is driving across these streets where one speeder follows another at such a rate it is not safe to cross over. Streets were safer before stop buttons were installed, he concludes.

There have been an increasing number of accidents in Lincoln in recent weeks, some of them terminating fatally. As has been pointed out on a number of occasions, this is the season of year when automobile driving is most dangerous. The open car is enclosed with side curtains and no matter how careful the driver may be, his view of the approaching traffic is cut off to a certain extent. The streets for a portion of the time have been and will be icy and slippery. People are inclined to drive more rapidly when it is cold and unpleasant out of doors than when the weather is mellow and inviting. It is not surprising there have been more accidents recently—a survey of the records will show that this condition has always prevailed since the motor car came into very general use.

Mr. Cowgill is interpreting the public mind incorrectly if he believes it shares in his criticism of the stop button and arterial highway system which has been inaugurated. It has worked most satisfactorily. It has tended, until recently, to very materially reduce the number of fatalities due to automobile traffic. It has relieved congestion, and made the streets safer for both automobile driver and pedestrian. Most of the accidents which have taken place in recent weeks have no bearing on the arterial system question. Few of them occurred on arterial highways. They were due to recklessness in some instances; to unforeseen factors in others which made them unavoidable.

Mr. Duncan has re-opened the entire question of traffic regulation through his demand for more rigid law enforcement, with a suggestion that a vigilance committee be appointed to aid city police.

His suggestion will not be taken seriously insofar as it relates to delegating police powers to private citizens. The dangers of abuse are far greater than any possible good which can come from it. Any citizen today possesses all the authority which he or she needs to aid in law enforcement against speeders and reckless drivers. What the police need in their efforts to suppress traffic violations are citizens willing to file complaints and to appear and testify. To garb private individuals with authority to stop motorists and haul them into police court would be to open the door to a thousand abuses.

It may be that arterial highways have had the tendency to invite faster driving.

The vast majority of those who operate automobiles in Lincoln however, drive slowly enough to conform in a general measure to the speed regulations. Most automobile owners do not, as has been stated, flagrantly violate the ordinances against fast driving. It is a minority which does the fast driving and pays little heed to the safety of others. It is comprised of people who are irresponsible and little short of criminal in their utter disregard of the injury which they may inflict upon others.

Lincoln is not in need of any more traffic regulation. It has a system well-adapted to its needs at this time. It needs more intelligent driving. The automobile driver who holds up traffic on an arterial highway while he pokes his way across it at a speed of eight miles an hour is as great an aggravation as the man who speeds recklessly across it is a positive menace. Conditions should govern the careful, prudent driver. There are hours of the day when congestion make it advisable to proceed most cautiously and carefully. There are times when an automobilist is warranted in driving more rapidly. If people will only keep in mind the safety and welfare of others there will be greater safety on the streets.

A NEW AMBASSADOR.

A new British missionary has reached American shores to launch an appeal on behalf of the million sick and subnormal children which Britain is attempting to care for by establishing health clinics and open air camps. Miss Olga Nethersole has temporarily abandoned the stage to carry this message to the United States.

With the Near East Relief, which has taken on the color of America's private charity, and with numerous requests for aid from other countries, there is a chance Miss Nethersole's mission will meet a frosty reception.

But it is a worthy cause in which she has enlisted. There are hundreds of thousands of children born in Britain since 1914, who have come into a broken world. With the plenty which exists in America, it is difficult for us to appreciate the suffering which is the daily lot of these British children. Insufficient and improper food, lack of suitable clothing, and cold will leave its definite mark upon them and upon Britain. There is little which America can do for those who have reached the sunset of life in these sore-pressed countries abroad. But in the children—the coming generation—which will be playing its part in the world in a few more years, America has a definite interest. It would be her misfortune if they should be left to augment the already disproportionate mass of mentally and physically unfit in Europe.

WEEDS HAVE THEIR USES.

Has anything ever been placed on this earth by Divine Providence that is of no use whatever? Is there anything that breathes or grows, which has no useful purpose at all? The weeds, which clog the waste places and which are accounted by the farmer and the gardener as just about the worst pests with which they have to contend, are generally looked upon as such creations, yet Don C. Seitz refers to them as, "Nature's Wound Dressers," and says that the agriculturist is altogether wrong in harboring such an antipathy toward them.

Mr. Seitz says that whenever man or nature makes a scar on the earth's surface the vigorous, coarse-fibred weeds find out the spot and straightway mend the injury. Soil, to preserve its strength, must be protected with some sort of nature covering, otherwise the rains leach it, or wash away the precious particles of mold that make it productive. Plowed fields, after the crop is harvested, washouts and burned over lands are referred to as such scars, and the statement is made that the weeds render incalculable service by at once pre-empting such places.

It is generally admitted that any vegetation, of whatever nature, is better than no vegetation whatever. When weeds begin to grow on the previously barren spot the soil is held together against the shower; nitrogen is coaxed from the air and distributed about the roots. In the fall the leaves and stalks decay and a little top soil is created, which grows with the seasons. In time enough is thus created to afford life to finer plants and soft grasses and this is what Mr. Seitz means by dressing nature's wounds.

There is reason to believe that there is much truth in the conclusions of the writer. There can be no doubt that the sagebrush which from time immemorial grew on the western sandhills had much to do with making those vast stretches capable of producing crops when water was finally turned upon them and the same must be true of decayed vegetation of whatever character. I've all wild things, however, weeds must be kept in their proper places: they must be controlled or they will exterminate. For the purposes mentioned they are doubtless of inestimable valu, just as are certain domestic animals—the hog for instance. It is all right in its place, but that place is not a field of growing corn.

THE BUSINESS WOMAN'S BUDGET.

An organization in New York, the Association to Promote Proper Housing for Girls, has discovered after careful investigation there that it takes half of the income of the young woman in business to provide her food and pay her rent.

A questionnaire sent out to several hundred workers revealed a weekly income ranging from $12 to $68. The average was $27. The figures are significant because they indicate the average business woman in New York, after paying for her board and room, has nearly $700 a year left as available for car fare, recreation, charity, self-education, clothes and savings. Although definite figures were not obtainable, it is estimated her clothes call for an outlay of $500 a year. That leaves but little for other purposes.

The figures are enlightening in another respect.

They reveal the average business woman in New York spends $9 a week for food, in contradiction to a general belief that she starves herself in order to put clothes upon her back. As a matter of fact, her expenditures for food and those for clothes just about balance. She spends just about the same amount which the average young man and young woman in college require for food.

The figures furnish eloquent evidence of the high standard of American living in comparison to European and Asiatic countries. The young woman in business in New York City is on the average receiving more than the head of a family in Europe, with a wife and several children to support. In fact the same parallel has been drawn here at home but more recently great industrial institutions, including several of the railroads, have indicated their intention of giving the heads of families preference in the matter of employment and in compensation. At least the American girl has reason to be thankful she is an American, and that her standard of living is higher than that of any of her cousins across the water.

THE HALL-MILLS CASE ENDS.

The Hall-Mills case is no nearer solution today than it was four years ago when discovery of the bodies of the amorous clergyman and his pretty choir singer startled a nation.

The jury which heard the case brought in a verdict, finding Hall's widow and her two brothers innocent of the crime with which they were charged.

The whole proceeding has been a costly fling for the community where the murders occurred and its benefits are questionable. Those who stood back of the prosecution and insisted that Mrs. Hall and her brothers be brought to trial on the charge of murder had a powerful lever in American devotion to justice. We have prided ourselves in this country that no crime shall be committed withouting making those responsible for it answer for their lawless acts. There could be no other rule without giving rise to the most shameful abuses.

And yet there are cases, where, in the absence of definite and convincing evidence, it would have been far better for the public if nothing had been done The Hall-Mills case was one of them. The state did establish a strong circumstantial case. It is difficult to imagine, where, lacking witnesses to the actual slaying, the nearest approach to this being the testimony of the pig woman, Mrs. Gibson, it would have been possible to have made a stronger showing than Special Prosecutor Simpson made. And yet lacking positive proof, no jury could be expected to hold Mrs. Hall for a crime which she specifically denied in the face of a stinging cross-examination. Mrs. Hall and her brothers faced the fire and could not be shaken. They were entitled to acquital on the face of their own testimony.

The people in the United States will feel very much satisfied with the verdict.

They are glad that Mrs. Hall received her vindication. They are relieved that the whole filthy mess will now be permitted to become a closed chapter in the newspapers. It was a sordid, wretched story which never should have received the publicity given it in the metropolitan press of the country and by the news agencies.

ALONG THE HIGHWAYS.

A reader of this newspaper calls attention to the practice of automobile parties in littering up the highways with rubbish carelessly thrown from cars On some of the main traveled roads leading into Lincoln, she reports, picnic parties have very frequently dumped papers, tin cans, bottles and all manner of refuse. It is left there because, unlike in the city, there is no one responsible for its removal. The result is unsightly highways, which cannot but fail to unfavorably impress thousands of tourists passing through the state.

The suggestion that beauty as well as utility should be an aim of the highway system in Nebraska is a good one if the presence of thousands of tourists is of any significance to business.

Tourists in planning their itineraries generally select the most picturesque and pleasing highways. They want attractive lanscape as well as hard-surface roads. No uglier touch can be given to a highway than piles of rubbish every few hundred yards. On one road leading south from Lincoln, much frequented by picnic parties, innumerable tin cans, bottles and other refuse have been scattered along the roadside. They will remain there unless some public-spirited person takes it upon himself to see the rubbish is removed.

When Nebraska has completed the highway system projected, it will have spent not less than $50,000,000. That is a huge sum. An effort should be made to get the most for the money. That will be impossible if the people using these highways do not take the pains to keep them in the best condition possible. The state is spending too much money to attract tourist travel to have the value of the roads depreciated through the carelessness and thoughtlessness of those who should take the greatest pride in them.

One purist lady is so shocked by the motion pictures that she puts her fingers in her ears every time she gobs.

Odds And Ends And Bobtails Of The News

BY WILL ROGERS.

If Mexico don't hear from us it's because we've run out of stamps.

Well, all I know is just what I read in the papers. I am feeling mighty happy as I pen these few lines, for I have just finished an engagement on our western battle front, in Chicago the most dangerous sector we have, one where there is never a truce. Colt, Remington, and the Krupps are selling more ammunition to Chicago than they did to both sides in the war. The reason I feel so good is I had given up hope when I went in, that I would ever come out alive. But it's just one of the breaks of the game, I did. Chicago has reconciled itself to the killings now, and they don't pay any attention to them at all. It takes rather an unusual one to get into the papers at all. The Army-Navy football game was brought clear out to Chicago so the Cadets and Middy Blouses could see machine guns working in actual warfare. Hostilities among the gunmen were called off during game as the shooting would detract from the pickpockets' work.

Chicago is about to declare war with Canada over a drainage canal. Chicago had one canal and it turned out to be such a nice neat clean likable sort of a product, in fact it was more like a tippling brook than a canal, it was a joy to go and sit on its banks of a warm evening, and watch the house boats of the beer runners, and the meat packers, all beautifully decorated. So they decided they wanted another one. So they dug them a drainage canal. Well the minute they did, why all of Lake Michigan started to run out of it. Canada woke up one morning and somebody had stole their lake. They said, "We don't mind you taking all our rum, but don't you start in taking away ont of our lakes. You are flirting with one of our biggest industries." Lakes is one of the things Canada has the most of. Chicago said, "We didn't take your old lake. Half of it is ours anyway, and the half we took was only ours. We just dug the canal and the water used its own judgment. If it come our way it showed that it preferred that way, blame it on the water not on us."

We fought England once over tea. We fought in the late war because we heard it was going to be the last one, and we didn't want to miss the last one.

Next War Slogan.

But the next war looks like the slogan will be for all Kiwanians and Rotarians. "Is Chicago to mire down or is it to be allowed to drain?" "Rally round the drain pipe, boys." "Are you going to let Canada tell you when to drain?" So the next war you will be in water up to your neck. Get a bathing suit and go to war with Canada.

But never mind Chicago; just let us thank them for missing us while there. I know how Mussiloni must feel now after an extra bad bit of shooting on somebody's part.

As I go to press Mr. Kellogg has just dispatched Mexico another note. If Mexico don't hear from us every morning it's because we have run out of stamps. I bet you that Mexico in years to come can show more letters from Coolidge and Kellogg than Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Kellogg can. Even on Thanksgiving day when you would think everybody would be at home either eating Turkey or trying to think up some thing to give thanks for. But no, "Cal and Kel" dispatch their daily day letter to Mexico, to tell them what laws to pass that day. Last week it was "if they didn't recognize the President of Nicarauga that we had put in, why we wouldn't recognize them." Now this week we say, "if you don't let Americans own your land why we will break off relations with you." Will somebody please write and tell me and then I will shut up, why we are always picking on Mexico? We have got more oil in this country than we can sell. (The price is away off now on account of overproduction.) We got more land than we can farm. It's overproduction that is keeping the farmers' price down. And Mexico's dealings with Nicarauga? How in the world did we find out where Nicarauga is anyway? Every time you pick up a paper "the American Marines have landed at Nicaraugua." There has been more Marines landed in Nicaraugua than there has at the Brooklyn navy yard. Why don't we send Marines to Liverpool or Cherberg, France? They was throwing rocks at us over there all last summer and we never said a word. Well that was all right. We shouldn't have said a word. If anybody goes anywhere they ain't wanted, let 'em get lit. But what right have the Marines got settling an election in Nicaraugua? I thought even at home our army and navy have to go to South America to get into Politics. Lord, if it wasent for writing letters to Mexico we wouldn't need any Secretary of state. But will you please tell me because a Nation joins you as Mexico does us, does that give you more right to dictate to them than to Morocca or Monte Nego. If Mexico had an army and navy as big as ours, we would be as courteous and gentlemanly to them as we are to France and England. That's about all of that. I am, however, anxiously awaiting instructions from someone that knows.

Should Get Out.

Carmi Thompson just returned from the Philippines. We are in wrong with them now. Why we don't give 'em to them and come on home and get our little army together and pass a law to never let them leave the country again. We took 'em away from Spain in '98, and said as soon as we get everything running all right we would give them over to the people. Well if you can't make a going concern out of anything in 28 years, why you better get out and give up. So that's that.

Old Ferdinand finally threwed a big enough fit that the Queen went over to pacify him. There ain't any more the matter with him than has been the matter with him all the time. Well it is going to be a terrible blow to some American reception committees in those towns that she was supposed to visit and dident. They got all washed and cleaned up for nothing.

Well this old Country is just a little too big for anyone to go clear across and back, and expect to keep on the front page all the way. What kind of dress you are wearing in Mandan, North Dakota, on the thirty-fifth day of your stay kinder loses its interest. Unless she had appeared barefooted in some town, it dident have much chance making the Associated Press.

About four or five days is about as long as anybody can really go on high (publicity speaking) in this country. Even the old Prince of Wales hung around about 10 days too long. So her departure leaves me about the only one touring America. Say, what do you know about my old friend Bill Brandon, Governor of Alabama, crashing the front page by letting a fellow nail him with some hootch? "Alabama votes 24 quarts for Haig and Haig."

The paper says they found this hootch there, and no one of Bill's party would claim it. That don't hardly sound like Bill, not claiming it. He wouldent do a thing like that. So I don't believe what I read in the papers.

We have just had to turn back to England a rum ship that we went out 140 miles on the ocean to capture. They are wanting it pretty bad when they go out 149 miles to get some.

England just gave her colonies something. They all seem tickled to death. But none of them know exactly what it was they received. When they get back home they will find they haven't got any more liberty than they had before they left, but it sounds better.

In the Hall-Mills case, the lawyers were unable to confuse or baffle Willie Stevens in his testimony, so now he is spoken of as a "half wit." Its so unusual to get a clear-headed witness on the stand nowadays in any case, that one would naturally be considered "unusual."

That's about all the news there is. Oh! France's Ambassador to America resigned. He suggested paying their debts, and he was recalled. He couldent have been recalled any quicker if they had paid them.

The University's Needs

(Harvey Newbranch in The Omaha World-Herald)

The generous attention of all the people of Nebraska to the expanding physical needs of the state university is demanded by the reports of the deans and department heads in the current issue of the Nebraska Alumnus. A month ago a plan for campus development was suggested, and now the woefully inadequate class and library and laboratory space for the ever-growing student registration is pointed out.

Nor was it by chance, we may well believe, that Chancellor Avery in his own "corner" of the Alumnus, suggested that "a policy of no advances in salary for anyone, particularly the brilliant younger members of the faculty, will cause a gradual deterioration in research ability and teaching power as the years go on."

It is time, then, for Nebraska to provide for proper pay for its professors, if the school is to be scholarly; and it is time to outline a building program to care for the enlarging student body.

This is, of course, an unfortunate time to suggest expenditures, just when the state has found it necessary to register its warrants, for the first time in years. The next legislature will very likely find increased levies necessary to make up Governor McMullen's deficits, and may be in no acquiescent mood when new capital outlays are proposed. The university, nevertheless, is the most important institution supported by state funds. Upon its continued improvement depends, in a large way, the success and happiness in life of many Nebraskans; and it must be relied upon to provide the leaders in many fields of human endeavor in the state during the years to come.

It compels thought when one reads that the library facilities at the university are so inadequate that a building put up in 1895 to house 30,000 volumes for 1,500 students is still endeavoring to serve the needs of 10,000 students and a collection of 200,000 volumes. The library has been forced to ask professors to restrict their assignments for reading. Yet a library, with its precious tomes, is the record of the wisdom of all time, and should be the last place on a university campus for hanging out the sign "No Admission."

Dean of Men Chatburn presents a convincing plea for dormitories. It is a paradox that in a democratic state the most adequate arrangements for housing and supervising university students are provided by the fraternities and sororities with limited membership.

Most of the college deans have fact-stories of classes crowded into bad quarters, or scattered hit-or-miss about the campus; of laboratories making scientific investigation difficult; of nowhere sufficient space for studious work; a plant deteriorating; U hall razed to the first floor; more and more boys and girls coming each year from farm and town and city, young, eager, ambitious, energetic, beautiful to behold; the state's pride; and cheap provisions made for them.

The deans do not suggest that a huge building program should be launched now. The demand for keeping state expenses at a minimum would forbid. But Nebraska university is certain to fall of its purpose if an orderly plan for new construction is not adopted. That plan should provide for the necessary additions to be made in order of urgency as the public purse permits. That plan should embody the principle that construction should be continued without interruption, replacing the worst quarters first, and gradually providing the university with a commodious and decent plant.

Nebraska has reason to be proud of its state university. Its faculty has ranked with the best, and its [illegible] have gone forth into the [illegible] to do great things. All [illegible] done with her [illegible] ary, perhaps, in a [illegible] state, and a growing state, a state whose basic prosperity is found always in agriculture.

Now Nebraska is mature. It claims a place among the great states. It is developing a culture that is worthy. It is not just a place to make a livelihood, but is also a place in which one finds happiness in living. In such a state a great university has a noble burden of leadership. Nebraska must provide its university with sufficient equipment, sufficient desks, seats, chairs, rooms, microscopes, books and a faculty of high standing, so that the university will perform its task with notable success, instead of just well enough.

Nebraska will be the gainer. Life in city and town and on the soil will be more worth living; and men and women will find new fields of opportunity, as well as new vistas of happiness, opening before them.

ARTERIAL HIGHWAYS.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 2.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star:

I was certainly surprised at Mr. Duncan's statements made before the Sheridan Men's club in which he admitted public safety conditions were so bad in Lincoln that a vigilance committee of citizens was needed to enforce the law. This after his statements as to how he had reduced accidents in Lincoln some 60 per cent by treating the public civilly and taking them into his confidence. Like all amateur politicians he fooled the public with a lot of talk until cold-blooded figures showed him up.

What Lincoln needs is not a vigilance committee to enforce the laws but a government where there is a responsible head, who not only sees that the laws are enforced but gives the taxpayers an economical administration by the co-ordination of all city departments. An intelligent community like Lincoln, where the theory of government is taught, surely need not be run by vigilance committee methods.

Speaking of public safety on the streets, my most dangerous daily task is driving across those arterial boulevards where one speeder follows another at such a rate that it is not safe to cross over. Did not Mr. Duncan, not so long ago, favor increasing the speed limit from eighteen to twenty-five miles an hour? Streets were safer before stop buttons were installed. That's the reason I did not put them in. Instead of congesting traffic in arterial highways I favored letting it spread out equally over all our streets as few of them are wide enough for speedways. Also, as I said before, crossing these speedways is dangerous.

Speaking of a vigilance committee pinching speeders, didn't Mr. Duncan say he was not a policeman? That he did not intend to personally prefer charges against anyone which included traffic violators? Let him start enforcing the law himself for which he is paid and see what luck he has.

When I was superintendent of streets I arrested all reckless drivers I observed. I had poor luck in police court. I warned one deliveryman not to drive around my city car at 27 miles an hour. He repeated the offense and I arrested him. Judge Chappell dismissed him. A farmer driving without chains on an icy street dived between my auto and a tractor plowing snow, knocked down a street department employee and kept on going. Judge Chappell reprimanded me for bringing the man into court. After having a car pass me without lights I took the license number and had the driver brought to court. About seven members of the family swore the lights were burning brightly and the judge dismissed the case. Doesn't this look as if the court was apparently discouraging anyone who was not a member of the police force from preferring charges against reckless drivers. It is also apparently necessary to follow a speeder, obtain his exact mileage and stop him to obtain a convic-

UNSUSPECTED ILLS OF SEEKERS FOR INSURANCE BROUGHT BIGGEST LIFE SAVING FACTOR FOR FUTURE

Young Doctor Found Would-Be Policy Holders Who Couldn't Pass Tests and Formulated Periodic Examinations.

"'But what will that cost?' parried the executive."

BY PRESTON WRIGHT.

If you're intending to commit suicide, or if you are otherwise not interested in lengthening your years in this world, this article will have no attraction for you. If not—

Read on.

Perhaps the most important single fact of modern existence in the United States is that the average length of life has made a gain of fifteen years in the past century and is now fifty-eight years.

Latterly, however, periodic physical examinations of persons presumably in good health have done more and more to cut the death rate.

Many authorities say that hereafter periodic examinations will be the greatest of all factors in prolonging life. That is to say, diseases which were due to lack of sanitation in the past are now largely controlled by exterior precautions. But diseases due to insufficient personal hygiene, such as cancer, diabetes, apoplexy and the various organic disorders, are on the increase Tremendous Strides.

Last year several hundred thousand persons—exact figures are not obtainable—presumably not sick, were given examinations by competent physicians. This number, compared to total population, is small, but when one considers that the first examinations under institutional auspices were begun only seventeen years ago one sees that tremendous strides have been made.

How did this enormously important movement, which concerns every one of us, get under way?

In 1898 the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society of New York heard that a young physician in the employ of the Equitable Life Assurance Society had made a splendid record in the investigation of risks in the Equitable's southwestern division, headquarters at St. Louis, and offered him a place in its medical department which soon materialized into a medical directorship.

Eugene Lyman Fisk was the young doctor's name. Dr. Fisk welcomed an executive position because it promised him a chance to work out theories which he had formed from experiences in several years of insurance work.

There were the cases of men under examination for a policy who, apparently in splendid health, were found to have serious heart or other organic troubles.

"It wasn't merely that these persons were unable to get insurance that aroused my interest," says Dr. Fisk. "There was the larger condition that if they had been under regular inspection their cases might never have reached the point of seriousness."

Time confirmed in his mind the belief that insurance companies should educate policy holders in health preservation if for no other reason than to make a financial profit. He envisioned periodic examinations as a part of this program.

First Bureau Established.

Other medical authorities had been developing similar theories, but, as often happens in pioneering, without having actual knowledge of each others movements, Dr. Fisk was undoubtedly the first to transmute the idea into action.

This happened in 1909. On April 2, Dr. Burnside Foster, in a paper read to The Association of Life Insurance Presidents in New York outlining plans for the health education of policyholders in which he urged periodic health examinations every five years.

It was significant of that period that Dr. Foster's suggestion was received in cold silence by everybody but Dr. Fisk. He went to Mr. E. E. Rittenhouse, president of his company.

"Our company ought to establish a health bureau for the health education of policyholders," he said. "Also, we should offer policyholders free examinations every five years."

Now if Rittenhouse had been an old line insurance executive the proposal might have fallen on deaf ears. But he formerly had been state insurance commissioner of Colorado, had a more liberal viewpoint, and was, consequently, more receptive to Dr. Fisk's radical suggestion. The latter convinced him the bureau would be likely to pay its way.

"The plan strikes me as practical," he said. "Go ahead and get out a bulletin announcing it."

Dr. Fisk, the more he thought

ASA WOOD TELLS OF NEBRASKA'S FIRST IRRIGATION.

From the Gering Courier of November 26:

"Gene Westervelt may think he is introducing irrigation for the first time into Lancaster county, but not so. Away back in about 1892 when the first exhibit was taken to the State Fair, a miniature irrigation canal was built right on the State Fair grounds, just north of where the administration building now stands, supplied with hydrant water.

"A huge field was laid out (about forty feet square), sowed to oats, if I recall on Friday or Saturday before the fair. The canal was built with headgates and everything. The land was carefully selected so the slope was just right, and when the fair opened Tuesday the crops sure looked fine.

"It sure saved a lot of time telling what the word irrigation meant and saved a heap of explanation. Fred (Jakie) Wright, Wellington Clark and the writer were the men who took the show down, and thus began the real fame of Scotts Bluff county as an irrigated region. Our indoor exhibit was not very big, but the one outdoors drew constant crowds."

When a pioneer like Asa Wood tells anything historic about the great western county one must certainly believe it for Asa knows.

Just about forty years ago, Asa Wood set his face westward on a Union Pacific train and with him was a primitive printing plant composed of a coalhod full of type, a wooden case or two; a primitive press and a three-legged stool. Wood, leaving the train proceeded fifty miles overland with an old rattle-trap wagon and a pair of mules, horses or oxen, the same not being known, and landed at the town now known as Scottsbluff. There were no houses there, it being largely composed of a few rickety shacks, and a few pioneer stores and a hotel. Asa set his print shop up in a tent and proceeded to issue the first paper in that part of the country. Today he is one of Nebraska's most respected citizens; he has one of the best printshops in the state; he has a beautiful home, and a splendid building where his printshop is housed; he has been twice elected to the Nebraska legislature, and has made for himself a name such as the richest and poorest of the state's population would be proud and honored to wear.

The writer well remembers that miniature pioneer waterway, the forerunner of the great irrigation plants of the state and nation, where there is never a drought and where the first fruits of the land are raised in abundance.

HENRY ALLEN BRAINERD.

The Osteopathic Physician Says:

Some of the accomplishments of Osteopathy sound like miracles to those who do not understand the facts upon which the Osteopathic physician bases his treatment.

When Signaller Thomas Skeyhill's sight was restored to him in a single treatment after he had been totally blind for several months, it seemed to him that a miracle had been performed. It wasn't. The osteopath merely removed the obstruction to the blood and nerve supply to the eye and Nature given a chance to do her work, did the rest.

It is all very simple, but only a physician trained in the Osteopathic concept of health and disease can discover and remove the cause of many chronic and acute disorders.

Inquiries as to health matters and requests for Osteopathic literature may be addressed to the "Osteopathic Physician care of The Star."

The "Cricket on the Hearth" is an adaptation of the Dickens' Cricket, the English words by Charles Henry Meltzer. A ballet of crickets and elves under the direction of Donna Gustin, with seven little dancers from her class will be included in the class. The orchestra will be furnished and conducted by Carl Frederick Steckelberg. Fleda Graham will play the piano accompaniment.

STEINWAY
THE INSTRUMENT OF THE IMMORTALS

Josef Hofmann at his Steinway—Carnegie Hall, New York

All things considered

The factors to be considered in the selection of a piano differ according to the needs of different purchasers.

The master pianist makes demands upon his instrument that test perfection to the utmost. A tone that is sonorous and pure, a carrying power that makes practicable the most delicate pianissimo, an action that combines power, lightness and elasticity, mechanical durability—these are but a part of all the qualities which the artist seeks. And it seems conclusive that, for the past fifty years, nearly every pianist of the first rank has preferred the Steinway.

In the homes of music lovers the lasting qualities of tone and action that delight the masters are equally important. Where there are children the tone of the piano exerts an undeniable influence in the development of musical culture. It is for these reasons that the Steinway is made in styles and sizes suitable for every type of home.

It is conveniently possible for every music lover to own a Steinway piano. Steinway prices probably are less than you imagine. Your old piano will be accepted as partial payment. And convenient terms of payment may be arranged that will relieve the purchase of embarrassment.

All things considered—is there a single reason why you should longer delay the purchase of your Steinway?

You may purchase a new Steinway piano from us with a cash deposit of 10%, and the balance will be extended over a period of 3 to 5 years. Used pianos accepted in partial exchange.

Price Uprights $900.00 up

The Theatres

Dear Movie Editor—I have written to you quite a few times, but it seems as if my letters always reach the W. B. If at first you don't succeed try, try again.

Will you please give me the address of the following: Robert Agnew, Renee Adoree, Alice Brady, John Bowers, Wallace Beery, Katherine Bennett, Rudolph Cameron, Miriam Cooper, Joyce Compton, Hallam Cooley, Shannon Day, Ruby De Remer, Dorothy Dalton, Charles De Roche, Madge Evans, Harriet Hammond, Kathleen Key, Louise Lorraine, Alice Lake, Shirley Mason, Edna Murphy, Mary Thurman, Gladys Walton, Johnnie Walker and Gertrude Short. That's a long list, isn't it, but that's what you get for not answer my other letters.

I always enjoy the "Rattler" letters very much.

What has happened to Dawn O'Day? I thought she was a darling.

Thank you for the information—BOBBIE.

My punishment would have been just, Bobbie, had I really consigned your letters to the waste basket before answer them, but I deny the allegation. I wouldn't be guilty of such misdemeanor. I suspect that you didn't wait long enough for your answers. When the mail is heavy, it's often a month after you write me before your letters appear in print.

Some of your players have retired from the screen, so I'll do the best I can for you with their last known addresses. Mary Thurman is dead. Charles de Roche has gone back to Europe, leaving no trail behind him, but you might try addressing him at the Paramount Studio, Pierce avenue and Sixth street, Long Island, N. Y. Try Dorothy Dalton there, also. She married Arthur Hammerstein and retired from the screen. Ruby's last address was 33 W. 67th street, N. Y. Try Alice Brady at the Paramount Studio, also. She hasn't made pictures recently.

Shannon Day and Edna Murphy, F. B. O. Studios, 780 Gower St., Hollywood, Calif. Address Johnnie Walker at Universal City, and try Miriam Cooper at the Fox Studio, 1401 North Western avenue, Hollywood, Calif. Address Rudolph Cameron, 6 West 48th street, New York.

Dawn must have found a more profitable vocation, because I haven't heard much about her of late.

If rumor means anything, Constance Bennett, the blondest and cleverest flapper that ever a gentleman preferred, is to return to the screen. When she became Mrs Philip Plant she declared that she was through with the fillums forever. Possibly her fans have exercised a little mental control, and have telepathy-ed her back.

One hears a lot about the stars of the silver sheet, but, after all, those who form their background have their place in the sun. M Busch is a dependable performer who could get a few more breaks in her favor, but who always delivers when asked. Louise Fazenda is a stand-by, who injects a little mirth now and again, with good results. However, she doesn't receive much press agenting. Pauline Stark has come out from among those present, and is to do a little starring, after a long uphill struggle to fame. She is to have the lead in "Diamond Handcuffs," offered her by Metro. Mae Murray and Greta Garbo would have none of it, but it may be Pauline's golden moment, and she was wise enough to recognize it, and take the picture, even though it had been passed around.

You could as quickly picture the wan Corinne Griffith with a bull fighter as you could imagine a lily picking a lump of coal for a playmate, but truth is stranger than a man's imagination. Paull Ellis was a matador in Mexico a few months ago, after having conquered his enemies in the ring in other distant arenas. For the present, he is playing the role of an impetuous lover, in support of Corinne.

Adolphe Menjou has the starring role in "Blonde or Brunette," and the good old controversy is raging unabated. Greta Nissen, not so long off the Scandinavian peninsula, upholds the lightly pigmented ladies, and Arlette Marchal speaks for the darker ladies. At last report, the problm of the best int had not been definitely decided. In the case of "Blonde or Brunette" the hero marries them both, which may cause more trouble than choosing between the dark and the daylight sisters

Wanted: Six girls with long hair, slim waists, and good height. Paramount wants 'em, but Paramount having a hard time. That style of girl that was popular when father was a boy is about as extinct as the dodo, but the company needs them for the members of the Floradora sextette in "Casey at the Bat." In the good old days of hour glass figures, the sextette waists measured 18 inches each. The casting office has discovered that 23 inches is about the best size in this day. Iris Stuart has managed to get in under the wire, but she's only one-sixth of a sextette, and who can have a sextette with five missing?

"The Man Who Forgot God," is to be Emil Janning' first American film It's rather a sensational tale, and will afford an unusually suitable backer and for a star who isn't the accepted American ide a star. Now, the question is, who is to have the chance to play opposite the latest foreign importation.

Have we told you that the Marquis de la Falaise, who has achieved international fame as Gloria Swanson's husband, is to enter the movies as a comedian. We had a picture quite some weeks ago showing Gloria giving her husband the fine points of makeup, but we forgot to pass the news on.

Edna Ferber's "Show Boat" is to be made into a film. Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry will probably have the leads when it goes into production, sometimes during the winter, in the south.

High speed cameras "shooting" through whirling propellor blades to airplanes traveling at a speed of 130 miles per hour, are being used to register some unusually effective battle scenes for the picture of the war, "Wings," from an aerial viewpoint. Because of the terrific velocity attained by the 'planes, slow motion cameras are necessary to film the action as it should normally be seen.

Having successfully launched Charles Rogers, developed at the Paramount school, Richard Arlen, brought up from the ranks inside the organization, and James Hall, drafted from musical comedy, on careers as leading men, all within the past few months, the company took further steps to overcome the shortage of leading men in pictures by signing Douglas Gilmore to a long term contract. It is probable his first assignment will be opposite Bebe Daniels in "A Kiss in a Taxi."

Are you free from all self-consciousness? Have you that magnetic appeal which is irresistible? Are you a masterful and passionate lover—if masculine? Are you self-confident—indifferent to general opinion—individual—fearless—true to yourself? Are you capable of deep and sincere love? Can you give the impression that nothing on earth can influence or hold you unless you wish it should? Then, favored one, you have "It," of which Elinor Glyn speaks. Among those who possess "It" are Wallace Beery, John Gilbert, Douglas Fairbanks, the Prince of Wales, the King of Spain—and Clara Bow. Clara although at the end of the list, should be honored, for the English writer says few women possess "It." Actual beauty has little to do with "it," and a homely girl may have that quality of mind as well as magnetic emanation which forever makes her different.

York. He served as chief justice from 1906 to 1908, and was a member of the court from 1902 to 1908 and from 1910 to 1919.

Judge A. M. Post of Columbus, who followed Judge Cobb to the bench, returned to the practice of law in Columbus after his retirement. After serving two and one-half years in the consular service, a portion of the time in the Cape Verde islands, he began the practice of his profession there in 1876 After serving as a district judge, he was elected as a supreme judge in 1891, and served as chief justice the last two years of a six year term

Upon the conclusion of Judge Maxwell's term, Judge T. O. C. Harrison ascended to the bench. He had been admitted to the bar in 1873, and had served as police judge, county judge, and district judge, each for a period of eight years. He returned to Grand Island to practice law after his retirement in 1900, during the last two years having been chief justice.

Sullivan Elected.

Judge John J. Sullivan served as chief justice of the Supreme court from 1902 to 1904. He was elected over his opponent, also from Platte county, by a substantial majority in the election of 1897.

Judge Silas A. Holcomb became a member of the Supreme court the year after he closed his term as governor. After serving six years, the last two as presiding officer, he removed to the Pacific coast, where he lost his health He returned to the practice of law at Broken Bow, and in 1918, when the board of control was created, he was appointed a member. He was reappointed after three years, but retired during its reorganization. His death occurred about three years ago.

During the rehearing of the Capitol National bank case in the state Supreme court, Judge Jacob Fawcett served as chief justice. While a member of the Supreme court, he was acting chief justice during the absence or illness of the presiding justice, as well as serving during the prolongel litigation of the bank case. After his retirement from the bench, he resumed the practice of law in Lincoln, and is now a member of the firm of Fawcett, Mockett, and Finkelstein

Hollenbeck Dies.

The first judge to be elected on the non partisan ballot lived to hold court but five days. Judge Conrad Hollenbeck was elected chief justice in 1914, after serving on the district bench for eighteen years. He died fifteen days after taking the oath of office Judge Hollenbeck came to Nebraska from Pennsylvania in 1877, and served two terms as county attorney of Dodge county before becoming district judge.

Judge Andrew Morrissey, the present chief justice, was appointed to the vaccany left by the death of Judge Hollenbeck. Judge Morrissey came to Nebraska in 1890, and located at Chadron, where his older brothers were among the pioneer settlers. He removed to Valentine in 1898, and was elected county attorney in the fall. After serving two terms, he formed a partnership with Judge F. M. Walcott, and as a member of the firm of Walcott and Morrissey he practiced law until the fall of 1911 when he came to Lincoln. Here he formed a partnership with Frank M. Tyrell. In January, 1915, while holding the office of deputy attorney general, Judge Morrissey was appointed to the supreme court. In 1916, he was elected to fill the unexpired term, and in 1920 was re-elected by a large majority.

Charles A. Goss, Omaha District court jurist and former United States district attorney, succeeds Judge Morrissey as chief justice in January. He was admitted to the Douglas county bar in 1887, and has been a member of the legislature.

When our city officials advocate law enforcement methods of 1349 and our city hall affairs are in a hopeless muddle it is time to change our form of city government.

ALLEN P. COWGILL.

A Peculiar Economy.

College View, Neb., Dec. 4.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: For upwards of twenty-five years, perhaps, Lancaster county has made a practice of providing old soldiers with their annual supply of fuel without money or price. This benefit has been indulged in for so long that it has become a time-honored custom and by reason of general satisfaction on the part of our people, that is those who are acquainted with the situation, our county officials are many times commended for their interest and enthusiasm in this regard, for continuing the practice year after year.

Of course, there are those among our time-honored war veterans who are perfectly capable of financing their own fuel bills, but on the other hand we must not lose sight of the fact that many of them are not and should the county officials drop this established benefit many an old soldier would be subjected to suffering.

It has come to the knowledge of the writer that a certain assessor of this county—an old war veteran himself, enjoying a comfortable income and with plenty laid away for a rainy day, has instigated a campaign of economy in county affairs, and is proposing to do away with the annual benefits now extended to the war heroes by the county government.

Economy in government is perfectly all right, and no doubt there is need of it in Lancaster county, but the whiplash of economy should be directed along other avenues than within the ranks of our time-honored war veterans. Such a policy, more especially this time, will not meet with popular favor.

The people of this section of Nebraska constitute the government of Lancaster county, and from their decisions once formally pronounced, especially in matters of this kind, there will be no appeal.

AN OLD SOLDIER.

DISCOVERIES IN HUMANS.

about it, realized that five-year examinations would not be sufficient.

"I believe our plan should include yearly examinations," he told Rittenhouse.

"But what will that cost?" parried the executive. "How many will take the examinations? Is the number not apt to be prohibitive?"

Dr. Fisk knew human nature and the average person's careless attitude toward preventive medical measures.

"In no case will more than 20 per cent of the policyholders offered examinations accept them," he replied. "Probably only 10 per cent will accept."

This latter estimate proved correct. Ultimately, of those who asked for examinations, only 70 per cent actually took them.

But the plan worked out. Figures compiled at the end of three years, and at the end of five years, showed not only a reduction of mortality but a saving of money to the company.

The institution of the bureau was announced on August 21, 1909, in the Journal of the American Medical association.

Everybody knows subsequent developments. Today forty insurance companies give examination privileges to more than 2,500,000 policyholders.

Many great industrial organizations have joined the movement and individuals have participated, too.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company has reported that among policyholders examined in 1914-15, a reduction of 28 per cent in the death rate had been effected at all ages, while the reduction in the middle-aged group amounted to more than 50 per cent!

It is not hard, now, to foresee the day when every individual in society will undergo regular periodic health examinations.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—This is the first time I have knocked at your door, but as I have a lot of courage today and nothing to do I will enter into your most interesting department.

This is just a note to the person signed as "An Interested Reader, Broken Bow, Neb.," in the November 7 paper.

Here is my vote for Richard Dix. I like the rest when I can't get Richard, but I think Richard Dix is so far above the rest they can't see him.

If Colman is ahead in the contest, what are the Dix fans thinking about? I am sure Richard is more popular than Colman.

I want every Dix fan that reads this letter to write and tell the world about it. It won't cost you only two cents for postage.

I want a few addresses, if you will please give me a little more room: Mable Normand, Constance Talmadge, Richard Barthelmess, Thomas Meighan, Ben Lyon, Corine Griffith, Viola Dana, Laura La Plante, Pauline Garon, Mary Brian.

Who is the most beautiful girl in the movies?

Is William Haines very popular? Is Sally O'Neil a very good actress?

When a play is being filmed do the actors know their parts before hand? That is, do the actors and actresses memorize their parts before they film them?

I gues I had better sign off or you will have to have a whole page for just me.

All you Dix fans get out your paper and pencil and get busy. Your friend, PHIL, Hebron, Neb.

Now that the worst is over and you have "broken in" we hope you will not hav to do quite so much bolstering to your courage a second time.

Ben Lyon is at the Biograph Studio, 807 East 175th street, New York City.

Corinne makes pictures for First National at Burbank, Calif., and Laura La Plante is a member of the Universal force, Universal City, Calif. Viola Dana maintains a letter box at the F. B. O. Studio 780 Gower street, Hollywood, Calif.

There's a great deal of discussion as to who is the most beautiful girl in Hollywood. There are so many beautiful girls there that one lone movie editor could hardly pick out the most beautiful. Corrine Griffith and Claire Windsor are generally conceded to hold sway at the top of the list of beauties.

William has been striving for five or six years to become recognized, but it was not until the last year that he began making regular appearances in the "Answers to Fans" departments of the various motion picture periodicals. He is becoming very popular.

Little Sally's acting ability is such that she has no need to worry about her next meal. She's about as cute and snappy as they come, I think, and as charming in real life as she is on the screen.

It's not as necessary for a film player to memorize his part as it is on the stage, but the actors do learn their roles for the screen. Each player in a scene is responsible for his own particular part. The director, of course, governs the ensemble, and usually directs the gestures of the players. If the player forgets the exact wording of the lines he is to give, he can easily substitute others for a screen scene, whereas on the legitimate stage his lines may give the cue to another player and throw the whole scene out of kilter if they are not given verbatim.

Dear Movie Editor—I'm a new fan and a red hot one. I hope you can forgive me after reading what I'm going to say.

I've just read the "Answers to Movie Fans," and saw a letter signed "Rattler's Enemy." Well, young lady, or young man, if you are "Rattler's Enemy," I am yours, strong.

"Rattler" has talent, you can't deny that, and I expect you are a little jealous because you haven't the courage or ambition to try like Rattler.

I'd like to meet you face to face. You sound like a religious fanatic, or a saintly hyprocrite.

Come on "Rattler!" Show 'em your game yet. Let's hear from you again. I'm one that's with you. Stick to it, Kid.

Here, I cast my vote for Dick.

How is Gloria Swanson's name pronounced, also what is her address ? Hasn't she two children? Also, their real names.

Please give me the address, age, color of hair and eyes, married, any children and nationality, also real name of Marion Nixon, Laura La Plante and Gloria Swanson.

These three are my favorites: Charles Mack, Laura La Plante, and Gloria Swanson.

Say, "Rattler's Enemy," I don't like your talk about Rudy. We who loved him truly have wept over him. I know him personally. Some of you will laugh, but laugh if you will. I loved Rudy in his acting because he knew his stuff.

Well, Movie Editor, I hope this doesn't reach the waste basket, and I hope I may return again. TESSIE, Fairbury, Neb.

Whew! You even wrote on flame colored stationery.

I trust I am forgiven for cooling your letter down a little before it reached the press. We are very happy to have a bristling new fan with us today.

Pronounce Gloria, as the "glory" of the stars, with an "A" on the end. Swanson is pronounced as though the "A" were "O" in "on," and the "son" is the same as the "son" of a family. Write her at 522 Fifth avenue, New York City.

She has a real daughter, Gloria Sanborne, and an adopted son, Joseph. Gloria is an American, born in Chicago with brown hair and blue eyes. She is five feet-three in height and weighs 112.

Marion Nixon was born in Superior, Wisconsin in 1904. She is divorced from Joseph Benjamin, and has no children. Write to her at present at the Fox Studio, 1401 North Western avenue, Hollywood, Calif. Marion has brown eyes and light brown hair. She is five feet three in height and weighs 110.

Laura La Plante, the blonde star of Universal Film Company, Universal City, Calif., just became Mrs. William Seiter. She's an American, born in 1904. She's 5 feet-two and weighs 113.

Dear Movie Editor—I would like to know a few things about Olive Hasbrouck. How old is she? What is the color of her hair and eyes? How tall is she and what is her weight? Is she single or married?

Please publish answer in the Sunday Star. Yours truly, LONESOME HEART, Bladen, Neb.

Olive owes her luck in the movies to a nervous breakdown. She sought a job in the film colony as an extra-on-horseback, because the doctor had prescribed horseback riding for her. She was such an expert rider that she was given the leading role opposite Jack Hoxie in "Ridgeway of Montana." Olive is 20, has brown hair and gray eyes, is 5 feet-four in height and weighs 112.

Dear Movie Editor—This is the first time I have written to you, but I hope it won't be the last.

My reason for writing is to tell you that I vote for Richard Dix.

I think he is lots better than Colman. Every time I have a chance to see Richard, I go. He is far above all of the rest of the stars. I think he is just wonderful. He has such a gift of acting.

I am sure Richard Dix is lots more popular than Ronald Colman, but of course if he isn't, he surely should be. The whole world knows that.

If I am not asking too much of you, and if I am not taking up too much of your time, please send me the address for the following: Norma Talmadge, Colleen Moore, Buster Keaton, Richard Dix, Lila Lee, Betty Compson, Reginald Denny Alberta Vaughn and Betty Bronson.

In a book at school it says that in making a film they have a violinist to play. Why is it? Sincerely yours, A BLONDE, Hebron, Neb.

Richard is a popular young man in these columns to-day. I don't see how he's managed to elude the fair sex and maintain his freedom for so many years. He will be glad to hear from an admirer at Paramount Studio, Pierce Avenue, and Sixth street, Long Island, N. Y.

Music is used during the filming of a movie scene to stimulate the emotions of the players. It is sometimes supplied by a violinist only, but usually a three-piece orchestra is used. You know it's much easier to feel sad and cry, particularly if you have nothing to weep about, to the strains of "The Rosary" or "Aohla," than it would be if somebody just told you to cry for some particular reason.

Just try putting on a jazz record if you happen to be feeling a little out of sorts and sorry for yourself, and see how long your low spirits will last. Music has much power, as well as charm.

Dear Movie Editor—I am coming to you again for your wonderful answers, but hope that I'm not too much bother. You surely are patient with some of us troublesome folks. I appreciate it, too.

I'm very interested in "Jingo Jumbol's" poems, and especially that one about Rudy.

I saw "The Four Horsemen" and thought it was certainly wonderful. To one who has studied the World War and has not been able to realize how terrible it really was, the picture was surely a revelation. It helped me greatly with my history.

Well, I came to ask a few questions, so I'd better get started.

Is it true that United Artists are not going to send any of Rudy's pictures upo nrequest?

Will you please give me the age, height and weight of Pola Negri, Nita Naldi, Vilma Banky, Greta Garbo, Alice Terry, Marion Davies, Norma Shearer, Mildred Davis Lloyd, Sally O'Neill, and Clara Bow?

Also the addresses of Jack Pickford and Tom Tyler.

Would you please give me the cast for "The Sainted Devil," "Carmen" and "The Spanish Dancer?"

Could you give me the names of several gypsy plays that have been screened?

This is certainly a long letter, but next time I'll try not to write so much.

Thank you for your kind patience, THERESA.

Many thanks for your kind words to me. It's nice to be appreciated.

Several of the fans have had pictures of Rudy since his death, so Unted Artists must still be mailing them out.

Pola Negri was born in 1898. She is 5 feet 4 inches and weighs 118.

Nita is a year younger than Pola. She is 5 feet 8 in heights and weighs 123.

Vilma Banky is 5 feet 6 and weighs 120. She is 23.

Greta Garbo is 5 feet 6 and weighs 125. She was born in 1906.

Alice Terry is 30. She's an inch over 5 feet in height and weighs 115.

Miss Davies lacks half an inch of being 5 feet 5 in height. She is twenty-eight and weighs 123 ponds.

Mrs. Lloyd is 25. She's just 5 feet tall and tips the scales at an even 100.

Norma Shearer is 5 feet three and weighs 112. She was born in 1904. Little Sally is four years younger than Norma. She's about 5 feet 2 and weighs 106. Clara is a little over 5 feet 3 in heights and weighs 116.

Write to Jack Pickford at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio. Culver City, Calif., and Tom Taylor in care of F. B. O. Studio, 780 Gower street, Hollywood, Calif.

Nomads have figured prominently in a great many films. Mary Pickford was a gypsy in "Rosita," Gloria Swanson had a similar role in "Wages of Virtue." Jetta Goudal played a gypsy role in "The Road to Yesterday," and Ronald Colman is to be a gypsy bandit in "The Night of Love" which he is making with Vilma Banky opposite him.

Constance, Broken Bow, Neb.—Following is the cast for "Where Is My Wandering Boy To-night," which you requested a couple of Sundays ago: "Garry Beecher," Cullen Landis; "Silas Rudge," Carl Stockdale; "Martha Beecher," Virginia True Boardman; "Lorna Owens," Patsy Ruth Miller; "Veronica Tyler," Kathleen Key; "Stuart Kilmer," Ben Deeley.

Screen Siftings

Ready to Shoot—Ernst Lubitsch is making elaborate preparations for the screening of "Old Heidelberg", which he is to direct at the Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer studio. Ramon Novarro will have the role of "Karl Heinrich," the young prince whose only joy in life occurs during his stay as a student at the university from which the play gets its title.

Al Huber, the famous Berlin artist and costume designer, has arrived at Culver City to take charge of the costuming for the production. The picture is adapted from the novel by Meyer Foerster, which also served as the basis for the stage play that Richard Mansfield made famous.

Emil and Wallace Paired — Admirers of Emil Jannings and Wallace Beery will be pleased to know that the two famous character actors are to be featured together in a picture in the near future. They will each complete the pictures which have been allotted to them individually, and then co-star in a super-special. Jannings first American made picture has not yet been chosen. Mr. Beery is at work on "Casey At The Bat," and will follow that with "Lonie the Fourteenth" and "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Brothers Backs Adolphe — Henri Menjou, brother of Adolphe Menjou, has a brother in Adolphe's latest comedy drama, "Blonde or Brunette." Greta Nissen is the blonde and Arlette Marchall, the brunette, opposite Mr. Menjou. Other members of the supporting cast are Mary Carr, Paul Weigel, Evelyn Sherman and Emile Chautard.

AT THE CHURCHES SUNDAY

FREE LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
BY
Mr. Paul Stark Seely, C. S. B.
Portland, Ore.

Mr. Seely is a member of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ Scientist at Boston, Mass.

Lecture Sponsored by Christian Science Society of the University of Nebraska.

University Notes

Plans are already being formulated by the department of botany to repeat next summer the courses given in the Rocky Mountain National park in Colorado in connection with regular summer session work. Two courses will be offered the first term. A general course for students and teachers which will partially fulfill the science requirement for graduation is most important In addition, an advanced course is to be given for those who already have a good foundation in general botany. The classes will meet for the six weeks at Camp Olympus in Estes park. Dr. R. J. Pool, chairman of the department of botany, will continue in charge of this special work.

Precious stones recently acquired from the Wood Natural Science company of Rochester, N. Y., are now on display in the museum. Among the more important specimens are pieces of polished carnelian, polished petrified wood, and black and white onyx of the sort from which cameos are cut. The stones were all cut and polished in Germany.

"A Quantitative Study of the Anatomy of the Turkey Hen" is the title of a paper by Dr. H. B. Latimer, formerly of the university, but now connected with the department of anatomy of the University of Kansas, and John A. Rosembaum of the college of agriculture, which appeared in the October issue of the Anatomical Record. It has just been reprinted as number 146 of the studies from the zoological and anatomical laboratories of the University of Nebraska. The paper is based on work done last spring.

W. L. Bowlby, '05, vice president of the Deepwater Coal and Iron corporation of Alabama, is this month's nominee to the Nebraska Blue Print's hall of fame. The story of his engineering training and work is told in the current issue of the publication of engineering students. Dr. H. B. Alexander of the department of philosophy contributed an article on the fine architecture of the new capitol.

Dwight F. Dalby, secretary of the state department of finance lectured Wednesday morning to the class in public finance. He dwelt particularly on the work of preparing the budget for submission to the legislature.

Mrs. Harold J Cook, '10, daughter of Dr. E. H. Barbour, of the department of geology, has been visiting in Lincoln and doing some special work in the university museum during the past week. She is now teaching geology in the state normal college at Chadron.

Prof. A. A. Reed, director of the University extension division, has returned from Chicago and Ann Arbor, Mich., where he was doing some committee work in connection with the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools At the last meeting of the association a committee was appointed to bring before the association at its next meeting plans for the formulation of college entrance requirements in terms of a three-year high school course of the type which has come into general use since the adoption of the junior and senior high school system. Professor Reed is chairman of this committee Other members are: Dr. C. H. Judd of the University of Chicago, Ira M. Smith, registrar of the University of Michigan; Merle Prunty, principal of the Tulsa, Okla., high school; and H N. Ryan, principal of the Ben Blewett high school at St Louis. The committee will report at the meeting of the association in Chicago next March.

The entire process of preparing and identifying fossils was explained to thirty-five members of a Lincoln high school zoology class by Dr E H. Barbour of the department of geology last week when the class visited the University museum. As soon as the museum is established in the new Morrill hall members of the staff plan to devote special attention to the many groups of high school pupils from all parts of state which visit the museum each year.

The American Museum of Natural History at New York City has given the University museum a cast of one of its ver yrare fossils, that of a prehistoric dog-liko animal, hemicyon ursinus.

Lieut. Col. Albert Dockery, officer in charge of R O. T. C. affairs in the Seventh corps area, spent the latter part of the week inspecting the R. O. T. C. unit at the University with a view of determining whether the Nebraska unit will be fit for an inspection for the advanced or Blue Star rating next spring. Colonel Dockery made a thorough inspection of the military department's activities in the office, in class rooms, and on the drill field.

Dr. C. J. Franktorter of the department of chemistry and Dr. E. F. Schramm of the department of geology have been appointed by Chancellor Avery as faculty representatives on the inter-fraternity council.

Dr. E. R. Walker of the department of botany has discovered a new plant which a prominent University of Chicago botanist has named Oedogonism Nebraskensis The plant was found in a pond near the state fair grounds. A descriptive article with a number of pictures of the plant appears in the October number of the Botanical Gazette, published by the University of Chicago

Chester R. Bentz, civil engineering, '21, now resident engineer for the Iowa state highway commission at Winterset, Ia., was a visitor at college of engineering last week.

A number of Lincoln public school students, interested in civil engineering, visited that department of the university Tuesday morning. They were shown through the laboratories by Prof. C. E Mickey, chairman of the department of civil engineering, who told them of the requirements and training which a civil engineer must have.

George N. Carter, a student in the department of electrical engineering about fifteen years ago, has just been appointed commissioner of reclamation for the state of Idaho, according to a recent communication received by Dean O. J. Ferguson of the college of engineering. Mr. Carter's promotion to this post places him in a very responsible position, as he will be in charge of all reclamation and irrigation work which the federal government is carrying on in co-operation with the state of Idaho, says Dean Ferguson.

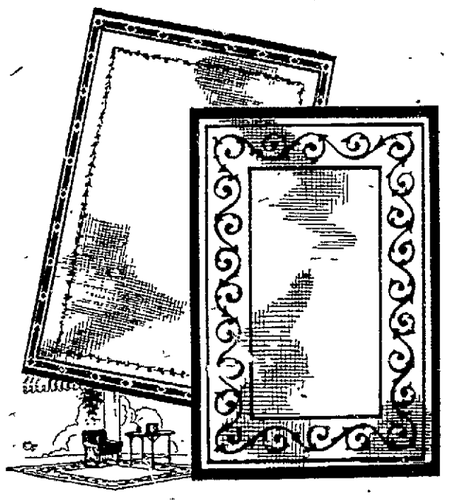

"Soil Conservation" was the general subject of a special meeting of the student branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers Thursday evening Fo rustudents gave short talks. The program was arranged by Ivan D. Wood, state extension agent in agricultural engineering.

THE GUMPS

POT OF GOLD

LAST WEEK AFTER A JOYFUL REUNION BETWEEN UNCLE BIM AND THE THREE ADVENTURERS AN EARTHQUAKE FOLLOWED BY AN ERUPTION OF THE VOLCANO UNDERNEATH THE MOUNTAINS MADE THE EARTH TREMBLE UNDER FOOT- AFTER A NIGHT OF TERROR OUR FRIENDS GAZED WITH AWE-STRICKEN EYES ON A MASS OF RUINS - THE CAVE OF DARKNESS CONTAINING THE CITY OF GOLD HAD DISAPPEARED FOREVER INTO THE DEPTHS OF THE CRATER AND NOTHING REMAINS TO MARK IT'S LOCATION EXCEPT THE GAS-LADEN SMOKE RISING FROM THE MOLTEN LAVA —

SIDNEY SMITH

GOLLY, I'M GLAD WE WERE NOT IN THE CITY OF GOLD WHEN THAT OLD EARTHQUAKE STARTED-

WE ALL HAVE CAUSE TO BE TRULY THANKFUL FOR A MOST MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM A TERRIBLE FATE -

DO YOU THINK WE CAN EVER FIND THE CITY OF GOLD AGAIN ?

NO HUMAN EYE WILL EVER GAZE ON THE FABULOUS CITY - IT HAS SUNK INTO THE DEPTHS OF THE EARTH - THAT MASS OF BROKEN ROCK BELOW US WAS THE TOP OF THE MOUNTAIN BEFORE THE EARTHQUAKE LEVELED IT INTO A SHAPELESS MEDLEY OF BROKEN ROCKS —

WE'VE SEEN THE LAST OF THE CITY OF GOLD AND YOU MAY LAY TO THAT-

THE ANGRY LORDS OF THE LOWER SPACES HAVE DEVOURED THE PRICELESS CITY TO SATISFY THEIR EXCEEDINGLY VORACIOUS APPETITES -

I DON'T KNOW HOW I SHALL EVER SUFFICIENTLY REWARD YOU FOR YOUR KINDNESS TO LITTLE CHESTER-

THIS COMMONPLACE PERSON REFUSES ANY REWARD BUT WILL ALWAYS REMEMBER YOUR WELL CHOSEN WORDS WITH EVERY APPEARANCE OF UNRESTRAINED JOY -

CHESTER HAS TOLD ME HOW OFTEN YOU RISKED YOUR LIFE TO SAVE HIM FROM HARM AND I THANK YOU FROM THE BOTTOM OF MY HEART-

SAVED HIS LIFE, SEZ YOU - DID HE TELL YOU HOW MANY TIMES HE SAVED MY LIFE - IF IT WASN'T FOR THAT BRAVE LAD SAM SALT WOULD BE KILLED A DOZEN TIMES OVER AND YOU MAY LAY TO THAT -

OH, UNCLE BIM THEY BOTH GAVE ME THEIR SHARE OF FOOD WHEN WE WERE ALMOST STARVING AND WHEN I WAS TOO TIRED TO WALK CHING CARRIED ME THROUGH THE CAVE OF DARKNESS ON HIS BACK AND-

IT HAS BEEN WRITTEN, ONE KIND WORD ERASES A THOUSAND SORROWS

MY ONE REGRET IS I FAILED TO REMOVE SOME OF THE GOLD FROM THE CITY - WITHOUT SOME MATERIAL PROOF, FOLKS MAY DOUBT OUR STORY OF THE GOLDEN CITY -

THANK YOU, CHING - I WILL PAY YOU TEN TIMES THE VALUE OF YOUR SOUVENIRS -

HONOR THIS ORDINARY PERSON BY ACCEPTING HIS UTTERLY USELESS GIFTS -

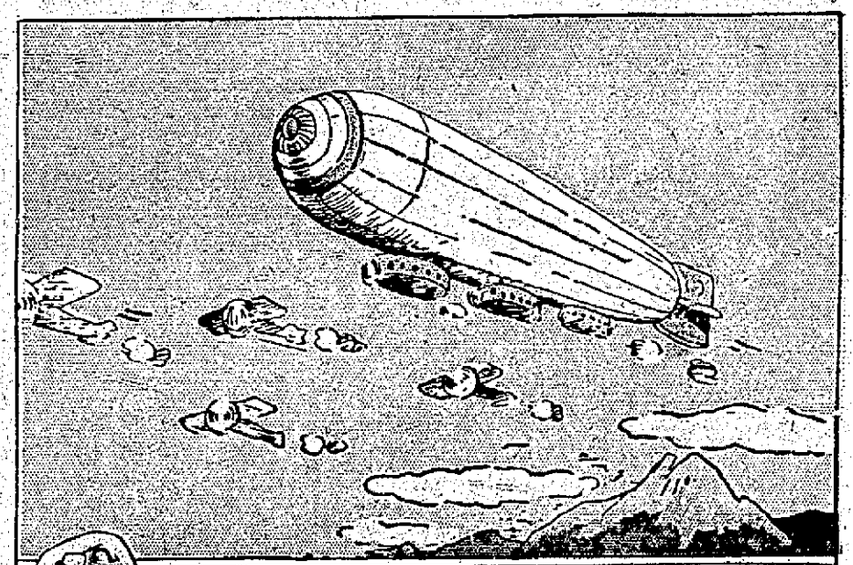

I STOWED AWAY A SMALL GOLD IDOL BEFORE WE HAULED UP OUR ANCHORS AND I HOPE YOU'LL LIKE IT AS A GIFT - I'M PROUD TO OFFER YOU -

AND YOU CARRIED AWAY SOME GOLD ALSO -

SURE, I FILLED ALL MY POCKETS - IF I ONLY HAD AN OVERCOAT WHEN I LEFT THE CITY I WOULD HAVE CARRIED LOTS MORE -

THE NEW DIRIGIBLE HAS ARRIVED, SIR - WE ARE READY TO SAIL WHEN YOU GIVE THE COMMAND -

THANK YOU, CAPTAIN - WE SHALL LEAVE AT ONCE AS I WON'T REST EASY UNTIL I SEE LITTLE CHESTER RESTING IN HIS MOTHER'S ARMS -

HOMEWARD BOUND THE GIANT DIRIGIBLE FLIES SWIFTLY TOWARDS AMERICA - THANKFUL FOR HIS ESCAPE FROM HARDSHIP AND DANGER CHESTER ONLY NEEDS A GLIMPSE OF HIS OWN HOME AND THE SIGHT OF HIS FATHER AND MOTHER AND ALL HIS LITTLE PLAYMATES - TO MAKE HIS HAPPINESS COMPLETE —
